

Associated Student Body

Robert Sibley

During a moment of reflection my fancy led me to picnic grounds. I was there with classmates, friends and relatives. Two organized ball teams were to furnish the main event in the forenoon. During the game I noticed a different spirit prevailed among players of each team. One team was losing. They fumbled the ball, they could not control their throws, they fanned out, they erred continuously. But note, there was not a word of reproach or cutting remarks given the fellow team members—every exchange of words was encouragement. The second team was very boisterous and noisy over their apparent victory. When a player erred all were quick to criticize him. Apparently they were star players, but they had not learned self-control. Eventually, however, the first team who had learned self-control took the victory because they had mastered self. They were courteous, thoughtful and practiced teamwork.

I like to class our Student Organization with the successful ball team, for we have a group of sportsmenlike students. They are energetic, courageous, thoughtful and willing to cooperate for the good of the Body.

(Continued on Page Three)

Fountain of News

How do you like our daily Criterion Supplement—"The Fountain of News"? If any dislike the feature, speak now or forever hold your peace.

The present idea was suggested by our able Student Body President this summer. After giving the matter its worth in consideration we felt it a commendable project to undertake. Therefore, in place of running a weekly paper this year (the change would cause considerable extra expense) it was thought best to continue a fortnightly issue of this size and quality, plus our "daily".

If the bulletin meets your approval please make it apparent by frequently submitting local news of interest to the editor—James Lee. Run all announcements of import, all lost or found articles through this medium and PATRONIZE ITS ADVERTISERS.

Young People's Society

Officers for the Missionary Volunteer Society were submitted and accepted by our church members last Sabbath, Sept. 2. They read as follows: Leader, Ralph Giddings, Assistant Leaders, Helen Osborne and Henry Kuhn, Secretary, Dorothea Findley, Assistant Secretary, Violet Giddings, and pianist, Richard Holbrook. The Young Peoples' Society represents the "spiritual pulse" of the student body, and with an inspiring group of officers as have been chosen, no obstacle should hinder the Y.P.M.V. of La Sierra in being one hundred per cent active.

ENROLLMENT TOPS TWO HUNDRED

State Claims Majority of Students

At the conclusion of matriculation, Wednesday, Sept. 6, the registrar recorded two hundred and two on the enrollment list for 1933-34. Considerable optimism has been expressed among our faculty that S. C. J. C.'s new year may yet witness the three hundred mark reached within this period. Students are arriving daily.

Naturally, California mothers the overwhelming majority (practically the unanimity) of the total. She claims one hundred and seventy eight as her natives, and they come from sixty different cities or towns. Just try pronouncing such localities as Paicines, Yucaipa, El Cajon, Lompoc and Martinez correctly. If in doubt, consult he or she who calls it "home".

But let us not forget the "faithful few" who come from beyond the "Golden State." Eight other states have their representatives here:

Arizona sends four, New Mexico three, Nevada one (true to its representation—a sparsely populated state), Idaho one, Oregon one, Kansas two, Minnesota two, and another two from the nation's capital.

Before leaving the continent we find one has arrived from the Canal Zone. Then we visualize in our minds the homes of five beyond the Pacific. They represent here the Oriental countries of China, Korea, Philippine Islands, and one from Mid-Pacific, Hawaii. Lastly,

(Continued on Page Four)

After the Similitude of a Palace

E. E. COSSENTINE

I count it a great privilege, in this first issue of the College Criterion, to have the opportunity of extending to one and all a hearty welcome to S. C. J. C., "the College Beautiful." Beautiful of campus, of view, and location, but far more so because of the lives of those, teachers and students, who have come to make this their home for the college year of 1933-34. That this year may be one of growth for each in grace and beauty is my desire.

That this year our lives may be built beautiful to behold, like a palace; yes, that they may indeed become the palace and the abode of the King is our united prayer. To build such a life will take work, earnestness, and determination, but is it not worth it? Which shall it be, a palace beautiful, or a hovel? Let us build together.

Evaluation of Benefits Received at S. C. J. C.

Dunbar W. Smith

The Lord sent me to La Sierra. He picked me up in the busy marts of America's largest city, and against my "better" judgment and inclination, entered me in what I considered a "one cylinder" school away out past the limbo of the beyond, and kept me there until the corners were knocked off and the waste places of my character filled in, polished, and baked in the fires of adversity.

The subdued laughter of "Prexy" and the farm "boss", as they watched the "city boy" ruin his best shoes in the slush of the dairy corrals on his first job, still rings in my ears. That job seemed to last forever—a vicious circle, one cowyard to the other and back again. My unique initiation made me appreciate other jobs when they came my way.

Job followed job. Divers and sundry experiences came in quick succession. Insurmountable obstacles looming in my pathway vanished when I forged ahead. At last, and surprisingly soon, I received

(Continued on Page Three)

Your Paper

Donald Davenport

Are you, fellow student, 100% in back of your paper or have you let yourself slip into that class of humanity which assumes a nonchalant attitude toward every project which takes a progressive step. If so, for your own sake as well as the rest of the students, get up and get out of that lethargic state of being which is so lethal to any thing aggressive.

Show yourself to be a 100% active member of your school organization. Work with a heart and mind to win and as a result your activity will energize others. Don't procrastinate. Now is the time for Action. Today is the day of opportunity. Business is taking strides forward. Let's fall in line with a paper that is better in every respect.

"We live in deeds, not years,
In thoughts, not breaths;—
He most lives, who thinks most,
Feels the noblest, acts the best."

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., September 21, 1933 No. 1

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....	Milton Lee
Associate Editor.....	Henry Kuhn
World News.....	Marion Leitch
Alumni.....	Maxine Curtright
Exchange.....	Robert Cossentine
Fountain of News.....	James Lee

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....	Richard Walters
Advertising Manager.....	Donald Davenport

ADVISORS

Business.....	A. R. Smith
Literary.....	J. P. Pentzling

EDITORIAL

ATTENTION—YOU'RE WANTED!

"Whatever caused you to come such a long distance?" queried a home student of his new room-mate.

"Oh—the folks wanted to get rid of me!" was the abrupt reply.

Silence followed for a few moments, when the questioner ventured a sympathetic tryout.

"Well, ya know, that's the way with all our parents—tickled to death to make S. C. J. C. a dumping grounds for their offspring. It's just sort of a way to rid 'emselves of rubbish you might say. They dump you off at the front door and tell you to get to work and not write home for financial aid."

Evidently the monologue produced the desired effect, for the newcomer looked up cheaply and drawled, "Thanks for those mild tongue-lashings of sarcasm. Thought at first that you were siding in with me, but I see now that you were only testing out my reaction. Yes, I take it all back. After all, our parents bear the heavier end of the sacrifice and I have no business laying it all upon "the folks" just because I want to go elsewhere. Don't worry. If they are all like you—why, I'll never be able to repay them for deciding against my will. Glad I came and am sure it will be the making of me".

Student friend, if your parents have persuaded you to make S. C. J. C. your harbor of education for a year or more, then you should realize that such parents are dearly interested in your future, all-round development. Take firm hold of its advantages immediately and hold on till you have reached your destination. Take an interest in the further successful development of NOW YOUR SCHOOL, which can only be assured through harmonious labor. You are ONE of the student body—be it eye, ear, nose or throat, it's impossible to move without you. And whatever part you may be, we need your active contribution. Why not prove yourself a true working member by joining heartily with each of your fellows in "putting over" this paper campaign?

The COLLEGE CRITERION extends to all an invitation to cooperate with them in making the Official Organ of the Student Body for 1933-34 an overwhelming success.

W. M. L.

Just Facts

Gene Luce

Did you know that Southern California Junior College is one of the most rapidly progressing schools of our denomination? Starting from an academy a number of years ago, it developed into a Junior College in 1927, and since, it has been advancing most rapidly, until now it is a full-fledged Junior College, recognized by, and belonging to, the Northwestern Association of Colleges and also recognized by the State of California as being fully equipped and up to standard, meeting all the requirements. At the present S. C. J. C. is the only Junior College in our denomination that has been accepted and accredited as a full fledged Junior College by State and Association. There are a few other Colleges that have been accepted and accredited as Junior Colleges but they are Senior Colleges.

Since our Science building has been erected and fully equipped there are two great reasons for drawing students from all over the world. A few years ago if one of our young men were asked why he came to S. C. J. C. he would probably say, "Well, I realized the advantages of a Junior College. For the Ministerial Course it is of great importance. Here I have an equal chance for two years to put in practice all I learn, and receive more practical experience than I could ever obtain elsewhere." It is true that former students have received a deep practical experience. Some have become evangelists, others, active Bible workers and Colporters, while still others have been inspired to go further on in College and be teachers.

But now there comes to our halls another class of fine, energetic students who declare they will become doctors, nurses or dentists by following the Premedical, Prenursing or Pre dental course.

When asking many of our future doctors and nurses why they came, they reply, "From all general indications S. C. J. C. offers as an efficient a preparatory work as I can find anywhere." Others say, "I am ambitious to become a doctor from the general surroundings of the Southern part of California. The White Memorial Hospital inspired me to become a doctor and S. C. J. C. is so close to Loma Linda that I can almost feel that I have already enrolled as a "Medic," and that realization is but a step off. I tell you, the atmosphere is altogether fitting for a prospective doctor." One student remarked that he knew no better place for he lived close by and could go home occasionally. But there are others who

Welcome to S. C. J. C.

We welcome you, new students,
As you come to study here.
We wish you great success and joy
Throughout this coming year.

From us, to whom this place has been

Both home and school combined,
Come hopes that in our midst you'll e'er

A friendly spirit find.

We also hope that we shall be
A kindly help to you;
And that, in turn, to us you'll prove
A constant blessing too.

Then, as the weeks advance to months

And we spend this year together,
United, may we make our school
The best and noblest ever!

A. S. B. Watchwords

Buy your A. S. B. Ticket now and enjoy it through the whole year.

Purchase your school sweater now, and show it off during the whole year.

Get behind the Student Body and support it during the whole year.

? ? NAME IT

The barbers' pole has come down from several centuries ago, when barbers performed minor operations in surgery; the stripes on the pole represented the bandages and the red probably represented Mercurochrome or what have you? Incidentally the barbers in the Orient still remove wax from the patrons ears. It wouldn't be a bad idea to use some flea powder also.

live at distant places who have found their way to S. C. J. C.

There are students here from China, Korea, Philippine Islands, Panama, and Germany and from various parts of United States. The good name has found its way to many foreign countries and the students are glad they came to S. C. J. C.

Prospective students, if your ambition is to be a doctor, nurse, teacher, minister, foreign missionary, or any of the other splendid professions that are taught here, be sure to come this next term, and if you haven't an ambition for any of these, come anyway. S. C. J. C. will give you an ambition and aim which will carry you to success. Just be honest at heart and meet with us next year. We believe that this coming year will be the biggest and best in the history of S. C. J. C.

Izat So?

CHAMPION

The Champion butter eaters of the world are Canadians, their per capita consumption of butter is about 30 1/2 pounds.

SUN TAN

This popular sun tan also has its draw backs—beware, medical science has proven that a certain type of cancer which affects the skin is produced by a prolonged exposure to the sun. Be moderate, it pays.

OPERATIONS

Cheer up Pre-medics, it has been estimated that American surgeons perform 1,000,000 operations annually.

They neglected however to say what percentage were successful.

SPELLING

Miss Ardath Hopkinson won first place in the state fair spelling bee. She failed to make 100% by tripping on two words Cincinnati and Popocateptl. Improve your spelling someday you may have a chance.

Associated Students

(Continued from Page One)

We have been thus organized for one year. During this past year great strides have been made to help develop each member into a potential burden bearer and organizer of tomorrow. It is the plan of the students that their organization shall rapidly advance in regards to benefitting each member. Therefore the present A. S. B. administration plan to profit from the successes of the retiring administration.

Our purpose in organizing is "to breathe and foster loyalty and devotion to the spiritual and social ideals and standards as set forth in the principles of Christian education."

It is the duty of each member to uphold the high Christian ideals for which the organization stands. Another duty is to bring criticism to those who are in a position to help adjust the situation and not tear down by stealthy criticism.

In turn the organization has a duty to live up to by each member. The truest of ideals and sportsmanship must be carried out in all contacts with members and non-members. The strongest spirit of loyalty must be fostered toward our institution and a spirit of progress nourished.

The final result will be men and women prepared to a high degree of efficiency to carry the gospel where the need is greatest. When this result is continuously achieved, our organization can be called a lasting success.

AMBITION DAWN

Barry's chief pleasures in life were enjoying the same things that five hundred other students in his J. C. liked. His daily life of work, study, and association with his fellow-students completely satisfied him—beyond that there was nothing that he wanted badly. He had no ambitions of consequence. True, he occasionally projected himself into a hazy future as a history teacher, yet with no definite plans to work on.

Still, he had one good point about him, dealing with ambition—he carried about a sneaking admiration of the student leaders in extra-curricular activities, and also a faint desire to emulate them. But the nearest that he came to imitating them was to foster a mild curiosity of how they did it. A mild curiosity.

Now, Barry might have continued his life indefinitely as was, excepting that for once he went to Rhetoric class early, that is, the bell had, not yet rung.

As he approached the door he could hear voices above the pat, pat of his tennis shoes. A heavy voice, suspiciously like the English professor's was saying: "Well, yet, Barry is in the rut, but he'll snap out of it one of these days."

Barry stopped, flushing to the ears, then stepped into the nearest door, which happened to be the library. When the bell rang he walked into the classroom with a group of his fellows, studiously reviewing, "Elements of Advanced Grammar."

"Listen, Duke," he said, bursting into his room after class, "How does a fellow get into the swirl, get to be somebody among the students, I mean?"

Duke looked up in pained exasperation from a table littered with trig. problems.

"Oh, I don't know. Ask Dunraven. Just dash in his room and shake him out of whatever he's reading."

"But he'll lecture me for an hour on the moral philosophy of the thing," said Barry, sadly kicking away at the table leg.

"So much the better," answered Duke, reaching for a table of logarithms, "You'll learn lots you never knew before."

Barry started for the door muttering grimly, "here I go to the sacrifice." Duke chuckled guardedly as the door slammed.

Now all boarding schools, especially small ones, boast themselves of one or more eccentric persons. Some of these people are insipient geniuses. Others are merely smoky. Dunraven was of the former class. His chief claim to distinction was his remarkable vocabulary, carefully compiled from fifteen years of gluttonous reading—he was not supposed to have read much before he was four years of age. When he was five years old, rumor said, his mother caught him, reading by candle light at two o'clock in the morning. He did nothing but read, excepting to write sonnets and essays occasionally, which he stuck

(Continued on Page Four)

Kampus Kwips

Henry Kuhn

Two adventurous inmates of Mu Beta Kappa Hall and two outside friends of theirs were recently sighted laborously pushing Willis Miller's Olds along a road near Lake Norco. They apparently cared nothing about the fine scenery, excepting to glance piercingly around occasionally for a service station.

One of the quartet hazarded a desperate guess that they had pushed twenty-five miles, but a more conservative estimate places the distance at one-half mile.

"I'd sure hate to race a train to a crossing and have the thing come out a tie."—Donald Davenport.

Al. Clanton's very commendable zeal for cleanliness resulted in great reward to him. He was the first person to use the new showers in the boy's dormitory. When asked his reaction to them, he replied in his usual terse style, "It felt like a pig in the parlor."

Thursday night saw the election of the new officers of Mu Beta Kappa Club. Professor Rieke introduced the various candidates to the boys with short, pointed autobiographies of about one line each. The main officers are: Henry Bruner, President; Gene Luce, Vice-president; Richard Holbrook, Treasurer; Nathan Candy, Secretary; Sargeant-at-arms, George Rutan; and Chaplain, Roy Sanders.

Evaluation of Benefits

(Continued from Page One)

the "sheepskin", symbol of attainment. After all it was so easy and so worthwhile.

Reminiscence brings to mind a wealth of values received at S. C. J. C. other than mental stimulation and expansion. I refer to the extra curricular activities, i. e. invaluable experience obtained along journalistic lines as a member of the COLLEGE CRITERION staff; cultural polish resulting from a working interest in the College Orchestra, Choral societies and other vocal organizations, the various clubs and classes, the Sabbath services, activities of the Y.P.M.V. Society, and the Ministerial Seminar. I could continue, enlarging upon dormitory experiences, receptions, various entertainments, etc., ad infinitum, but space forbids. To this list of memories permit me to add the acquaintance of a host of dearly beloved friends, "the cream of the crop" of Southern California's S. D. A. young people. The delicate perfume of their friendship lingers, filling my life with fragrance.

I bring to mind with keenest pleasure the environment of my beloved Alma Mater, affording ready access to the forest primeval, sunbaked desert wastes, frigid snow clad mountain peaks visible from the college campus, sagebrush covered hills, hot mineral springs, cold mountain lakes, the white beaches of the mighty Pacific, the mellowed walls of old Spanish missions, the ever interesting Mission Inn. Truly an enviable situation for any seat of learning.

There is yet another phase—the most important of all. That something which elevates S. C. J. C. above the ordinary Junior College and places her on vantage ground. I refer to the abiding Spirit of the Lord, which wove a golden thread through the tapestry of my school

(Continued on Page Four)

«Advertising is our constant companion and our helpful friend.»

H. I. SMITH
SUPERINTENDENT

THE COLLEGE PRESS
SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA JUNIOR COLLEGE

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA
PHONE 9180

Enrollment Mounts

(Continued from Page One)

we have one—now a two-year resident of Mu Beta Kappa Hall—from the Land of the Iron Chancellor. If S. C. J. C. can inspire one to come such distance, the Californians should certainly be proud of having our Junior College nearby.

For each student's interest the names of all enrolled members are being printed. Scan the list and pick out all the "tongue-twisters". Let's commence early in the year to pronounce each other's names properly.

Aam, Esther, National City, Calif.
 Adams, Aldine, Iliolo, P. I.
 Adams, Betty, Arlington, Calif.
 Adams, Morgan, Arlington, Calif.
 Alcorn, Chester, Arlington, Calif.
 Allen, Lloyd, Lemoore, Calif.
 Angell, Edwin, Loma Linda, Calif.
 Applegate, Galeta, Arlington, Calif.
 Angelo, Earl, Arlington, Calif.
 Atteberry, Nettie, Canoga Park, Cal.
 Avery, Montgomery, Pasadena, Cal.
 Barker, Raymon, Santa Monica, Cal.
 Bayliss, Kenneth, Yucaipa, Calif.
 Beattie, Robert, San Ber'dino, Calif.
 Brixner, Hazel, Hawthorne, Calif.
 Blakely, Mary, National City, Calif.
 Bartz, Melvin, Pomona, Calif.
 Bruner, Henry, Loma Linda, Calif.
 Buckley, Marian, Santa Barbara, Cal.
 Cales, Jack, Carney, Kas.
 Carlson, Esther, Arlington, Calif.
 Carr, Louise, Riverside, Calif.
 Clark, Ben, Arlington, Calif.
 Cleveland, Nancy, Riverside, Calif.
 Claunch, Leolen, Glendale, Calif.
 Cowden, Samuel, Arlington, Calif.
 Cox, Juanita, San Jacinto, Calif.
 Clement, Alice, Silver City, N. M.
 Clement, Lois, Silver City, N. M.
 Colton, Oran, Riverside, Calif.
 Cortright, Maxine, Hanford, Calif.
 Cossentine, Allan, Tsinanfu, China.
 Cossentine, Robert, Arlington, Cal.
 Cossentine, Ruth, Arlington, Calif.
 Cushman, Arlington, Calif.
 Couzens, Vista, Calif.
 Curtis, Carol, Glendale, Calif.
 Davenport, Richard, Arlington, Cal.
 Davenport, Donald, Arlington, Cal.
 Delafield, Richard, Arlington, Cal.
 Dillbeck, Dorothea, L. A., Calif.
 Davidson, Frank, Loma Linda, Cal.
 Elkins, Pearl, Sanitarium, Calif.
 Edmonds, Margaret, L. A., Calif.
 Ehrler, Walter, Niles, Calif.
 Findley, Dorothea, Lemoore, Calif.
 Folkenberg, Stanley, San Jose, Cal.
 Flannery, Ora Belle, Azusa, Calif.
 Flinn, Emma, El Centro, Calif.
 Georgeson, Louis, Escondido, Cal.
 Giddings, Ralph, Arlington, Calif.
 Garvin, Esther, Arlington, Calif.
 Giddings, Roy, Arlington, Calif.
 Grant, Millicent, Turlock, Calif.
 Giddings, Violet, Arlington, Calif.
 Gay, George, Arlington, Calif.
 Gonzalez, Moises, Ancon, Canal Zone
 Gustafson, Lillian, Rio Linda, Calif.
 Gass, Irene, Glendale, Calif.
 Greable, Adele, Loma Linda, Calif.
 Hadley, Marguerite, Lg. Beach, Cal.
 Harlow, Clarence, Rialto, Calif.
 Hamilton, Evelyn, San Diego, Calif.
 Hansen, Maynard, Fresno, Calif.
 Hawk, Dorothy, Boise, Idaho
 Hawks, Paul, National City, Calif.
 Hawkins, Ruth, Phoenix, Ariz.
 Herron, Virginia, Pomona, Calif.
 Hansen, Edward, San Jose, Calif.
 Herron, Kenneth, Pomona, Calif.

Heinl, Fred, Long Beach, Calif.
 Heinl, Margaret, Long Beach, Calif.
 Henderson, Lucille, L. A., Calif.
 Hester, Marian, Santa Ana, Calif.
 Hickman, Harry, Hinkley, Calif.
 Holbrook, Richard, L. A., Calif.
 Hawkins, Bernice, Rodeo, N. M.
 Hiatt, Harold, Modesto, Calif.
 Hillhouse, Doyne, Prescott, Ariz.
 Holmes, Gladys, Phoenix, Ariz.
 Holmes, Lillian, Fresno, Calif.
 Hughes, Virginia, San Diego, Calif.
 Jennings, Alberta, L. A., Calif.
 Johnson, Ruth, Riverside, Calif.
 Jones, Valerie, San Ber'dino, Calif.
 Kanouse, Marjorie, Honolulu, Haw.
 Kenney, Velma, San Diego, Calif.
 King, Jack, San Marcos, Calif.
 Kirk, Arthur, Martinez, Calif.
 Knipple, John, S. C. J. C.
 Knowles, Elva, Pasadena, Calif.
 Kuhn, Henry, Shanghai, China
 Kunkel, Catherine, Ramona, Calif.

Due to the shortage of space, the remainder of this list will be printed in the coming issue.

Students Greet Each Other In Annual Hand Shake

The first general social function of the year was the handshaking Saturday evening, the 9th.

By quarter to eight a line of prospective shakers stretched down the side hall of the administration building onto the porch. Shortly after, the faculty were waiting within the chapel, and the handshaking began.

At the close of this part of the program, the speeches began. Thunderous applause greeted President Cossentine's appearance on the platform, and continued for some time.

In an entertaining speech he introduced the new members of the faculty to the student body.

Professor Abel rendered a vocal solo and was encored to the haunting "Pale Moon," by Logan.

Robert Sibley spoke for a few minutes on the Associated Student Body. Here the speeches were relieved by a skillfully played piano solo by Richard Holbrook.

With a short, humorous, speech, Milton Lee welcomed the new students, and was answered by Stanley Falkenburg, speaking for the new students.

The evening was concluded by Professor Beisel with a masterfully interpreted violin solo, which was encored.

U. S. Largest and Oldest Tree

The "General Sherman" tree in Sequoia National park is said to have the honor of being the largest and oldest tree in U. S. It is 280 feet high and has a diameter of 36.5 feet.

In wood value this tree contains approximately 2,300 cords of wood.

Marion Leitch

Perhaps for our own personal use, at the end of the first six weeks' period we can tell whether or not the statement of Dr. J. I. J. Hurst of Cambridge University that brains are dying out, is true. If so, maybe a little study-fuel will bring them to life again.

Seems that the Cubans don't know their minds, which isn't unusual for the human race; but this really is a little too much when they drive their president, Carlos Manuel de Cespedes out of the country and now want him back again. Perhaps they were afraid they'd gotten out of practice in revolutions and wanted to brush up a bit.

So also do the Germans drive people out, but haven't heard whether or not they want him back again—this time Professor Einstein is fleeing from threats against his life to Belgium.

Everything seems loseable—and also findable. Two balloons were lost for a week, but found in Quebec not much worse for the wear. Also interesting to note that all the balloonists, Captain Hynek and Lieutenant Burzynski had to eat was a dozen oranges. Hurrah for California—or maybe it was Florida.

We read about "movie" doubles, and people who "double" to try and get other people's belongings, but recently two young society girls, Miss Hope Hildreth and Miss Anne Root doubled for Robinson Crusoe without any returns except multiple mosquito bites. They were marooned all night by high seas on a small island near the state of New York.

The search for gold has begun again. This time it is the Justice Department of the Federal government that is seeking a vast amount of bullion, coin and gold-backed bills. The sum is estimated between $100,000,000 and $500,000,000.

As another means for publicity the N. R. A. puts forth a 3-cent postage stamp bearing the legend "A Common Determination" and showing the picture of two working men, a professional man, and a housewife.

If one has a prejudice, it is generally the result of ignorance.—Professor Morrison.

Ambition Dawn

(Continued from Page Three)

away somewhere immediately after writing, and never thought of them again.

His physical appearance was no less interesting that were his mental characteristics. Tall and lank, a huge shock of dark-red hair hung perpetually over his right eye, but he never seemed to notice this impediment to his vision.

Rather nervously Barry Knocked. No response. He knocked again, louder. No answer. He banged. An automatic "come in," answered.

Dunraven was spiraled on the bed reading Sallust.

"Tell me, Dun," said Barry regarding Dunraven with subtil interest, "how does a fellow get to be somebody in school activities, or something?"

Dunraven dropped his book and sat up. "It's all in the mind; a person will attain anything he wants, if he wants it bad enough. The intense desire causes the mind of the individual to work subconsciously from all angles toward the end in view." Dunraven was so enthused about his subject, and the words were rolling out very smoothly.

"Then you have to make yourself agreeable to people. Treat them as if they were of tremendous consequence, and they are to your success." Now, this," said Dunraven, reaching for a book amid the vast pile of reading matter heaped on the table, "tells how to handle people, how to get them to do anything you want."

Barry reached for the volume, and with a hurried "thanks an awful lot, Dun," left. Behind him, Dunraven was still talking; faintly he heard, "Now, Hazlitt says—" and just then the door blew shut with a gust of wind.

Duke looked up with interest as Barry entered the room.

"What," he chuckled, "did the oracle say?"

(to be continued)

Evaluation of Benefits

(Continued from Page Three)

life, resulting in my consecrating all to the Master's service. That to me is worth far more than mere College credits. It is this quality in addition to the highest scholastic standards that make Southern California Junior College the Mecca of all serious minded youth who contemplate securing an A-1 training for any field of service here, and for the greater service in the wider field of the world to come.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Bi-Weekly Publication of Southern California Junior College

VOLUME V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, OCTOBER 19, 1933

Number 2

Cookman Lectures On Nature

With his irristable humor, Professor Cookman, famous nature lecturer and biologist, presented an intensely interesting hour of nature oddities Saturday evening, September 24 to a large group of students and friends in the College Chapel.

He showed a valuable Flightless Cormorant, stuffed snakes, butterflies and various assorted birds, to mention a few of his exhibits.

In a curious story he told how he came in possession of the rare Flightless Cormorant, which is found only in Talcaas Cove in the Galapagos Islands. Only six live birds of this species are in the United States.

This particular specimen was secured by the George Allen Hancock Expedition to the Galapagos Islands. An agreement was made that Cookman got the bird if it died on U. S. soil. And it obligingly did so! Professor Cookman assured the audience that he didn't poison it.

The Mongoose, he stated, was not immune to the venom of the cobra of India, but that it stays just out of striking range of the reptile until it tires, then at the moment when the snake is wearied and a little careless, the mongoose springs, clamping shut its upper and lower jaws, suffocating it to death.

Fountain of News

This daily supplement to the CRITERION is entering the seventh week of its life, during which it has enjoyed a wide popularity among the students.

It originated, incidentally, in Professor Abel's suggestion at a certain dinner.

Being posted every school day in a number of strategic points on the grounds, it gives latest news.

While this daily is a new idea, it should succeed financially, and in a literary way also.

A long and prosperous life is predicted!

Two kinds of people are always in tough luck: Those who did it and never thought, and those who thought and never did it.

Criterion Campaign Closes With Nearly 700 Subscriptions

After a last minute rally the Criterion Campaign closed on Thursday evening at six o'clock with 661 Subscriptions in.

Oran Colton turned in the largest number of subscriptions of any one person, 33. Gene Luce came in second with 22, and Ruth Smith third, with 16.

Gene Luce's Band was the first to earn its goal, 50 Subs., and also had the highest number of Subs. at the finish, 79.

Galeta Applegate's Band won its goal also, Oran's faithful work showing to good advantage.

A. S. B. Outing

An excited group of A. S. B. Members left the edge of the fishponds about 1:30 on an afternoon picnic to a little valley near the school.

Early, a rather tight football game developed between two teams of the men, as the score, 6-0, shows. Vanos showed some fine bullet-passes, and Lawrence Nelson some good receiving.

The girls meanwhile played indoor.

A little earlier in a game of skip-ropo Ruth Hawkins won a "Scotch-bagpipe."

Sometime in the morning some kind fairies had taken thirty-five watermelons to the valley, and these interested the group for some time.

President Cossentine and Professor Merrison arrived on the grounds in the late afternoon.

The crowd came home just before supper, but we presume they didn't eat.

Spanish Club Notes

Resignation of Bill Miller due to other pressing duties caused a new election to the Presdiency at the last meeting of the club.

Oran Colton was nominated and duly placed in office.

This business out of the way, the members present were divided into four groups to play anagrams.

The section led by Jean Smith (Ivan Martin, A Cossentine and K. Balies) won the series.

Chapel Notes

Elder A. W. Spaulding chose for his subject in Chapel, September 25, 1933, "The Social Relation of Young People."

In adolescence we come to the beautiful gate of life. During this time natural emotions are to be given to God.

He stated "love is the electric current of the soul," it can be beneficial or harmful.

On Tuesday he used the text, "Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness," as his topic. True beauty is embodied in personal health, intellectually, purity of soul, and unselfish service.

On Wednesday he took his title from the Declaration of Independence: "The pursuit of happiness." The laws of happiness are: aim and balance in seeking happiness, and giving joys that are received to another. Do all things for pleasure with the aim of greatest usefulness for happiness.

On Friday Elder Sorenson emphasized the nearness of Christ's second coming, and of the need of the world. He stated that this school is an officer's training camp and by taking part in Harvest Ingathering more capacity for leadership in God's army is acquired. "Can you afford not to take part?"

Elder Nielson, on Monday, October 9, brought out that on the mental and physical attitude depends success. Three things are necessary in Harvest Ingathering: prayer, work, and a smile.

Hollywood Quartet Entertains

The Hollywood Male quartet, considered by many as the most popular of its type on the coast, entertained students and visitors from the village in the College Chapel, Saturday eve, October 14, commencing at 7:45.

The entire program consisted of secular classics, the conclusion of each being met by thundrous applause from an appreciative audience.

The quartet members proved to be interesting characters from their individualistic actions upon the platform. Each commanded a separate interest peculiar to himself.

The Hollywood quartet was accompanied by a concert pianist.

Cottrell Visits S.C.J.C.

As our week-end guest of October 12, 13, and 14, we were privileged to have Elder and Mrs. Cottrell. Elder Cottrell is pastor of the Santa Monica church.

Addressing the students in the vesper hour, he gave an intensely interesting talk, instructing us to look upward instead of downward into the well-pits of despair.

Sabbath at the 11:00 hour he talked of the wonders of the age and their relation to the end of time. In the days of Christ there was a supreme kingdom, thus speeding up the preaching of the gospel. So in our day the radio, the telegraph, the aeroplane and the many other inventions hasten on the soon coming end of time by reducing the entire world to a neighborhood . . .

Journalism Class Activities

Professor Fentzling's class in Journalism visited the school shop during a recent class period.

Mr. H. I. Smith explained the operation of various appliances and also discussed terms used by printers.

Different members asked to see type-lice, and one was heard calling upon James Lee to get out the cage, but they were unable to find any of these minute animals.

The class has turned to reporting for the Fountain of News and the CRITERION. Each member has a regular "beat", which he is expected to cover. This is valuable laboratory practice and is of much help to the two above-named publications.

Cossentine Speaks In Chapel

Choosing as his text Ps. 1:4; "Commune with your heart and be still," President Cossentine applied it very directly to the students in chapel Wednesday the 4th, urging quietness in the assembly period.

He mentioned as an example the marvelous quietness of the cathedrals.

He drew attention to the value of the chapel period by the amount of time spent in preparation for it. "Hours," he stated, "and perhaps days have gone into a twenty-minute talk."

His strong, forceful points were none the less effective for being clothed in his delightful humor.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., October 19, 1933 No. 2

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879.
Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....	Milton Lee
Associate Editor.....	Henry Kuhn
World News.....	Marion Leitch
Alumni.....	Maxine Cortright
Exchange.....	Robert Cossentine
Fountain of News.....	James Lee

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....	Richard Walters
Advertising Manager.....	Donald Davenport
Circulation Manager.....	Arnold Mueller

ADVISORS

Business.....	A. R. Smith
Literary.....	J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

THOSE LITTLE THINGS

Does a sarcastic remark irritate you? Are you annoyed by trifling incidents? Hazlitt, the well-known meta-physicist, noted this very human characteristic and wrote:

"... We pamper little griefs into great ones, and bear great ones as well as we can."

And from that statement one's mind will revert immediately to the innumerable worthless little "gripping thoughts" that clutter the mind.

Life is too short and full of important pursuits for one to waste a minute in grudges and bitter imaginings.

TIME

We are accustomed to take Life as it comes day by day without realizing that it's passing. Today's assignments in classwork will not again be yours to do... so concentrate your attention on them, because you can only prepare them once.

DON'T KNOCK

Your school. It was founded to give you the best possible, all-around training, so boost your school.

GRADES

Have you noted what a vast majority of students average only about "C" in grade ratings? Have you viewed your own report cards with a certain amount of dissatisfaction? In this school there are probably not over a half dozen students mentally incapable of making at least "B" averages. The whole trouble is revealed in a question Professor Morrison asked a failing student last year: "What's the matter, Have you lost your interest?" Interest!

But you say, "I have no interest in College Chemistry, or Rhetoric." It lies with you. Approach the subject with a learner's curiosity to find WHY, and your troubles are mostly solved. Now is the time to interest yourself in your studies.

TROUBLE

Trouble and difficulty come to us in different forms, and though generally unwelcome, they are a blessing for at least two reasons:

First, they polish off the rough corners of our character. As long as one does not conform to the rules of life... and they are fair... he will be knocked and knocked further until experience teaches him to obey. Then he has acquired wisdom.

Second, this reason is entitled to less consideration than the other... Life as conducted now would not be nearly so interesting if there were no obstacles to overcome, and nothing valuable to fight for.

H. L. K.

The Editor's Song

If you have a tale to tell,
Boil it down!
Write it out and write it well,
Being careful how you spell;
Send the kernel, keep the shell;
Boil it down! Boil it down!

Then, when all the job is done,
Boil it down!

If you want to share our fun,
Know just how a paper's run,
Day by day from sun to sun,
Boil it down! Boil it down!

When there's not a word to spare
Boil it down! Boil it down!
Heave a sigh and lift a prayer,
Stamp your foot and tear your hair,
Then begin again with care—
Boil it down! Boil it down!

When, all done, you send it in,
We'll boil it down.
Where you end there we begin;
It is our besetting sin;
With a scowl or with a grin,
We'll boil it down; boil it down.

Ambition Dawn

(concluded)

"Oh," said Barry, "His burden was that anyone wanting to be somebody must have a big ambition and cultivate the people. Here's a book he foisted off on me. Where shall I hide it?"

"Hide it? He gave it to you to increase your knowledge, prune," answered Duke severely.

Barry sprawled out in his chair and opening the book beheld:

"Hazlitt was a firm believer in man's innate ability to earn any position he wished, only, the desire must be a tremendous dynamic want that lived in its ultimate fulfillment."

Well, that, Barry decided, wasn't obscure. He read for nearly two hours, ending with the very good and practical:

"Interest yourself in other people; find out their likes and hobbies, talking to them on these subjects. They will feel that you like them and this will contribute materially to your advancement..."

At dinner that day he chanced to sit by a printing student whose sole enthusiasm, Barry knew, was to be always designing something new in letterheads.

"Well, what's your latest in return addresses?" asked Barry pleasantly.

"No, not that, but here's an idea for the A. S. B. letterheads." The printer was all aglow in a moment. He reached for a sack-lunch slip and began drawing on it. Barry watched intently and commented, occasionally.

"Come up," the printer finished, "and I'll show you the one we use at the shop."

Yes, thought Barry, the book was right. You had to interest yourself in people. But what about the dynamic ambition?

Well, he'd try it. Maybe something in the A. S. B. Business managership would be about right... and he fell to eating.

For a month Barry assiduously made friends with his classmates. Nothing of an astounding nature happened, but he felt a new, peculiar pleasure from his associations.

Then the gymnasium drive started. He was chosen to lead a band. He worked ferociously, taking members of his section out nearly every afternoon to solicit, and making little, fiery, "get behind, and push," speeches. He grew to have such a mania to see the campaign succeed that he forgot entirely for a time about wanting to be business manager.

His band seemed to hold second place very well, but couldn't gain much on the one in 1st place. And that was the way it ended when the campaign was over.

It was near the end of the 1st semester, now, Barry, still living in the glory of the campaign finish, fell out of it with a bump when Wotkyns, chairman of the A. S. B. nominating committee proposed that he run for manager of the Association.

"Well," said Barry doubtfully, at least he tried to sound doubtful. "I'm carrying heavy work, you know. But say, could I have until after supper to decide?" He mustn't be too eager.

"Yes, you can if you'll decide to take it. Can't run without you, you know," said Wotkyns banteringly.

(Continued on Page Four)

Answer to Thumb Nail sketch: Velma Kenny.

FRANZEN'S

RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

HEADQUARTERS FOR
Roofing
Paints
Builders Hardware

Furniture Stores
Hardware
China
Silver
Glass Ware
Floor Coverings

Marion Leitch

The present German government has driven many people out of its bounds but now plans are being discussed whereby all "pure Aryan" German film stars will be ordered to return to Germany to participate in the "cultural rebirth" of the nation.

And even the New York Stock Exchange objects to what it terms "excessive and discriminatory taxation" and so is moving to New Jersey.

It is a common-place, every-day story when the boss fires an employee but when he fires himself that's a different story—such as when Manager-Mayor Gordon P. Fought of Wheeling, West Virginia, "fired" himself and 270 city employees.

Another proof to be added to the old saying that "you can't get something for nothing" is made by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal emergency relief director in his plan to corral every transient unemployed person, professional or amateur, in Federal "concentration centers" for care and education. We presume the education is so those being "concentrated" will learn better than to ask for "something for nothing."

And now again Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd is off on his two-year expedition to Little America, as also are Sir Hubert Wilkins and Lincoln Ellsworth. On the Byrd flagship, along with other unusual cargoes, sail eight Arctic huskies and a large-footed kitten "Snowshoes", which is the mascot for the ship.

German Club

Carol Curtis, studious pre-med., was elected President at the organization of the German Club, Wednesday the 27th. At the same meeting Clementina Nicholas was voted secretary.

At the last meeting of the club, the members presented autobiographies of themselves—interesting and informative.

Abraham's Clothing

Everything for Father and Son

"Service With A Smile"

Arlington, California

Thumb Nail Sketches

Guess Who

Of medium height, blue eyes, with light brown hair, she was born in San Diego. She can't remember the first thing she remembers, but thinks it must have been a spanking.

Her hobby is teasing people, her aim in life is to be a school-marm.

The most exciting incident in her life was an airplane ride during which the ignition was turned off.

You Tell 'em, I Stutter

The editor of a small town newspaper explains the loss of the letter "s" from his composing room as follows:

"Latht night thome thneaking thecoundrel thtrole into our compothing room and pilfered the cabineth of all the thetheth! Therefore we would like to take advantage of thith opportunity to apoligize to our raderth for the general inthipid appearance of your paper. We would altho like to thtate that if any time in the yearth to come we thould thee thith dirty thnake in the grathth, about the premi-theth,, it will be our complete and thourough thatithfaction to thoot him full of holeth. Thank you!"
—Patton's Monthly.

An English cub reporter, frequently reprimanded for leaving too many details and warned to be brief, turned in the following:

"A shooting affair occurred last night. Sir Dwight Hopeless, a guest at Lady Panmore's ball, complained of feeling ill, took a highball, his hat, his coat, his departure, no notice of his friends, a taxi, a pistol from his pocket, and finally his life. Nice chap. Regrets and all that."—"Bruce" Every Month.

Kampus Kwips

by H. K.

In Public Speaking class Professor Fentzling has a strong aversion to anyone's claiming to be affected with stage fright, or fear, and he delicately checks the occasional remarks of semi-humorous pessimism that are made.

The other day a low murmur broke out from the side of the room when he was telling the class they were all "In the same boat."

"What was that?" he asked.

"It's sinking," said Dinah.

The as yet unknown author of the poem in the last Criterion has threatened me with various and sundry medeaval tortures if her name is revealed; among these promised pleasures is boiling in hot oil. In spite of these strong deterrents, duty to the reading public demands that her name be made known. It is, . . . er . . . Frances Rutan.

"Live present, not a million years from now . . ."—Geo. Van Auken.

What about those strong-minded people? Once upon a time an individual entered Worship at MBK while some voting or other was in progress.

"What's this," he asked. "Give me a piece of paper; I want to vote against it."

Continued List of Students

- Barber, Pearl, Grass Valley, Calif.
- Belding, Verna, National City, Cal.
- Bond, Delmer, Arlington, Calif.
- Broadbent, Earnest, Arlington, Cal.
- Blalock, Fletcher, Loma Linda, Cal.
- Candy, Nathan, Los Angeles, Calif.
- Clanton, Albert, Norwalk, Calif.
- Cowden, Samuel, Arlington, Calif.
- Cox, Mabel, San Jacinto, Calif.
- Chagnon, Remi, Corona, Calif.
- Dockham, Arthur, Pasadena, Calif.
- Dunn, Robert, Lincoln, Nebraska
- Dunn, Wilbur, Lincoln, Nebraska
- Fresk, Ernest, Long Beach, Calif.

- Gahagan, Ruth, Arlington, Calif.
- Garvin, Esther, Arlington, Calif.
- Giddings, Ralph, Arlington, Calif.
- Gonzalez, Moises, Ancon, C. Zone
- Grant, Frank, N. Hollywood, Calif.
- Hansen, Edward, San Jose, Calif.
- Harris, Doris, Cicero, Indiana
- Hayes, James, Needles, Calif.
- Herron, Virginia, Pomona, Calif.
- Hunter, Nadine, Brea, Calif.
- Jones, Vernice, Yorba Linda, Calif.
- Larson, Esther, Los Angeles, Calif.
- Lay, Hazel, San Bernardino, Calif.
- Lee, James, Sonan, Chosen, Japan
- Lee, Milton, Shanghai, China
- Leitch, Marion, Glendale, Calif.
- Lieberthal, Harriet, L. Linda, Calif.
- Lindbeck, Laurel, Arlington, Calif.
- Lorenz, Irvin, Arlington, Calif.
- Lorenz, Wallace, Arlington, Calif.
- Lovold, Evelyn, San Gabriel, Calif.
- Luce, Gene, Bakersfield, Calif.
- Mandemaker, Jacoba, Mar Vista, C.
- Mann, Inez, Los Angeles, Calif.
- Mann, Victor, Loma Linda, Calif.
- Martin, Bernadine, Pomona, Calif.
- Martin, Crystelle, Arlington, Calif.
- Martin, David, Arlington, Calif.
- Martin, Ivan, Arlington, Calif.
- Mattison, Ben, Riverside, Calif.
- Meador, Vera, Phoenix, Ariz.
- Mickel, George, Norco, Calif.
- Miles, Ernest, Fallon, Nevada
- Miles, Percy, Fallon, Nevada
- Miller, William, Los Angeles, Calif.
- Miller, Willis, Shanghai, China
- Minke, Adelyne, Rio, Linda, Calif.
- Mitchell, Viola, Phoenix, Arizona.
- Morgan, Austin, Arlington, Calif.
- Morgan, Chas., Arlington, Calif.
- Morgan, Dorothy, Arlington, Calif.
- Morgan, Mildred, Arlington, Calif.
- Mueller, Arnold, Germany
- Muff, Anthony, Venice, Calif.
- Munson, Eugene, Arlington, Calif.
- Munson, Ralph, Arlington, Calif.
- Murdick, Mildred, Bakersfield, Cal.
- Myers, Betty, Arlington, Calif.
- MacKersie, Mary, Hemet, Calif.
- McKim, Jean, Anaheim, Calif.
- Neidigh, Rodger, Los Angeles, Cal.
- Nelson, Lawrence, Los Angeles, Cal.
- Nephew, Dorothy, El Cajon, Calif.

(Continued on Page Four)

Visit the Photo Craft Studio
For Fine Photographs Phone 117

E. N. FAIRCHILD
Riverside

THE COLLEGE PRESS

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA JUNIOR COLLEGE

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA

H. I. SMITH, SUPERINTENDENT

PHONE: 9180

1933	OCTOBER	1933
SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31

INITIALED STATIONERY

RECEIPTS STATEMENTS

LETTERHEADS ENVELOPES

ANNOUNCEMENTS PROGRAMS

"Advertising is our constant companion and our helpful friend."

Cultivate Them While They're Young

Allan Cossentine

Hear ye a parable;

A certain man set forth upon a project, the completion thereof requiring much time and patience. But this man was strong minded and had much forbearance with all things connected with the project. He therefore set out with great confidence and expectation upon this enterprise that was dear to his soul.

Now there were certain of his neighbors and friends who were not of the same mind as he, and tried by devious means to dishearten and discourage him from the doing of this thing. But the lord of the project was not to be discouraged from doing it nor did his love for it lessen.

And there were also among his neighbors enemies who would make of his undertaking a point of reproach unto him. But the lord of the project was not disconcerted in the least, nor was he made to lose interest in his plans.

And the lord of the project worked and labored upon it faithfully day by day. He therefore did cultivate it with much eagerness, and with much anticipation did he watch it grow. And unto those who would command him that he should cease, did he with much pleading beg for more time.

And it came to pass that upon a certain day that a certain man said unto him, "Friend how comest thou to have a mustache?"

And the soul of the lord of the project was much gratified for the cognizance thereof.

Moral: Try it.

Ambition Dawn

(Continued from Page Two)

The rest of the day passed like a picnic, but at evening came the darkness.

Wotkins met him after supper on the dining-room steps.

"Sorry, old chap, to have given you the wrong alarm, but the committee decided this afternoon that it was best to run Jefferson for business manager and . . ."

"Fred, come here quick!" sang a feminine voice from the direction of the fish-pond. With a "just a minute" to Barry, Wotkins hastened to obey.

In that moment Barry faced the bitterest disappointment of his life. He turned and made long, ragged strides toward the dorm. Life was a fraud! Where, indeed, was the reward of virtue!

As he entered the room, Duke gave him a careless glance and then gazed with some concern.

"Well, what happened to you! Someone die in the family?"

"Nope, Couldn't make the grade. Fred says they'll run Jefferson for manager," said Barry.

"Why the insipid idiot! Didn't he tell you they were running you for president?"

ALUMNI

We sincerely hope that this section of our publication will meet with especial interest on the part of its readers. It will be the plan of the alumni Editor to publish material in this column which will not only interest those who have been to S. C. J. C. in previous years, but also will give the present student body a chance to see how the alumni feel toward their Alma Mater. Dear alumnus friend, please take an active interest in your school and paper. Keep us posted on your "doings", and we'll renew the memory of your connection with S. C. J. C.

W. M. L.

Pacific Union College
Angwin, California
Sept. 24, 1933

To the Editor of "The College Criterion", Sir:

I have just been thinking.

Each age has its idea of advantages. Men crossed the ocean for religious freedom, crossed the plains for free land, stumbled over an icy wilderness for gold, sailed the Pacific, and "hitch-hike" to S. C. J. C., and many alumni of S. C. J. C. "O. P. C." hundreds of miles to P. U. C. Each craves the advantages of that particular place for no one section can claim all the advantages. And still some of us discover that advantages cannot make one wise, nor the lack of advantages suppress the struggling upward of a student. But there is a modern feeling that success afflicts us because of our past advantages.

By the way, Milton, it was just such advantages that caused a visiting friend to become confused. I took this friend around to some of the different places here at P. U. C. and after a few calls were made he hesitated, took a quick glance at his surroundings and exclaimed, "Where am I, anyhow, at P. U. C. or at S. C. J. C. Its just this way: We were sight-seeing and a truck circled the campus, and though it was a milk truck yet the driver was no other but "Doc." himself . . . official truck driver. My friend said, where is the library? We went up and who do you suppose was the librarian? . . . Muriel Harlow. The bell rang for class. I took him to my history class and there he was talking to Elsie Reynolds, (sister of Prof. Reynolds) Stella Peterson, and Elden Moore, all alumni of S. C. J. C.

Naturally we responded to the call of the siren and found ourselves in the dining room. He looked across the table and there was Winnifred Primmer, Ellwood Rodrick, Charles Smith and many others scattered over the room. He said to me, "I must see the kitchen," and there we found Ruth buzzing around as usual and F. G. Reid baking bread. As we were coming out the door a slender, dignified figure sped by in nurses uniform, and my friend said, "isn't that Grace Perry?" Yes, she is the school nurse.

Sabbath came to make things more complicated for he greeted fellow Alumni on every side, but the thing that completely confused him was the sound of a familiar tenor voice in the gallery, he turned at once to see George Casebeer in the A Cappella choir singing a tenor solo. That evening was the annual hand shaking event and he was dumb-founded to see Pedro Leon and Luis Greenidge mount the platform and respond in English and Spanish to a speech of welcome extended to the foreigners of fifteen different countries represented at P. U. C.

When we returned to the room my friend said to me, "There were about thirty alumni of S. C. J. C. there tonight." Next morning we went to the Print Shop and the manager there said: "It seems like P. U. C. is the North-end of S. C. J. C." As alumni we are taking every advantage that P. U. C. offers. We also love our College.

Your Schoolmate and friend,

B. L. ARCHBOLD '32

Spaulding Addresses M. B. K.

Speaking on one of his favorite topics, Elder A. W. Spaulding addressed the young men of M. B. K. Hall Wednesday night, September 27.

He discussed four of the sons of Jacob and Leah: Reuben, Levi, Simeon, and Judah.

Of Jacobs sons, Elder Spaulding believed Judah to be the most noble and clear visioned excepting Joseph. Notwithstanding, he was somewhat influenced by his meaner-spirited brothers.

Modern youth is compared, here, to him in this respect. Eventually, it is encouraging to note, Judah became the leader, due to his self-sacrificing spirit.

SHARK VS STEAMSHIP

While attempting to cross in front of a steamship a shark was caught by the ships bow and held by the water pressure until the ship was stopped several hours later.

Quite a fish story.

(Continued from Page Three)

- Nicolas, Clementina, L. A., Calif.
- Norton, James, Oakland, Calif.
- Nydell, Sarita, Arlington, Calif.
- O'Brien, Forrest, San Jose, Calif.
- Olmstead, Cecil, Santa Cruz, Calif.
- Olmstead, Lola, Santa Cruz, Calif.
- Olsen, Marie, Los Angeles, Calif.
- Osborn, Helene, Clatskanie, Ore.
- Palmer, Gordon, Arroyo Grande, C.
- Palmer, Lucille, Glendale, Calif.
- Patterson, Cleone, Anaheim, Calif.
- Paulson, Inez, Long Beach, Calif.
- Parker, Lois, Canton, China
- Peck, Harold, Wellington, Kas.
- Pellow, Tom, Petaluma, Calif.
- Phillips, Kenneth, Summit, Calif.
- Phillips, Ruth, El Cajon, Calif.
- Pierce, Joseph, Redlands, Calif.
- Potter, Flora, Mesa, Ariz.
- Poulsen, Marian, Hnklye, Calif.
- Prout, Bernice, Arlington, Calif.
- Prout, Elmer, Arlington, Calif.
- Prout, Milton, Arlington, Calif.
- Raley, Dorothy, Arlington, Calif.
- Reichard, James, Turlock, Calif.
- Roderick, Aural, Arlington, Calif.
- Roderick, Lovell, Arlington, Calif.
- Rue, Isabelle, Los Angeles, Calif.
- Russell, Lorraine, Oakland, Calif.
- Rutan, Frances, Oilfields, Calif.
- Rutan, George, Oilfields, Calif.
- Sanders, Roy, Santa Monica, Calif.
- Sanford, Byron, Arlington, Calif.
- Schafer, Henry, St. Helena, Calif.
- Schafer, Jack, Santa Monica, Calif.
- Scheffel, William, Loma Linda, Cal.
- Schultz, Ira, Loma Linda, Calif.
- Schultz, Lucy, Loma Linda, Calif.
- Sciarrillo, Elizabeth, Hollywood, C.
- Sciarrillo, Harry, Hollywood, Calif.
- Seppala, Lina Virginia, Minn.
- Shipley, Clifford, Riverside, Calif.
- Shopshire, Kenneth, Santa Ana, Cal.
- Sibley, Robert, Dinuba, Calif.
- Siess, Karl, Glendale, Calif.
- Siglinger, Marguerite, Fresno, Calif.
- Simkin, Claudia, Arlington, Calif.
- Simkin, Mrs. L. W., Arlington, Cal.
- Simmons, Harriett, Orange, Calif.
- Skinner, Dinah, Santa Ana, Calif.
- Slingerland, Mildred, Arlington, C.
- Smith, Harriet, El Cajon, Calif.
- Smith, Jean, Riverside, Calif.
- Smith, Merritt, Riverside, Calif.
- Smith, Esther, Turlock, Calif.
- Smith, Ruth, San Bernardino, Calif.
- Spalding, Betty, Arlington, Calif.
- Specht, Victoria, Loma Linda, Cal.
- Stearns, Barbara, Arlington, Calif.
- Stearns, Beatrice, Arlington, Calif.
- Stearns, Madge, Arlington, Calif.
- Steen, Barbara, Fullerton, Calif.
- Stephenson, Eleanor, L. A., Calif.
- Stiepp, James, Santa Ana, Calif.
- Stewart, Arthur, St. Paul, Minn.
- Stoelting, Lester, St. Helena, Calif.
- Strock, Irene, West L. A., Calif.
- Sveinsson, Lily, Monrovia, Calif.
- Swan, Lompoc, Calif.
- Thompson, Edgar, Escondido, Cal.
- Thompson, Laurence, San Diego, C.
- Tilton, Harold, Arlington, Calif.
- Toews, Julius, Dinuba, Calif.
- Trafton, Edward, Beros, Calif.
- Trafton, Everett, Berros, Calif.
- Turk, Allen, Arlington, Calif.
- Van Atta, Margaret, Arlington, Cal.
- Van Auken, Paso Robles, Calif.
- Van Tassell, Arlington, Calif.
- Vanos, Theodore, San Pedro, Calif.
- Voth, Florence, (S. C. J. C.)
- Walde, Hazel, Glendale, Calif.
- Walters, Ben, Arlington, Calif.
- Walters, Dick, Arlington, Calif.
- Waters, Kenneth, Paicines, Calif.
- Weeda, Dorothy, Santa Monica, Cal.
- Woolery, Lawrence, Amboy, Wash.
- Willard, Dorothy, Arlington, Calif.
- Williams, Recarda, L. A., Cal.
- Williamson, William, L. Linda, C.
- Wolfe, Wallace, L. A., Calif.
- Wood, Kenneth, Shanghai, China
- Wood, Robert, Pomona, Calif.
- Wilcox, Valma, Santa Ana, Calif.
- Zigler, Velda, Loma Linda, Cal.

THE COLLEGE

Bi-Weekly Publication of

CRITERION

Southern California Junior College

VOLUME V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, NOVEMBER 2, 1933

Number 3

Harvest Ingathering

Harvest Ingathering with its slogan "They must remain" stirred the students of S. C. J. C. to take Tuesday, October 17, as a field day in which to do their part in keeping the foreign missionaries at their posts. About 100 students and teachers came back after a hard day's work with about $165.00 in cash and $37.00 worth of produce, which was sold at an auction sale the next Sunday.

The territory covered included the towns of Corona, Ontario, Azusa, Chino, Norco, and many in Orange County. The best donations came to Mrs. Baker's group which went to San Clemente.

Several Sunday evenings students have gone to Riverside in singing bands and raised good amounts, under the supervision of Prof. Harlyn Abel and others.

Wednesday's chapel was devoted to the relating of experiences and blessings received. Many expressed the desire to do their share in keeping the Word moving forward.

A.S.B. Social Evening Appearances

The first social of the year to come under the auspices of the Associated Student Body was given Saturday night October 21. To those who failed to show a ticket, it was a "pay as you enter" affair. Nevertheless our dining room was full.

At the entrance a young lady escorted each incomer to a table, where he joined a merry group of six in playing "Jenkins." Two written games followed. We learned that the most indigestible age is cabbage.

Concluding the event of the evening, all were favored with refreshments, at which time a short program was given. In order to find partners for this last entertainment, the young men were given names of states or countries and asked to set out in search for the capitals. Owing to the shortage of ladies, some men had to play feminine roles.

Many a young person merely gargles instead of drinking deep of the fountain of knowledge.

Worthies Decorated for Distinguished Service

Prizes were awarded four students in chapel Oct. 20, as a result of "distinguished service" during the Criterion Campaign. Oran Colton proved winner by turning in thirty-three subs before the campaign closed. He was given a school sweater with the compliments of the Associated Student Body. The runner-up was Gene Luce, who turned in twenty-two subs. His award was presented by the courtesy of Zee's Clothing Company, a receipt for $2.50 in merchandise. A wicker sewing cabinet was presented Ruth Smith as third prize for submitting sixteen subs, and Mary Blakely received a cosmetic set from Mr. Gardner, drug-store manager at Riverside, for securing fourteen subs.

Honor Roll

The following list includes all students who received no grade below a B for the first period:

Boys:

Chester Alcorn, Ray Barker, Rob't Beattie, Henry Bruner, Albert Clanton, Carol Curtis, Frank Davidson, Robert Dunn, Wilbur Dunn, Stanley Folkenberg, Harry Hickman, Milton Lee, Ben Mattison, William Miller, Anthony Muff, Ralph Munson, James Norton, Cecil Olmstead, Ben Walters, and Arnold Mueller.

Girls:

Nettie Atteberry, Valerie Jones, Marion Leitch, Clementina Nicolas, Sarita Nydell, Cleone Patterson, Aural Roderick, Marguerite Singler, Claudia Simkin, Alyce Van Tassell, and Velma Wilcox.

Chapel Notes

Good reasons why one should take German, French, or Spanish were presented by Miss Sepela, Clementina Nicolas and Oran Colton, students of Miss Sorenson's language classes, on October 18.

Elder Ashbaugh spoke at chapel on Friday the 20th. "Selfishness," he said, "is the taproot of all sin," and later in discussing legitimate pleasures and those of an evil character he stated, "God has given us things to enjoy that are proper."

Discussing the English language Professor Fentzling addressed the students on Monday and Wednesday the 23rd and 25th. He showed the chaotic condition of English spelling, and gave very good reasons for simplified spelling.

CONTEST WINNERS AWARDED

Visit Academies and Museum

Wednesday, Oct. 25, finally arrived. This day had been set apart as the time for the Criterion picnic and eagerly waited for by winners of the campaign.

Seven o'clock on this eventful day, thirty five students and faculty members in a caravan of seven cars began winding their way through the fog toward their ultimate goal, the city of Los Angeles.

As there were so many, it was decided to divide the group, one half going to Glendale Union Academy and the other half to Los Angeles Academy, each group to remain at its respective school till shortly before chapel. The groups then went to the opposite schools for chapel and the remaining class periods.

In Glendale the chapel exercises were under the direction of the student body. They presented a very interesting musical program. After the chapel program the group visited friends and whatever classes interested them. When school was dismissed the visitors left for Exposition Park, where dinner was to be served.

The party that went to the Los Angeles Academy had a different experience. It had been requested previously that the visitors take charge of the program.

Professor Morrison introduced Donald Davenport as the chairman of the program committee, who took charge of the program. After a few brief opening remarks, Mr. Ben Mattison, a former student, spoke of the Criterion and Fountain of News in their relationship to the student body. Mr. Milton Lee, Editor of the Criterion, rendered a vocal selection. The concluding remarks were made by Professor Morrison who taught science at the Los Angeles Academy for several years.

Chapel over, the visitors attended some of the classes and chatted with friends till noon, when each received a dish of ice-cream.

Dinner was waiting at Exposition Park so, with hurried farewells, the visitors were off.

While lunch was being served all joined in on a round table discussion of the events of the morning. Two facts of interest were soon unearthed: first, Allen Turk's car had broken down several miles from the Academy and all the occupants had to take the trolley, much to Allen's chagrin. Second, Donald Davenport was stopped and given a lecture by a well-dressed man in a uniform, for crossing a red light. After a short visit he

(Continued on Page Three)

Faculty Recital

The annual faculty recital of the Department of Music was rendered the evening of October 28. Professor Harlyn Abel sang several difficult vocal selections and was encored following his singing of Kipling's "Boots" by Telmah. Miss Florence Voth played three piano selections, the first one being accompanied by a concert pianist from Riverside, Mr. Arthur Bostick. Professor William Beisel's violin selections were concluded by Mendelssohn's "Concert in E Minor."

Elder Ashbaugh Takes Service

Elder F. G. Ashbaugh spoke to the S. C. J. C. Students at their vesper service, Friday evening, Oct. 20, on the path God has set for us.

"I will not turn to the right hand nor to the left for we will go by the King's highway"—Neh. 20:17. We have a temporal or physical highway which we travel by our acts; but how about our spiritual highway? The commandments of God are signposts as we travel up God's highway.

Elder Ashbaugh spoke to the members of the La Sierra Church, Sabbath morning, Oct. 21, on the need of having a definite purpose in life.

Folkenbergs Week-end Guests

Elder and Mrs. L. E. Folkenberg, parents of Stanley, were our week-end visitors, October 27, 28.

"Make your calling and election sure" was the theme of his talk during the vesper hour.

The church service, Sabbath morning, conducted by Elder Folkenberg, centered in Rev. 21:50, "Behold I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful."

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., November 2, 1933 No. 2

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....Milton Lee
 World News.....Marion Leitch
 Alumni.....Maxine Cortright
 Exchange.....Robert Cossentine
 Fountain of News.....James Lee

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....Richard Walters
 Advertising Manager.....Donald Davenport
 Circulation Manager.....Arnold Mueller

ADVISORS

Business.....A. R. Smith
 Literary.....J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

HALLOWE'EN

October 31 is the vigil of Hallowmas or All Saints Day, now chiefly known as the eve of the Christian festival. However, its origin long preceded Christianity. History shows that the main celebration was purely Druidical, a night in the year when bonfires were lighted, during which ghosts and witches were most likely to wander abroad. What foolishness. Is that the reason for "double night watch duty"?

ANNOYANCE

The Dean had just completed the telling of a humorous incident, which was greeted by a wholesome laugh from the boys. However, there seemed to be a few in the room who found it difficult for their minds to readily comprehend this humor. Therefore, they felt that it would be interesting for themselves and their fellows to prolong the laughter, thus embarrassing the Dean. So after the burst of laughter had subsided, a hysterical falsetto laugh could be heard in one corner and another "bird" in some distant spot "chirped" an echo; a "basso" rumbled here and a "do you one better" mimicked him there. The Dean stood speechless.

Do you know that we hear many such people, who seem to have this little annoying oddness inbred in their nature? Poor folk! They truly need our sympathy.

W. M. L.

BROADMINDEDNESS

Broadmindedness is used by some as an excuse to overstep the rules of good conduct. It is used by others to describe one who is easy going. What is it, really? Here is one definition: deal gently with the faults of others, and be rather stern with your own.

INFLUENCE

Professor Fentzling told one of his classes that "we are a part of everyone we have ever met." Quite so. Either you are exerting a downpulling influence on others, or one that is uplifting.

H. L. K.

Life's Struggle to Success

Arnold Mueller

Eight weeks ago I saw a group of students at the College line up to start a race. Among the students at the starting line were some I knew. Let us call them Can't, Won't, Not Able, Easy Going, Talkative and Timid Soul.

The race resembled a cross country race in that it took a considerable time to complete it, the first lap being six weeks.

It was a good looking group and both boys and girls contested. They were of all nationalities, from all walks of life and had all kinds of ambitions and desires.

Two days were spent in dividing the contestants into small groups or classes. Advice and coaching as to the choice of routes and fitness of contestants were given.

Now the roads or routes were strewn with many obstacles and the end of the course was marked by a large-lettered sign, "SUCCESS," so that all could look ahead and take courage. I looked ahead and saw such obstacles as algebra, geometry, physics, and trigonometry problems, and many of the routes of travel had long themes that must be crossed.

Everyone looked determined and, as is the usual thing at the beginning of a race, enthusiasm and excitement ran high.

Suddenly they were off! Some were out in front from the first; some were handicapped but soon forged ahead. Some unfortunately started a little late and had to put forth extra precious energy to catch up.

The watching crowd that had cheered at the start now quieted down to watch with intense interest as one student after another gained his stride and met the coming obstacles in his pathway.

Then I noticed those I knew.

Can't came to a chemistry problem and stopped short in his tracks and with a twisted despairing face watched the others go past him.

Won't, who had been stubborn and pessimistic from the start saw trigonometry ahead of him and turned out of the pathway and went to an entertainment to forget it all.

Not Able, who was a nice sort of fellow, but weak willed, was about three weeks along the course when he had to cross a long theme and couldn't nerve himself to plunge in and swim for it—so he failed utterly.

Easy Going came to a physics test and stopped to try to find a way around instead of climbing over, and, failing in this, was forced

(Continued on Page Four)

Appearance

Some years ago, a British exploring company were traveling around the north end of the Dead Sea, when, in the distance, they saw some trees laden with luscious looking fruit. Filled with expectation, they approached them and proceeded to pick the fruit. This appeared to be a large rosy apple or quince. But to the surprise and mortification, as soon as they touched it, it burst into thin air and left nothing but fine, dusty ash-like remains. There had been nothing but a hollow sphere. After trying for a time to get something out of them, the explorers gave up in disgust, calling the fruit, "Apples of Sodom."

"Apples of Sodom." What a name. And yet, it certainly fits very well the behavior of such disappointing things. It is the appellation befitting any person who always endeavors to get by with appearances only.

(Continued on Page Four)

KENT'S QUILTS BUSINESS SALE NOW GOING ON

YOUNG MEN'S SUITS and
 OVER COATS

$8⁹⁵ $11⁹⁵ $15⁹⁵

GET YOURS WHILE THEY LAST

Kent's Clothing Store

3758 SEVENTH STREET

Winners Awarded

(Continued from Page One)

was allowed to resume his journey cautiously.

Lunch having been ravenously consumed, the party set out to explore the museum and various places of interest.

Time to go home, after a few running games, the winners turned their faces in that direction. A short visit to an old Spanish street concluded the day's outing.

Bleak Wind

Rarely, a delightfully eerie feeling comes over one when the wind blows on an evening just before darkness slowly, drearily hides the earth from the sky; a feeling of wild bleakness accentuated by the last solitary cry of the killdeer.

Bits of rain are remorselessly thrown by the gale against the windows of the shelter, a lonely little cottage in a rolling plain surrounded by the hills.

The wind moans at the corners of the house, steadily rising to a shrill scream, then, falls to a low, insistent murmur, again to rise to a complaining wail.

Rolling, gray clouds of infinite depth press close to the deserted earth, and with the wind and rain make the chill atmosphere that penetrates the house and depresses even the cheerfulness of the little blaze on the hearth.

It is dark without. The landscape is curtained, but the wind steadily whistles. You gratefully snuggle the warm blankets up to your nose, and sleep.

That evening is forgotten. Months, years will pass, but sometime near dusk, on a winter afternoon at home, while the windows insistently rattle, or on the side of a bare hill, the poignant call of bleak nature will again come.

Answer to Thumb Nail

Sketch: Harry Sciarrillo.

We Specialize in STUDENTS' CLOTHING
Anderburg & Son
3657 8th Street

Abraham's Clothing
Everything for Father and Son
"Service With A Smile"
Arlington, California

Marion Leitch

The Washington Monument is going to have its first repairs since it was erected in 1885. The repairs will amount to an estimated sum of $100,000. Not bad for forty-eight years of having people go up and down inside of it to get a view of the surrounding country.

Among other things that the depression "got" was the good ship "Leviathan." So now a project is being planned to turn it into a floating beer garden, movie theater, restaurant and entertainment center.

No wonder we are all so sweet. The average American citizen eats annually 100 pounds of sugar.

We think we have trouble in this country with two major political parties and several minor ones—but how about the seventeen that Spain has—each pulling in a different direction?

Many women masquerade as men for various and sundry reasons but few there be that really take on the appearance of a man and can't do anything about it. However, science is battling against strange forces which are working to change a pretty 23-year-old girl into a person of mannish characteristics. The girl has developed sideburns and a mustache and has taken on most of the physical characteristics of a man.

Japanese naval engineers have perfected a new type of torpedo fitted with a steering gear and having room for a steersman. It is reported that recruiting will start in the new year for men prepared to act as "human torpedos." These men will be asked to volunteer for certain death.

Visit the Photo Craft Studio
For Fine Photographs Phone 117

E. N. FAIRCHILD
Riverside

FRANZEN'S
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

HEADQUARTERS FOR
Roofing
Paints
Builders Hardware

Chema—Zoo

Willis Miller

"You say that you are a Criterion reporter?" inquired Professor Reflex.

"That's right. I am representing the official organ of our school," answered the reporter.

"Funny thing," the professor responded, "but it is the first time we have heard of you."

"That's just it, Professor. Our student body hasn't had a chance to learn of your department and Professor Spectrum's department. You see, we have been so interested in the success of our paper and the other important departments of the school that we haven't given as much attention to your department as we should have.

"Oh, that's all right," laughed Professor Reflex, "we have been able to get along very well without your help. You know that although a school paper is always backed by the ministerial and literary departments, the science department always thrives because it does not divide its attention between science and literary lines."

"Yes, but we want to learn more about your department and what you are doing. We can always learn from a scientifically-minded friend," added the reporter.

"All right, Mr. Reporter, if you want to know what we are doing, let's begin with a survey of the building and its different departments. We'll begin down in the basement."

(Continued on Page Four)

Oddities

Honesty

A young author in Washington once wrote to Kipling as follows:

"I have heard it stated that you receive one dollar a word for everything you write. I enclose a dollar and would like a sample."

Kipling replied with just one word, "Thanks," signed the letter and kept the dollar.

The American then wrote the anecdote up and sold it to a magazine. Being an honest fellow, he then wrote back to Kipling:

"I sold the anecdote for two dollars and enclose your half—forty-six cents—after deducting the postage."—Exchange.

Biuseppe de Mai, of Naples, had two hearts—separate and distinct. The London Academy of Medicine paid him $15,000 for the right to dissect his body after death—Irving Wallace.

Igor Sikorsky, great aircraft designer, got an idea for a new airplane by watching his father's shirts flapping on the clothesline—Irving Wallace. (Wonder if that is the reason such a number of boys linger near the laundry)

A donkey discovered a mine worth $100,000,000 while wandering through the Idaho Hills.—Irving Wallace. (Surely fortunes should be discovered about our campus)

Kampus Kwips

Henry Kuhn

This one is strictly true, as a matter of fact this column always contains the truth. Anyway, the "kwip" to follow has to do with the recent Criterion visit to Los Angeles:

The Criterion staff were all piled in Donald Davenport's Hup. sedan. He drove through a red light and was promptly hauled to the curb by a vigilant policeman.

The cop took a "squint" at Donald's Maryland license plates and another at the carful of red-sweated huskies, some of whom have fairly large "chassis." They said: "We are on our way to an academy."

He said, "That's alright, boys; go on; that's where I thought you were going," and passed them for a visiting football team from the East.

A friend and I had a slight argument over the law of averages—whether or not a flipped dime would land on heads as many times as on tails.

We started tossing and tabulating the results. About the six hundredth toss my friend looked at the dime with a sudden interest and said, "What's that thing, a gate?"

Here are the results from flipping it a thousand times: Heads, 512; Tails, 488.

"Theology contributes to the Rockefeller Foundation; Religion takes a basket of groceries to the poor neighbor.—Al. Clanton.

We Have the Latest
in
YOUNG MEN'S CLOTHING

Prices Are Right

Allen & Kearne
3666-8th Street

Furniture Stores
Hardware
China
Silver
Glass Ware
Floor Coverings

Girls Forum

Leolen Claunch was an outside visitor to the meeting of the Girl's Forum, October 19. Each one listened with intense interest while she gave two readings, "Two Loves" and "Foolish Questions," which were encored.

Marjory Knouse painted a word picture of Hawaii and its beautiful islands and Lola Olmstead sang, "When Irish Eyes are smiling."

A very informal program was arranged for the Girls' Forum, Thursday evening, October 26. Hazel Walde and Marion Buckley sang, "If You Love Him." Miss Wallace then entertained the group by reading poems of Arthur Gristerman and Edgar Guest from her never-failing notebook. In their humorous way the "home" was portrayed.

Mu Beta Kappa

Mu Beta Kappa had its first meeting under the new leadership of Mr. Willis Miller. As there was no weighty business to come before the house, Willis proceeded with a stereopticon lecture on the recent Sino-Japanese conflict surrounding Shanghai. Many of the slides showed the battle at the height of action.

Der Deutsche Verein

Games have been featured at the last two meetings of the German Club. The games played have been the German versions of such games as "Simon Says," "Fruit Basket," "Bzzz," and "Poor Pussy"

El Circulo Espanol

For the club meeting of October 17, different talks were given describing the manner of dress for the people of Mexico. Miss Jean Smith came to the meeting dressed as a china poblana, in a costume imported from Mexico City.

The group then adjourned to the music room where the Mexican National Hymn was sung. This proved to be a pretty, yet very difficult tune, but every one learned it to a certain extent. The club then went outside and played gato y perro very similar to "Ruth and Jacob."

On October 24, more talks were given, describing, this time, different things about Spain. Then Moises Gonzales, a student from Peru, pretended to hold market and challenged any member of the club to "jew" him down in his prices. His shrewdness and ready wit, however, kept him safe from the attacks of the buyers and proved an entertainment and a diversion for the rest of the club.

The object of all such gatherings is to give the students a practical application in the use of the language.

A Nuestros Lectores

Hacemos saber a nuestros lectores que en el proximo numero publicaremos una Seccion Espanola, patrocinada por los estudiantes de este idioma.

EL DIRECTOR.

To Our Readers

We wish to make known to our readers that in the next number we will publish a Spanish Section, patronized by the readers of this language.

EDITOR IN CHIEF.

Chema—Zoo

(Continued from Page Three)

"The basement is known as our undertaking parlor. We spend most of our time in this department preparing our Zoological specimens. Would you like to look this department over, Mr. Reporter?"

"To tell the truth, Professor, I am in a hurry, and if you don't mind, maybe you could show me through the chemistry department now."

The scientist nodded.

"First let us finish with the Zoology department.

"Would you mind telling me why you have this ribbon in this bottle?" the reporter queried.

"NO. That's not a ribbon but a tannia."

"What do you mean by a tannia?"

"That's a funny word isn't it? In other words it's a tape worm."

"My, Professor, let's get out of here! What's in this room at the head of the stairs?"

"You must be a smart man, Professor Reflex, to read those characters on the wall. How do you pronounce R O H?"

"You don't pronounce that, my young friend, that is simply the type formula for alcohol."

"What was that noise I heard just then, Professor?"

"You mean that explosion. Why that's just some of the boys in the laboratory exploding hydrogen gas to scare the girls. Let's go down and see what they are doing."

"What is that fellow doing over in the corner with that long glass tube?"

"You mean Mr. Grain. He is distilling alcohol."

"It surely smells like it, but that is a funny sweet smell over by Miss Forms desk. Oh, she is preparing chloroform."

"Be careful, Mr. Reporter, don't touch that scale. I spent two hours adjusting it this morning."

"Well, let's get out of here then if things are so touchy!" Why, I've been here two hours and I must interview Professor Spectrum for next week!"

Appearance

(Continued from Page Two)

And, talking about appearances, it is to be observed that they are dangerous things to go by. The student, or person in other lines, who endeavors to shirk responsibilities by putting on an appearance of having studied, an appearance of having finished one's assigned work in the correct way, an appearance of being better than one actually is, and an appearance of devotion when one is actually, on the side, indulging in those things which are in direct opposition to one's profession, is a dangerous guide. We could name many more of these things but space will not permit.

Many a time appearances will take us quite a ways. We are well-thought-of, and seem to be able to fool the public for quite a while. But there is always a time when a trial comes and the false shell that has been built up by our pretensions will be crushed. The time will always come when we will be "touched" and a great disappointment, both personal and otherwise will result.

Students, remember that you are here because of an investment made in you by your parents, this school, and the denomination. It is your duty to return this investment in such a way as to make it a credit. Remember, that appearances may take you along for a while, but the reckoning time will always come and one will always find out that it was never worth it. So don't be an "Apple of Sodom."

Life's Struggle to Success

(Continued from Page Two)

to climb over after the others had passed on, which was discouraging to him and provoking to his coach.

Talkative was almost half way through the first lap when he saw a contestant he knew, named Attractive at the side of the road and so stopped to say, "hello," to her and they were soon seen strolling off in the direction of "inefficiency."

Timid Soul hesitated at every obstacle and theme he came to, asking advice and help of others, thus retarding their progress.

Some finished the first lap, received the reward and with determined faces pressed on. Others thinking their reward insufficient, grumbled and stopped others to complain to them.

Watching the face of each contestant as he passed by, I noticed that those who were ahead and were the most determined had their eyes fixed on the sign ahead that read, "SUCCESS."

Those who in the years that had reached their goal, now stood at the finish line, watching the progress of the runners. They wished to help but found that each contestant must surmount every obstacle by his own will power and earn, as those who had gone before, the record of success.

Rouge et Noir

Will you tell me, pretty maiden,
What's the matter with your face?

It doesn't look to me just like
The old familiar place.

There's an artful bloom upon your cheek;

A white spot on your nose,
And a tiny, arching, pointed streak
In lieu of eyebrow shows.
The spots that once were frecklesplashed

Are smooth and white as pearl;
And on your forehead, flatly smashed,

I see a waxy curl.
Ah, when I look upon such charms

Without a fault displayed,
At last I understand just why
The poets call you maid.

Alumni

Unfortunates? Why yes, there are some other than those in Professor Fentzling's "Opportunity Class." They are the sorrowful former graduates of dear old S. C. J. C. who occasionally, no, quite often, are seen perambulating about the school premises on a visit here. They are pitiful because they have no ample reasons for belonging here anymore.

Such is the case of a certain, tall blonde girl known as "Scottie", in the days gone by, around here. Not so long ago, someone heard her say something to a staff member. "I'm mighty glad I'm stationed close to my Alma Mater. I just can't stop liking S. C. J. C." And away off in Salt Lake Donald Clark wrote to us saying that he was very happy indeed with his S. C. J. C. wife. (That's a good word for Gladwyn Hall) Then there is James Hawkins in Arizona who is converting all he comes in contact with that, "There's no place like dear old S. C. J. C." and who knows!—when the climax day approaches for all of us to leave this college of Southern California, we shall probably feel real sentiments such as these, also.

Thumb Nail Sketch

He is about five feet nine inches tall, has curly black hair, freckled cheeks, and blue eyes. You can guess his age. The most exciting incident of his life was an interview with the President. Conversationally speaking, he is most interesting.

Charles Charlesworth died of old age before he was seven years old. Reached maturity, grew whiskers at four, and died in a faint while stooped and bent and wrinkled at seven. This sudden old age has been discovered to be a disease.—Irving Wallace.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Bi-Weekly Publication of Southern California Junior College

VOLUME V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, NOVEMBER 16, 1933

Number 4

Memorial Service of Falling of the Stars

Community friends met with the students in their chapel, Monday night, November 13, to commemorate the hundredth anniversary of the falling of the stars. Elder Sorenson traced interestingly the last century's development of our work by using stereopticon slides. The A Capella Choir rendered appropriate numbers during intervals of the lecture.

Outdoor Entertainment

Clear evening—brilliant moonlight—warm, balmy breeze, sociable people, such was the stage scenery for the games on the lawn Saturday night, Nov. 4.

The exercise was in two forms—at first, vigorous running games for the athletically minded, and later, a prolonged, meandering march for those preferring gentler amusement.

Music was largely furnished by William Williamson, first on the piano, and then on the accordion closer to the promenaders. At one time there were about as many listening to him play as there were marching.

Meanwhile, a game of "dare base"; alternately flourished and languished as players came and went.

At 9:30 "Good Night, Ladies" was heard and the girls went to their home, while the young men, led by Dean Rieke played two hard fought games of "dare-base" in front of their home before finally retiring.

Choir to Assist in Messiah

The College's A Capella Choir and Chorus joined with other choirs in Riverside for the first rehearsal of the Messiah, which will be given there during Christmas-tide. Professor Harlyn Abel has for a long time desired to combine all the choir groups in and about Riverside for the annual Messiah cantata. Despite doubt on the part of Riverside musical critics that a few combined rehearsals can assure its successful rendering, Professor Abel hopes to prove that the directing of a group of three hundred voices under such circumstances is not an impossibility.

Whistles

When I was a "little lad", I once visited a friend's home where a toy train had been set up. It was quite an ingenious affair, as it actually ran by steam generated by a little boiler over a tiny spirit lamp. It had a whistle on top, which was going all the while. During the time in which we were playing with it, I thought to make things more peaceful by turning off the whistle. As soon as I had done this, however, the little train sped up, ran around the turn, raced down the straight-a-way, and at the next turn jumped the track, crashing into the wall on the other side of room. My friend then explained to me that the speed of the train was controlled by the whistle.

I think that we are much like that little spirit train. Figuratively

(Continued on Page Three)

Campus Moonlight

A darkly revealing moonlight is spread over the world; distance is uncertain.

The air is warm and still, like that of a summer evening, yet different, for in it is a faint but certain hint of cold, relentless winter, and a sad, lingering farewell to balmy, expansive summer.

Rising in the near-far distance lie the mountains—an eternity of benevolent solidness, far above the common earth, yet a part of it.

Near by is a small tree with bushy foliage, and cut in bold relief by the moonlight, a gnarled trunk, taken from some old Chinese landscape painting.

The moonlit countryside, the wide sky combine in vast stillness—a stillness that makes the cheerful, warming voices seem very small and inconsequential.

WEEK OF PRAYER

Elder Dalrymple Leads Out In Services

Another pleasant memory now warms the hearts of many a young man and woman of S. C. J. C. since the passing of the Week of Prayer. Elder Gwynne Dalrymple's untiring efforts for the students proved him, indeed, to be a man of prayer, and as a result of God's power working through him, many expressed their determination to live true, daily Christian lives.

Our relation to the Holy Spirit was his especial emphasis on Monday, the 6th of November. Proof of the Spirit's presence is not in our feelings, but in the life we live, he stated. Again, the Holy Spirit does not remove temptations, but strengthens us to meet them.

Let's start with a "new page", he said Tuesday. Once during a session with his dentist Elder Dalrymple wondered why the cavities could not be cleaned with alcohol and packed with a filling, instead of the exquisite torture of the drill. He discovered that the least bit of decay under the filling would go on decaying. A parallel was here drawn to the renewal of the Christian's experience. Our past wrongs cannot be covered, or they will fester; they must be made right.

(Continued on Page Three)

Tibet Is Subject of M. V. Meeting

The subject of the Missionary Volunteer meeting on Nov. 11 was in commemoration of Floyd and Eleanor Johnson, who are two of our alumni, and who accepted the call to go to West China and Tibet. After the first song, Mr. Albert Clanton read the scripture reading and led in prayer. A double mixed quartet rendered the "Missionary's Farewell", signifying the spirit of the out-going missionary.

A thorough picture of the country of Tibet was given by Henry Kuhn who described the geography of the land, by Elva Knowles who told of the customs of the peoples, and by Joseph Pierce who gave us an insight into Tibetan religions and superstitions. It is among these people that our alumni have gone to win souls. After singing "I'll go where you want me to go", the meeting was dismissed by Prof. Morrison.

CLUBS

Science Club

The first meeting of the Science Club was held Saturday night, November 11, 1933.

Professor Morrison, head of the Science Department, opened the meeting with a brief resume of the articles of the Science Clubs in the different schools with which he has been connected.

A general discussion of the plans for the club followed, after which a committee of five—namely, Victor Mann, Anthony Muff, Dick Walters, Wallace Lorenz and Millicent Grant, were chosen to bring in a constitution.

Girls' Forum

The girls entertained the boys in the chapel Thursday evening, November 2, by depicting a few of the happy events in a girl's life. Her school days with her jacks and jump rope, her academic days, her graduation as a missionary nurse, and then as a bride, a mother with her baby, and grandmother. Each short scene with its setting gave greater charm to the evening.

Those who took part were: Viola Mitchell, Master of Ceremonies; Hazel Walde, Lola Olmstead, Isabelle Rue, Aldine Adams,

(Continued on Page Four)

M. B. K.

Games in the parlor and on the lawn entertained the boys of Mu Beta Kappa Hall Halowe'en night, thus giving vent to pent-up energy and scheming brains. At eight o'clock the boys assembled in the parlor where they enjoyed popcorn, athletic stunts and wrestling. About nine o'clock they went out on the moon-lit lawn for games. Everyone enjoyed the change and quietly retired at ten o'clock.

Doctor Harry C. Reynolds of Arlington spoke to the boys of M. B. K. Hall in their meeting on November 1 on some of the social problems confronting the youth of today. He gave helpful information and promised to return and answer a question box at a later date.

Der Deutsche Verein

Talks, in German of course, were given by members of the club on November 2. In her talk, Inez Mann took the class on a trip "Over the ocean to Germany", as the talk was entitled. Some members appeared to be "very English" when she related an anecdote at the end of her talk but all joined in a hearty laugh when it was translated into

(Continued on Page Four)

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., November 16, 1933 No. 4

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....Milton Lee
 World News.....Marion Leitch
 Alumni.....Maxine Cortright
 Exchange.....Robert Cossentine
 Fountain of News.....James Lee

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....Richard Walters
 Advertising Manager.....Donald Davenport
 Circulation Manager.....Arnold Mueller

ADVISORS

Business.....A. R. Smith
 Literary.....J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

AMUSEMENT?

Several weeks before school was scheduled to re-open a young lady applied for work in order to accumulate sufficient credit for college entrance. She was graciously accepted by the matron and invited to begin work immediately in the kitchen. When the dinner hour arrived the new girl was asked to assist in serving behind the counter and she fulfilled her part with eagerness. After the line of working young men had passed by the serving girls they seated themselves toward the front of the hall.

Soon the gay young waitresses filed by and pressed on toward the rear, balancing their trays gracefully upon nimble finger-tips. The young lady led this amateur display of jugglery and soon arrived at the table where she contemplated the depositing of her meal.

At that moment a young man, well acquainted with the details of dining room etiquette, stepped over to assist the young lady, who had arrived a few steps in advance of her friends. Several of the other young men thought to draw everyone's attention to the "act of chivalry." "Shsh" soon echoed within the walls and all turned their attention to the scene. The young lady realized that all eyes were fixed on her and these moments of silence felt like icy daggers all directed toward her soul. The silence was painful and her facial complexion turned rosy. The young man returned to his seat disgusted. Never again would he perform another such act of politeness.

What is that little imp which grips one and makes his heart merry in the embarrassing of another? In this case a youth was discouraged in the doing of right because the majority laughed. Honestly, if you dislike being made fun of—then don't make "the other fellow" what you'd hate to be yourself.

Campus from South End

Kampus Kwips

by Henry Kuhn

This column is a hybrid—a combination of two columns originally proposed last summer: the "Oracle", to feature quaint proverbs heard on the campus; and "Kwips", a would-be humorous recital of surprising happenings.

This one is about one of those moments of supreme embarrassment that occurs only "once in a lifetime":

The editor of the Fountain of News called up the Girl's dorm. from Riverside to find where the choir was practicing. He asked for Allan Cossentine, and was told he would be called up in five minutes.

Somehow the President called up instead. This inquirer thought Allan was answering, and nothing the dignified style of address, thought he was trying to be funny. So the editor waxed humorous and began to speak in lighter vein. Suddenly he became aware that it wasn't Allan at the other end.

"Who is this?" he asked.

When informed that it was the President, his visage and heart became sober at once—and he hung up.

Alas; few have furnished any occasion for honorable mention in these lines, and we are compelled to steal from "Thumb-nail Sketches" material for padding.

He is an interesting study, a stocky all-around "he-man" descended, we can easily imagine, from some sturdy Son of the North.

He loves a good joke, can sense a paradox, and has at hand a humorous sarcasm that has disconcerted many a luckless individual caught at some nefarious mischief.

But, that's too general: you couldn't guess who from that. Well, then, he is a hard worker and gets good grades. Can't you guess from that? No? Well, then, you must have heard his merry laugh soar up and up above the noise of the dining room".

An interesting question has been solved, partly by a happy inmate of Gladwyn Hall.

In the dining room, why are the venerable and mature scholars seated with the young and frisky dittoes? Ah, the elder help the younger to grow up, and the younger restore the elder to their second childhood.

Lithographed XMAS CARDS

3c each

THE COLLEGE PRESS

Exchange

A certain freshman in South Lancaster Academy came running to one of his superiors the other night seeking permission to set fire to a waste-basket in order to rid it of a mouse. Of course the permission was denied—but are the race of freshmen degenerating? It was different in the "good old days."

Wilfred Airey, former Alumni president of S. C. J. C., was injured recently at Walla Walla College. He was struck in the leg by an ax. The injury was not very serious, as the ax grazed the tendons, but Mr. Airey will be on crutches for several days.

THE WASTE BASKET

I'm the busiest thing in the office,
 And it makes me swell with pride
 To think of my honored position
 Right close to the editor's side.
 And sometimes she whispers softly
 When nobody else is near
 That she wouldn't know what in the world to do
 If it were not for my good cheer.

I sit here and watch her intently
 To see what my chances will be,
 When she's reading the rhyme of
 of a poet

Who found himself drifting at sea,
 Or the logic of some new Plato
 Surpassing the ancients' lore,
 For I know that she's finding some wonderful things
 That I hardly can wait to explore.

These papers I count as my treasures
 Are not simply scraps for the fire,
 For they tell many thrilling stories
 Of struggle and hope and desire.
 The drips of the wax speak so plainly
 Of study by candle light,
 By a student who's cramming to meet an exam.
 And is working far into the night.

I'm a regular bit of museum
 When it comes to specimens rare,
 And I'm willing to tell you my secrets
 But I fear that the writers would care.
 Some things make me laugh till
 I'm crying.
 While others, I'm sorry to say,
 Makes me feel like an iceberg far up in the north.

And so when you are reading this paper
 I hope you will not forget
 These pieces of art that are left behind
 For they may be published yet,
 When some most competent reader
 May happen to come this way
 Who can tell us what all of the scribbling means
 And what they've been trying to say.

Week of Prayer

(Continued from Page One)

A query "When is it necessary to pray all night?" brought up the question of agonizing, on Thursday. A lady once told the speaker that she had been agonizing. He asked what she was agonizing over. She said:

"Oh, nothing; just agonizing."

The speaker pointed out that it was one thing to ask the Lord to take an evil from one, and another to give it up. Agonizing must be for something definite.

Here are some outstanding statements from his Chapel talks:

"The world is a very unsatisfactory place."

"The Christian experience is not simply a battle, but a whole campaign."

"The most serious sin is the sin of giving up."

"Piety is no substitute for honesty."

Aged S. D. A. Woman Attends Her First Sabbath School

Discharged from the orphanage for false doctrine, persecuted by the people for her beliefs, as the result of being baptized at an evangelistic effort held in the place where she lived, Mrs. Cox, after forty-three years, attended her first Sabbath School in all her seventy-three years, last Sabbath at the Norco services.

She has lived in a Texas town where there was no S. D. A. church a great portion of her life, and has shifted from one place to another, until now she is residing with her sister at Norco.

When friends asked her to attend their church she consented. Their preacher would preach right against her in the services, and would even tell her children that their mother would be lost if she did not change. The more she was assailed the stronger her faith became as the result of studying her Bible.

What's in a Name?

That's what many people have tried to find when looking at a Russian contraction of many words into one word. And now they're planning to attach such as "Rev-mar"—"World Revolution"; "Dra-mata"—"Dialectics of Materialism" upon Russian babies.

And Likewise

Can you tell what some of the following abbreviations stand for? They're all short-cut titles which have to do with the government emergency relief program: CCC; RFC; HOLC; FFCA; AAA; SAB; NLB; CSB. Hope they don't name any babies AAA.

Still Hopes

That a crippled leg can be lengthened as much as three inches by a new method was recently announced before the American College of Surgeons in Chicago by an Italian professor. Perhaps the method may be applied to other than crippled legs; if so, we hope it will be published soon.

More Than 32

Alcohol is no respecter of persons—or ducks. Hunters who use alcohol instead of guns to bag wild ducks along the Ohio River are being sought by a game warden who reports that the ducks are easily caught by hand after becoming intoxicated from eating corn mash liberally charged with alcohol.

Whistles

(Continued from Page One)

speaking, we create our own energy, by which we hope to make progress, and, we also have a "whistle".

There is a proverb which says that the engineer of a train who whistles the longest at the foot of a hill has the least chance to make the top. Take a look around you and see who really do the getting ahead. You may have difficulty in finding out who they are, because they themselves do not advertise the fact in the least. They are those who are putting all their energy into progress. They are unostentatious in their work, always minding their own business (which means that they have a good one), and are never getting in one's way. In this school I have seen people I never knew existed bring the highest grades in the school.

And there are others, who whenever you meet them, always have something to say. They always have some remark to make by which they endeavor to pull all the attention to themselves, to show off all their wit, in short, to make the other people see what sort of cards they hold in their hands. Get near one of these persons sometime and then walk away and try to remember what they have said. You can not do it, because all they have said is just steam gone up in the air. All that has been made is simply noise, which is a very abstract thing after all.

Close your "whistle", friend, and see how much faster it makes you go. Don't be afraid to go too fast. The path of progress may be rough, and unexpected turns may come, but there is no danger of jumping the track because of too much speed. In reality, you will need all the energy you can save.

M. V.'s Present Program At Knox's Tabernacle

Elder Philip Knox's tabernacle in Los Angeles was a place of interest for all missionary volunteers who attended Sabbath afternoon, November 4.

The outstanding feature of the afternoon was a forty-five minute program given by students from S. C. J. C. Two mixed-quartet numbers, "Never be late to M. V. S.," and "The Cherubim Song" were sung. Donald Davenport evaluated the habit of punctuality. Leolen Claunch read a story of a young man who, after many disappointments, learned to be prompt and punctual. Miss Wallace illustrated these values in a chalk talk. A cornet duet by Ralph Giddings and Professor Cushman was among the musical numbers.

Several readings and musical selections, given by members of Los Angeles societies followed.

Peculiar Signs

Sign on a street urchin's shoe box: "Shine free, tax 5c".

Sign on a newly-painted wall of a barber shop: "This is a partition, not a petition—no signatures needed".

Sign over a Chinese barber shop: "Excelsior Head Cutters".

Sign over a dressmaker's shop: "Ladies have fits upstairs".

3662 Seventh St., Riverside Phone 514
PAXSON'S
 Rubidoux Photo Studio
 Special prices to students before Christmas
 Commercial Photography

STROHMEIERS

Shoes and Clothing
 for the
 Whole Family

Arlington, California

"Advertising is our constant companion and our helpful friend."

For ---

Announcements Invitations and Social Forms

THE COLLEGE PRESS
 Arlington, California

The Best Xmas Gift

YOUR PHOTOGRAPH

PHOTO-CRAFT STUDIO
 3714 Main Street, Riverside
 PHONE 117

Abraham's Clothing

Everything for Father and Son

"Service With A Smile"

Arlington, California

FRANZEN'S
 RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

HEADQUARTERS FOR
 Roofing
 Paints
 Builders Hardware

Furniture Stores
 Hardware
 China
 Silver
 Glass Ware
 Floor Coverings

We Have the Latest
 in
YOUNG MEN'S CLOTHING

Prices Are Right

Allen & Kearne
 3666-8th Street

Chapel Notes

After an absence of over three weeks, President Cossentine gave a report, Oct. 30, of the changes made, and decisions reached at the Fall Council. The rapid and phenomenal progress of the third angel's message in 1932 foretells the soon return of Christ.

As he viewed it, the demonstration given of the Plymouth car was the most thrilling feature at the Exposition in Chicago.

Professor Morrison, in chapel, Nov. 1, briefly told the history of the beginnings of the first police organization, which was in England in 1829. Many examples of the honesty, courage, and tact of the Northwest Mounted police of Canada revealed their powerful influence for preserving peace on the frontiers.

"Once more we as Adventists will be facing the calendar reform question", Elder Dalrymple stated, in chapel, Nov. 3. He discussed the plans advocated by calendar reformers as regards their attitude toward Sabbath keepers, revealing it as uncompromising; and to the new calendar, which is perfect except for "Year Day", which would throw the Sabbath out of harmony with the days of the week.

Patter Excerpts

Poets are born—that's the trouble. Walter Winchell.

It seems as though this year the usual unusual weather has been more unusual than usual. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Some men grow under responsibility; others only swell.

He who laughs last seldom gets the point anyway.

Mrs. J. Donald Clark
Visitor at S. C. J. C.

Formerly Bertie Myers, now Mrs. J. Donald Clark, returned for a visit over the week-end of Nov. 4 to S. C. J. C., staying at the home of Miss Applegate.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark are living in Salt Lake City where "Don" does all the stenographic work in the Conference office.

Mrs. Clark visited her sister, Hazelle, in Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Clark, Sr., in Belflower during her stay in the southland.

Former Professor Visits College

Howard Miller, former woodwork instructor at S. C. J. C. and previously woodwork professor and athletic coach at Corona Junior High, visited here last week, meeting many old friends.

He is living at present at Laurelwood, Oregon.

Der Deutsche Verein

(Continued from Page One)

English. Arthur Stewart described the geography of Germany. The most popular German sports were discussed by Arthur Dockham. Football in Germany, it was discovered, is equivalent to American soccer, but there is no difference in tennis as played there and here. Winter sports are also popular in Germany.

At each meeting of the club, games helpful in increasing one's German vocabulary are played. Several German songs have also been learned by the club.

Our Alumni

Say, folks, a little bird scattered some "gossip". Lorita Gober, whom all here have heard of, seen, or known, recently wrote to her so-called "brother" of S. C. J. C.

"... The Wohlforth twins, Alice Abraham and I are at the "White" for our nursing work, and do we like it! I'll say we do. We don't have days off yet, so can't visit our Alma Mater, but do we think of it and the fun we had there—along with some that wasn't funny! Anyway, we think of all our friends there often, and are anxious for the time to come when we can visit you-all, and see the place since all the improvements. The Criterion helps keep us posted on things of interest.

P. S. I won't have to scrub the dining room on my birthday this year, but I'll probably scrub pans of all sorts, and people too, (ha! ha!)

Lorita may be our school nurse yet.

Algunas Palabras: Por Que No Me Gusta Escribir. Miseria. Lo Corto

Moises A. Gonzalez

Con estas lineas abrimos la Columna Espanola, segun ofrecimos en el ultimo numero de "Criterion".

Nosotros auguramos un exito, si llega a publicarse durante todo el ano escolar con la mutua cooperacion de los estudiante de este idioma.

Seguramente, nuestros lectores, no han de encontrar en esta columna, joyas literarias, pero al menos el humilde pensamiento de los que escriban en el futuro.

Antes de principiar con otras cosas, expresamos nuestro agradecimiento a nuestro buen amigo Mr. Milton Lee, director de este vocero, por su cooperacion en publicar esta columna.

Mi nombre en "Criterion", es un nombre nuevo. Algo de eso me dijeron el otro dia. Y tenian razon...

Hoy se me obliga a escribir. Por eso la hago. De otro modo...

Por que no me gusta escribir? Yo conozco bien la vieja muletilla. Lo unico suyo—dicen—es la firma. Pobrecita mi mama que carga con el pecado de mis estupideces.

En estos momentos que el mundo marcha sobre el campo de la crisis es cuando la miseria se deja sentir con todo su peso. Y eso es logico, donde este la crisis, por fuerza tiene que estar la miseria. Son dos cosas que marchan paralelamente.

Una extrana confusion se observa por todas partes. Nunca el espiritu humano ha estado tan inquieto como hoy. Jamas ha habido tanta miseria en el mundo como en el presente.

La miseria trae consigo hambre; la miseria es la destruccion de hogares; la miseria lleva hombres a la carcel; la miseria es la perdida y degeneracion de la debilidad del hombre. Es posible remediar la miseria del mundo? Es una pregunta dura, dificil de contestar. Acaso podeis vosotros?

Ya nadie lee los libros porque son muy largos.

Por eso lo que escribo no llegan a trecientas cincuenta palabras.

Estan encerradas en un molde estrecho... Como los cerebros de mis companeros.

Girls' Forum

(Continued from Page One)

Bernice Hawkins, Alice Clement, Irene Gass, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Simkin, Gladys Holmes, Ruth Hawkins, Wilbur Rieke, Esther Larson, Frances Rutan, Lois Parker, Irene Strock, and David Hester.

«The Gateway»

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Bi-Weekly Publication of Southern California Junior College

VOLUME V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, NOVEMBER 30, 1933

Number 5

Lecturer Gives Insight on Sino- Japanese Question

Was Japan right or wrong in her recent invasion in China was the theme of Dr. Anderson's lecture.

He began his lecture by several personal observations at making fun of other nationalities. He related his first experience in an American school. The students all poked fun at him because he was a blonde Swede but before long he was taken with the students and when a little Italian boy came to school he immediately joined with the rest of the boys and hurled jeers and taunts at the new arrival. Such is human nature in individuals and such it is in nations.

Dr. Anderson showed clearly how Japan was technically wrong in her recent deeds but he said that Japan claims that what she did is no more than what America did when she fought the Spanish American war or what the other nations did in gaining their colonies. His concluding thought was that there must be a change of heart or chaos and destruction will envelope the earth.

Interviews

Farm Manager

"Lack of interest in the work being done," says Mr Stearns, the farm manager, "is responsible for the greatest loss in farm production."

"Inefficiency is responsible for some loss, but most of the boys can work satisfactorily if they want to. They take the attitude that it is Stearns' worry what is done, when it is done and how it is done and they are merely drawing time and do their work on the side. Many of them do not care, and they do not keep their minds on what they are doing. They would rather stop and talk to a co-worker or at least do only second rate work while they talk or think about other things."

"The total loss to the farm from these sources is about twenty-five per cent, I'd say. Inefficiency causes some but it is mainly a lack of interest."

(Continued on Page Three)

Professor Lucas Addresses Students

Professor H. G. Lucas, Union Educational Secretary, was our weekend guest and speaker November 17-19, 1933. His message Friday evening at vesper services on "Overcoming" brought a hearty response from many in the form of earnest testimonies. Professor Lucas dealt with the message borne by John the Baptist heralding the Lord Jesus' first advent; he also dwelt on the Elijah message that we, as God's people, are giving to the world today, heralding the Messiah's second advent. He closed with the familiar, but precious verse of scripture, Revelation 3:20 "Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me."

Professor Lucas also spoke at the eleven o'clock hour, Sabbath, November 18. Again the appeal was made of having both "the Father and the Son to make their abode with us," John 14:23. His introductory remarks were made in regard to the death recently of one of our faithful burden-bearers, Elder Morris Lukens. He closed his sermon with several statements from the Spirit of Prophecy.

We are indeed fortunate in having so many of our leading workers to be with us. Very few weeks pass that we do not have an outside speaker come and bring us a message. Many of our smaller churches are not so privileged as we are, and we should show our appreciation by always being out to meeting on time and listening as though the Lord Jesus Himself were speaking the words of life to us.

Colporteur Band Meets

A new band has just been organized for those who are interested in canvassing. Mr. Kent and Mr. Van Atta started the band out by telling the members benefits and blessings received in engaging in this type of work.

The art of learning to sell books and magazines will be studied. Meetings will be similar to a Colporteur Institute.

The band has a membership of eighteen at present. Richard Delafield was appointed leader of the organization and Irene Strock, secretary. It has been requested that all interested in joining this group see its leader.

Thanksgiving Theme of Boy's Reception Southern Memories Recalled Throughout Program

With the spirit of Thanksgiving drawing nigh, and after students and friends had gathered within the basement walls of the dining room, which was dressed in an autumnal garb of corn stocks and pumpkins, their minds were carried far away with rhythmic strains of plantation melodies to the sunny South, around which the evening program centered, November 26.

Elder T. L. Oswald Conducts Services

"There is nothing so satisfying as a Christian life" stated Elder T. L. Oswald in sunset vespers, Nov. 24.

He drew his object lesson from the experience of David, who while fleeing from Saul asked the priest for a weapon upon which request was told that only Goliath's sword was there. David replied: "There is none like that; give it me." Indeed, in modern warfare against the enemy there is nothing like a Christian hope in winning the victory—"there is none like that; give it me."

In the church service Sabbath, Nov. 25, he compared the experience of the Israelites with the remnant church.

God instructed the Hebrews, "And let it be when thou hearest the sound of a going in the tops of the mulberry trees, that then thou shalt bestir thyself." So today as God's people see the workings of God in speeding on of the Gospel, they are to bestir themselves, "for then shall the Lord go out before thee to smite the host of the Philistines."

Benefit Program Given

The M. V. Thanksgiving Benefit program was given in the chapel, Saturday night, November 18, by the students and village people.

After being led in Scripture reading and prayer by Professor Morrison three readings were given by Esther Larson, Lucille Henderson and Mrs. Lafferty respectively, which were punctuated by a Thanksgiving song by the Juniors and a solo by Richard Holbrook. These were followed by a dialogue, "Angels Unawares".

Both cash and produce were accepted for admittance. About twenty dollars in cash were taken in and a large amount of produce. As a result of this program twelve baskets were made up, a four dollar bill paid for a family, and some repair work was done on a house.

The evening banquet was served in courses, being interspersed with music by the Riverside String Trio, and the public address was used with James Norton as Master of Ceremonies. President Cossentine gave a short speech, characterized by his usual humor. Professor Reynolds sketched historically, Thanksgiving from its birth to our time.

Toasts to the young ladies, to the faculty, and to our parents, were proposed by Ralph Giddings, Robert Sibley, and Ben Mattison, respectively.

Donald Davenport gave an illustrated lecture on "The March of the Infantry". The scenes consisted of babyhood 'snaps' of practically thirty-five fair lady guests. Clever quotations of "first words" or remarks which fellow students would appreciate by the "infant" grown up, accompanied each picture.

(Continued on Page Four)

Chapel Notes

November 13

"Do you know that Zoology is taught at S. C. J. C.?"

Yes, most of us do now, but until Professor Cushman told us about it in chapel many were not aware of the fact. As yet the collections that assist in the study are very meager. However, with tireless work a complete specimen representation may be obtained. The realization of this possibility is the dream of the head of the department. He displayed several specimens and told interesting things about each.

"Power-dives" originated with the hummingbird and not the airplane (aeroplane), according to Professor Cushman.

Many such interesting facts were presented to wondering students in a chapel talk. Professor Cushman also displayed several of his specimens that are "perfectly harmless" and "managed to live until they arrived at the school".

(Continued on Page Two)

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., November 30, 1933 No. 5

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....Milton Lee
 World News.....Marion Leitch
 Alumni.....Maxine Cortright
 Exchange.....Robert Cossentine
 Fountain of News.....James Lee

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....Richard Walters
 Advertising Manager.....Donald Davenport
 Circulation Manager.....Arnold Mueller

ADVISORS

Business.....A. R. Smith
 Literary.....J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

THANKSGIVING

Today more than 120 million people are celebrating Thanksgiving. The great majority regard it as a day to eat turkey, pumpkin pie, and cranberry sauce; a day to stuff with the best of dainties. They have almost forgotten the significance of those first Thanksgiving Days of the Pilgrims. They grasp the feasting side, and forget the rest. Those days were days devoted to thanking and praising God, sermons, good will, and friendship, as well as eating.

My friends is that your conception of Thanksgiving Day? I hope you have a fuller, broader view than this. Give thanks to God although the depression may have caused you to have a dark outlook. You still have life, perhaps friends, perhaps health, perhaps a place to live, perhaps work, and perhaps plenty to eat. If you think you have nothing to be grateful for, just look about at those who are less fortunate than you. Very quickly you will take a new attitude.

Fellow students, be thankful you are in a Christian school. Appreciate the chance to gain an education. Several years ago education seemed unattractive to me. I even dared to stay out a year. Before it as over I was in a place where talking with bedmates, reading, and especially thinking were in vogue. Here I gained a glimpse of the purpose and value of an education. You may hate school now; you may even regard teachers as nuisances. Teachers are friends, school is a blessing. Do not wait till you are too old, till your opportunities are passed, till all you can do is regret. Now is the time to make use of your privileges. Be glad for them. You will be happier and gain much more.

Thank God for S. C. J. C. Thank Him that you are a student here.

A. M.

THE CRITERION STAFF WISHES YOU AN ENJOYABLE VACATION AND A SAFE RETURN WITH THANKFUL HEARTS.

Alumni

Now what do you think—you alumni of S. C. J. C.? Thinking is not obsolete. What is your opinion of our College Beautiful, our Criterion, our improvements since you left? We know that some of you enjoyed the evening of November 26. Why not write us a nice big letter and see your name attached to it in print? Give us your frank ideas about S. C. J. C. and we will give you our hearty thanks. The biggest part of a whole page in the Criterion is yours. Use it.

Pre-Medical

One of the infestings with which this school is blessed, is that of a flock of pre-medical students. They are one of the hardest working group in the school. And they have to be, too, because they have a great deal to learn.

For the present, let's go on a visit to one of the classes these students can call their very own. This is college zoology, and it is laboratory time. As we walk in, the first person that we see is Mildred. Ugh! What is that awful bloody thing she has in her hand and at which she is looking with such a glint in her eye. Why, two hours ago that was a fine happy pigeon. She looks as though she didn't plan to leave anything but the teeth.

On the next row, there sit Ethel, Bill, and Milton, all studying hard enough, but ready to break into paroxysms of laughter at the slightest grunt. And over in the corner sit Clifford and Margaret, talking about the "weather", with Lloyd a few feet away, bobbing up every now and then to remark about the situation.

But this is only a small part of one part of the Pre-medic course. And we (meaning ye scribe, ye pencil, etc.) have neither time nor space or permission from the editor to take any more room in this issue.

Chapel Notes

(Continued from Page One)

November 17

"I wonder if any of you have noticed our campus," began President Cossentine. Last year over $3,000 was spent to improve the looks of the grounds. "Continual vigilance is the price of a good garden," he confided and then made the application by saying that "Our lives are just like gardens." So, friends, although the hoeing we did in the Week of Prayer is over, let us make straight our paths and so care for our souls that a great yield of the fruits of the spirit may be had!

President Cossentine encouraged all present at chapel to care for the garden of their heart by hoeing, weeding, and watering; as is done to our campus. "We have to keep everlastingly at it," he encouraged,

Reminiscence

Don Davenport

"How clear to our heart are the scenes of our childhood. When at the reception our photos are shown!"

History has the tradition of being a dull, dry, lifeless collection of related facts; however, there are exceptions to this traditional opinion. When the history deals with the one reading it or a friend or relative it takes on an entirely different aspect.

Out of the generosity of the parents and guardians it has been made possible for us to receive and compile some very important data which will prove of great mirth in years to come.

This column will contain all the facts received with the addition of the author's comment which no doubt will prove beneficial.

When Esther Larson was a little tike she suddenly exclaimed to her mother near by, "Oh! Mother come here quick, here goes a frying pan up the wall." Her mother explained that a frying pan was Esther's way of saying spider. Strange.

The following letter explains why we don't have something cute in about Helen Osborne. Maybe she will say something yet. Who knows?

Dear Sir: Received your letter a few days ago, and am enclosing a postal of Helen (Osborne) when she was about a year old. You can use it or not as you want. It's been too long to remember something she said when little anyhow something that would interest others.

The following is a quotation from Mrs. Elkins, Pearl's mother. "A friend of mine (Mrs. Elkins) told me something Pearl told her! Why mama could not keep house without me, and that never seemed more true than now." That might come in handy some time, don't forget how.

"Christmas of 1919 Mary's (McKersie) sole wish was for a doll. One night shortly before Christmas she left her doll out all night and as it rained during the night, the doll was a sorry sight. I told her I was afraid Santa Claus couldn't bring her a doll if she were going to leave them out doors. Very seriously she looked at me and said 'I 'spect he had better bring me a little duckie instead.'" We are quite original in our infancy, aren't we?

so let us keep our Week of Prayer experience for all time.

November 24

That Bro. Van Atta, of the Book and Bible House of our conference, has the ability to tell stories, is no longer a question in the minds of the students at S. C. J. C. The story of a man who bought a pearl, then by deceit sold it for a larger sum, demonstrated this fact and also the fact that the intent to deceive is a lie.

Kampus Kwips

by Henry Kuhn

A delightful little comedy takes place occasionally in the kitchen. The ice cream boys drive up from the milk-house to the back door and drag the two-hundred-odd pound freezer to the ice-box where with much scooping and scraping the contents is transferred to the kitchen containers.

Strangely, there is always some ice cream left over, and with furtive glances for marauders, the boys drag the freezer and its treasure out to the protecting darkness of the back porch. Then they return to the ice-box to finish packing ice about the containers, but one of them often lingers about the door with a suspicious eye to such as approach the back door.

Once in a while some pirate does appear, to their intense disgust, and then the war begins.

It is five minutes to eleven, now, after the reception, and all has been quiet except for the vigorous mob below the Criterion office who have been raising bedlam in cleaning up the remains of the party.

I cannot refrain from penning a little incident that happened at our table during the famous affair.

The theme song running through the "Southern Memories" section of the program was "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," repeated at appropriate intervals.

The gentleman at my right after partaking of such apple cider as he could legally, noted that the crackers were brought in after the soup had been stowed away. He observed that the "sardines" would probably come next. The happy person opposite him sleepily took exception to this and said we would probably have some "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia".

Meet again, fair readers, "Watchman Willie", famous offspring of Wilfred Aiery carefully nurtured and made famous by Dunbar Smith.

Willie's serious cogitations used to appear regularly in the Criterion's tow and three years ago. His chief business in life, as indicated by the telescope and pen, was gazing about and writing for publication—writing on evils observed on the campus, as well as more congenial occurrences.

The unfortunate caught at any rudeness or roughness became the subject of Willie's moral philosophizing in the next issue of the paper.

The books that are propping up Watchman Willie have sundry curious writing on them though two small in this picture to be made out readily.

"The trouble about letting Cuba stew in her own juice is that American capital owns so much of the juice."—Dallas News.

"Insurance against kidnaping is growing in the United States, but, paradoxically, no American Company is allowed by its charter to write it. It is being taken out in England, a country that has never had a case of kidnaping for ransom in all its history."—Colliers.

"Bannered across the front page of the London EVENING NEWS one afternoon last week were the headlines:

PROHIBITION IS DEAD—
THE MORMONS KILLED IT—
WHOOPEE
HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN.

Underneath was a picture of a man guzzling beer from a keg in a New York bar."

Watch its development.

"On his recent visit to Sweden, strutting General Herman Wilhelm Goring, Premier of Prussia and Germany's No. 2 Nazi, laid an enormous swastika-shaped contraption of laurel branches on the tombstone of his epileptic wife. Last week an irate anti-Nazi raiding party entered the cemetery, carried off the Goring laurel swastika and left this note behind:

'Some of us Swedes feel insulted by Goring's violation of tombs. His wife may rest in peace, but beware of German propaganda on a tombstone.'

Patter Exerpts

"Social tact is making your company feel at home, even though you wish they were."

"He's in his anecdotage."

"The best reducing exercise is to shake the head violently from side to side when offered a second helping."

The Best Xmas Gift
YOUR PHOTOGRAPH

PHOTO-CRAFT STUDIO
3714 Main Street, Riverside
PHONE 117

Interviews

(Continued from Page One)

Registrar

For seven years she has overseen the editing of the grades—from the days when this was La Sierra Academy and Normal through the first year we were a J. C. in 1927, when students who averaged 90% escaped exams, down to the present day.

"The more college students, the more interesting it gets," Miss Scott stated, referring to her work.

Who get the best grades, those working much of their way or those working least? In most cases those who work most. "Of course, she said, "there are exceptions," and that goes for both sides of the question.

The freshmen have a hard time the first six weeks. They are adjusting themselves after the big jump from the grammar grades to the high school.

She knew the answer to all questions but one: "Why do the girls get better grades than the boys?"

Kenneth Wood

"Kenneth, in which place would you prefer to live the rest of your life, China or the United States?" "Oh hum, I don't know, China, I guess." Was I surprised? I thought for sure that Kenneth would say the United States. "Why China," I asked. "Oh, I don't know" said Kenneth. I then asked him this question, "Is it the climate, the people, or the scenery that attracts you to China?" Kenneth answered, "The climate is awful, the people don't interest me, the scenery is nothing much to look at." "My, oh my," I thought to myself, "Why then would you rather live in China." Just about that time, he gave the answer to my question. He told me he liked China the best because he had lived there the most of his life. That answer to me illustrates a very important truth. The things we are accustomed to, we like the best.

Patronize our Advertizers

3662 Seventh St., Riverside Phone 514
PAXSON'S
Rubidoux Photo Studio
Special prices to students before Christmas
Commercial Photography

Xmas

Say it with stationery

The College Press
Arlington California

STROHMEIERS

Shoes and Clothing
for the
Whole Family

Arlington, California

FRANZEN'S
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

HEADQUARTERS FOR
Roofing
Paints
Builders Hardware

Furniture Stores
Hardware
China
Silver
Gloss Ware
Floor Coverings

Abraham's Clothing

Everything for Father and Son

"Service With A Smile"

Arlington, California

Boys' Reception

(Continued from Page One)

Following two vocal selections by Milton Prout, Henry Kuhn bid the audience farewell, assisted by Stanley Folkenburg, who substituted his own upper limbs for Henry's like members, which remained helpless within the overcoat he was wearing. Stanley illustrated the thoughts by the action of his hands as Henry formulated thoughts of his farewell. Henry frequently found his would be "hands", illustrating thoughts which he had not conveyed.

Prior to the banquet Mu Betta Kappa hall was inspected by Gladwyn ladies, escorted by their gentlemen partners.

Exchange

We read from the "Student Movement" of Emanuel Missionary College that there are thirty families of which at least two are attending school. The Boy's and Girl's Glee Club has been organized and officers elected.

Efforts are being made at the University of Colorado toward "desnobbing" the campus. Every student crossing the bridge over the lake must shake the hand of everyone he meets.

The president of Campion Academy, Professor E. F. Heim, is beginning his tenth year at Campion and his eighth year as president.

One of the girls of Los Angeles Academy was fortunate in being treated by the English III class to a free dinner as a result of a contest in story telling.

A student at St. Thomas College may take out insurance against being called on in class for 25c. If he is called on he may collect $5.

In the Sherman Institute script is being used to teach the Sherman students how to use their money. They receive their script for their work done and must pay for room, board, and entertainment.

CLUBS

Der Deutsche Virein

New officers of the club for the next six weeks' period are: Arthur Dockham, president, and Inez Mann, secretary.

On November 15, because of an approaching examination, the games played consisted of a grammar and vocabulary review. In one of the games, the letters of twenty infinitives were jumbled. These were to be arranged in order within a certain time. A prize was given the person arranging the most. Another game was getting as many words as possible from the word Weinachtsahend within ten minutes. A prize was also given the person writing the most correct words.

Girls' Forum

The second event of choosing friendship friends constituted the principal feature of the Girls' Forum the evening of November 23. After the short preliminary worship, the girls entered heartily into playing the game of "Ego"—in which a peanut is forfeited every time one is caught saying "I". After the revealing of former friendship friends by means of little farewell notes, the girls drew walnuts from a basket, in which were hidden the names of their new friends.

Science Club

Jesse Tolle, newly-elected president of the science club, opened the meeting with a report of the secretary, which was followed by the roll call. Each member present answered by giving a one minute talk on some science topic.

The name of the club was then discussed and a name chosen temporarily.

A trip to the desert was discussed and a talk by Professor Morrison concluded the meeting.

El Circulo Espanol

Following the roll call and secretary's report, ballots were passed out for election of the officers for the coming six weeks' period. The results were as follows: President, Allan Cossentine, Vice-president, Doris Harris, Secretary, Ethel Ausherman, and Treasurer, Tom Pellow.

Allan Cossentine spoke a few moments on benefits which can be derived from joining the new Spanish Sabbath School class. Orders were taken for Bibles and Quarterlies.

Kenneth Baylies introduced a game entitled, "El Baston". The players form a circle and pass the cane around during which a Spanish phrase is repeated. The cane must be taken by the left hand and passed on with the right. Many forfeits were collected.

A ten minute spell-down concluded the club meet, the girls winning against the boys.

M. B. K.

The electing of new members to act on the nominating committee to nominate officers for the next term of office took most of the time allotted to M. B. K. Club, Wednesday, November 15, 1933.

Kenneth Waters, Anthony Muff, and Al Prout are the new members of the nominating committee.

A motion was passed that a report be given by the reception committee. In the absence of Jim Norton, chairman of this committee, Stanley Folkenberg, treasurer, gave a brief report of this committee's plans.

Because its hour had passed M. B. K. Club adjourned without giving the planned for program.

C. C. C. News!

Say folks, have you heard about these C. C. C.'s and their private meetings? It was on an evening some time ago that the College Commercial Club organized in a not too formal way, by having a greedy get-together at Miss Hopkins' domain. Last time they met, candied sweet potatoes, the most delicious sandwiches, hot chocolate and gingerbread were among the eatables consumed during the business and program transactions. Everybody was happy! Is it not a pity that we can not all be Commercial students? Oh, yes! Al Prout is the C. C. C. president, Maxine Cortright is the secretary and the honorable program committee is composed of Mr. Van Auken, Miss Walde, and Miss Leitch.

Y. P. M. V. Meeting

"Our Reading Course Books" was the topic of the Y. P. M. V. Meeting Sabbath afternoon, Nov. 25. Each of the four books: "Out of the Depths," "Fine Art of Living Together," "Adventures in the Air," and "God's Great Out-of-doors;" were given a brief sketch.

Foreign Mission Band

The Foreign Mission Band met immediately following vespers for their first full-fledged meeting. The topic, "Africa", was spoken on by Joseph Pierce as to its geography; by Lola Olmstead as to its people and customs with pictorial illustrations; and by Irene Stroock on the remarkable advancement of the Message in the Dark Continent.

The next meeting will be Dec. 15.

Spanish Column

La Republica Argentina que se encuentra situada a la parte sur este de la America del Sur, es una de las primeras naciones que mas ha prosperado en la America del Sur en estos ultimos anos.

La agricultura esta adelantadissima en esta nacion del sur, lo que es un peligro para los Estados Unidos porque este esta disminuyendo grandemente en productos. El mas importante producto es el trigo. El lugar que produce trigo de mejor calidad es Santiago de Estero, a pesar de que en Argentina no se le presta mucha atencion al cultivo de este cereal de un producto de ochenta veces mas. El aceite de linaza es otro de los productos de Argentina y es una de las primeras en su esportacion. Asi mismo la produccion del maiz esta muy adelantada.

Argentina tiene mas de 60,000 kilometros cuadrados en bosques en el Gran Chaco como en el Patagona. La madera que sacan de los bosques, se venden a altos precios, tanto por su calidad como por lo fuertes que son. Algunas de las maderas que abundan son: el nandubay que crece a una altura de 25 pies, esta es usada para postes de orcos y sostenimiento de los techos. El algarrobo es otro de las maderas mas utilizadas por su durabilidad. Las hojas del algarrobo sirven de alimento al guanado. Los indios utilizan la resina del arbol para hacer chicha, seguramente debe de ser una bebida agradable para ellos. Abundan tambien el urunday, palo amarillo y el cedus que se utilizan tambien en gran cantidad.

Los productos naturales de Argentina son: el carbon, cobre, plomo, oro y petroleo.

La capital de Argentina es Buenos Aires, es una ciudad hermosa y moderna por lo que es la meca de la America del sur.

Administration Building

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Bi-Weekly Publication of Southern California Junior College

VOLUME V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, DECEMBER 21, 1933

Number 6

Elder O. U. Giddings Relates Missionary Experiences

God's protection and care for His servants, in perilous places was illustrated by Elder O. U. Giddings, president of the Southeast African Union, in his talk during vespers, Friday evening, December 1.

Even while they were in cannibal territory, God protected them, and blessed them in their efforts to help these man-eating people.

He related his experiences in order that his hearers might think of the heathen who love the Lord just as much as we do, and perhaps more so. He desired to illustrate how they will suffer persecution of any kind to remain faithful. Even those who are unbaptized will stand up for what they know is truth.

(Continued on Page Three)

Byrd Expedition Picture Shown

Byrd at the South Pole was shown in the college chapel, Saturday night, December 9, 1933. The picture is a tribute to the organizing ability of Commander Byrd. As far as it was humanly possible, he eliminated every danger and every risk.

Stores of provisions were cached along the proposed route to the pole. Expeditions were always in touch with the base by radio. This was true of the Commander's triumphant flight over the pole. The whole world was listening in and knew of his progress.

Modern science can combat the forces of nature to a large degree of success, as demonstrated by this picture.

"Messiah" Ushers In Yuletide

"The Messiah", directed by Harlyn Abel, was presented to usher in the Christmas season, by the Riverside Musicians' Association, in the Riverside Municipal Auditorium, last Sunday afternoon, December 10.

The chorus, which consisted of more than 250 voices, contained eighty singers from S. C. J. C. The orchestra was made up of members of the Riverside Little Symphony, which included three members from

(Continued on Page Four)

Wishing You A Merry Christmas

A Happy New Year

Resolutions

- A little less impatient with those we deem too slow;
- A little less of arrogance because of all we know;
- A little more humility, seeing our worth is slight;
- We are such trivial candles compared to stars at night!
- A little more forgiving and swifter to be kind;
- A little more desirous the word of praise to find;
- The word of praise to utter and make a heart rejoice;
- A little bit more careful to speak with gentle voice;
- A little more high courage to each task that must be done;
- These be our resolutions—and God help everyone!

Dope Evils Feature of Professor A. E. Rowell's Lecture

Speaker Relates Many Convincing Incidents

"Beware of 'headache powders', 'happy medicines,' or such fake medicines which are cocaine being given by some peddler," said A. E. Rowell in a lecture to the La Sierra congregation Saturday and Sunday evenings, December 16 and 17. "Stay away from dances and such places of amusement where you might easily be doped and harmed."

Dope is most commonly used as opium, morphine, a derivative of opium, heroin, a derivative of morphine, and cocaine, each being more harmful than its predecessor.

Opium stupefies, morphine is a sedative, heroin is also a sedative, yet gives the user a false eye, ruthlessness, and gives one the mental frame for a gangster, and cocaine is exciting in its effect. Cocaine and heroin make the user dangerous while under its effect, but opium and morphine addicts are dangerous when they do not have it.

Dope is manufactured by a great many of the most important countries, whose governments deal in their illegitimate traffic. Japan has no addicts but aspires to be the leading dope producer and weaken the western nations by its use.

There are 30 dope factories in the world, one of which could produce enough for the world's legitimate use for the next 10 years.

(Continued on Page Two)

Students From L. A. A. Give Sacred Program

Bible doctrines and denomination history students of Los Angeles academy presented a Christian education program at vespers, Friday evening, Dec. 15, under the direction of Prof. R. B. Prout.

The two features consisted of dialogues: "Ten Righteous," which illustrated Christian education as the only solution to the evils in the educational, social, and religious world; and "The Lost Church" presenting the value of the Church in the world today as the foundation for everything in our civilization that is civilized and uplifting.

Music was provided by a mixed quartet, ladies' quartet, ladies' duet, and a piano solo.

President Cossentine welcomed the visitors and urged them to come again.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., December 21, 1933 No. 6

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....Milton Lee
World News.....Marion Leitch
Alumni.....Maxine Cortright
Exchange.....Robert Cossentine
Fountain of News.....James Lee

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....Richard Walters
Advertising Manager.....Oran Colton
Circulation Manager.....Arnold Mueller

ADVISORS

Business.....A. R. Smith
Literary.....J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

BALLS BOUNCE

Young men, did you ever watch a "buddy" of yours hurry by, and then wonder what there was about him which held your attention as he continued down the side-walk? There's a moment of thoughtful silence, and you have it! "Why, he is wearing a newly-purchased shirt of mine!" Momentarily, a desire for mild revenge springs up within, but subsides with an added thought. "After all, guess I did forget to 'name' the shirt before sending it to the laundry." With that the mind descends to a region about the feet, which are warmly snuggled within an unclaimed pair of soft, woolen socks. Weeks followed, during which the socks and shirt developed "Nomadic" tendencies and might fittingly be termed "Public Utilities."

Look out, friend, don't throw the ball too hard. It may bounce back with such force that you'll become dizzy from its hit.

TRUE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Thousands in our fair country doubtless will turn a deaf ear to the whisper of Christmas spirit by partaking on Christmas Day of a "spirit" which has been legalized by repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. They will have interpreted the season's motto thus: "Freely ye have received beer, freely give more money to receive beer more freely."

Nevertheless, allow no such perversion of truth to discourage us to give all we are able to a needy neighbor. Yuletide should not be a season of expectation for what we hope to come our way, but a season in which all effort should be exerted to comfort and bring cheer to the disheartened. Receipts incorruptible and of far greater value than a cold monetary sum shall be such a giver's reward.

BRIDGE THE GAP

A vacation is just commencing which contains the last day of the Old Year and the first day of the New. Carry with you enough embers from the dying year to kindle a renewed fire of resolutions into the year just born.

Music Department Presents Students In First Recital

The first music students' recital of the school year was held in the piano studio on Sunday, Dec. 11. The piano and violin depts. gave the program of fourteen numbers, which gave evidence of much practice.

Outstanding in Miss Voth's piano selections were the three selections from MacDowell's "Woodland Sketches," played by Maxine Cortright, and Roger's "Etude Melodie" rendered by Doris Harris.

Several students of violin, under the tutelage of Professor Beisel, played some difficult pieces. Especially well-played were Mrs. Lester Cushman's numbers and Barbara Steen's interpretation of Bacowski's "Adoration."

The next recital will be held in January.

Professor Rowell Speaks

(Continued from Page One)

Motion pictures were shown of the manufacture of opium in a factory in Bangkok, Siam, where 1,500 workers keep the factory running for 24 hours a day.

Pictures were shown of the interview of an opium den in Bangkok where 3,000 were smoking opium showing the awfulness of the opium habit.

Prof. Rowell told and showed samples of dope smugglers' ways, which included hollow shoe heels, hollow glass eyes, stuffed kittens, tubes swallowed and anchored to a tooth, hollow crucifixes, cutaway card decks, cutaway Bibles, secret pockets in vests, etc. Dope sells at such a high bootleg price that many thousands of dollars worth can be hidden on a person without detection.

About 50,000 girls disappear annually in the United States, many of whom were innocently doped and are now addicts leading a life of vice. Prof. Rowell warns us to be on our guard because 90% of the dope addicts were innocently addicted.

Many incidents were told of addicts. George Stanley was supposed to be cured but went back to dope which he cleverly stole from Prof. Rowell while on his lecture tours as assistant.

Goggins, a desperado, was ruthless in his deeds of crime and dope peddling till bullets ended his life.

Reputable people such as doctors, preachers, rich people, and business people become addicts, proving that none are safe. Caution and knowledge are the only safeguards.

Barber: "Haven't I shaved you before, sir?"

Customer: "No, I got that scar in France."

Reminiscence

Don Davenport

The "Pause that Refreshes".

In trials and activities of the present generation there is nothing more beneficial nor more enjoyable to peruse and reflect, than to let one's mind wander back over the days of 'yore' and vividly recall the scenes of childhood.

Two chums are sitting before a crackling fire in a log cabin located in the heart of the Maine woods. They have been gazing intently at the flickering flames, the silence being broken now and then by the occasional hoot of an owl or the piercing scream of a distant pack of wolves. Suddenly the stillness is broken by a muffled chuckle from one of them to be followed by some exploit of old.

Perhaps while you are reading this article the sun is making its leisurely departure in the western horizon. For a few lingering moments the sky is wreathed in a glorious array of colors with such blending that your whole being is drawn to it. During the few minutes that follow before darkness engulfs the scene your mind will take flight to some incident or event melowed and made dear by the ages—hence the "Pause that Refreshes."

"Doris Ferne (Harris) began her musical career when quite young as she was apt in fingering the piano. When at the age of four or five her mother suggested giving her lessons as soon as she was old enough. She quickly replied, 'You don't need to. I can play now.' However, we are very glad that Doris took piano lessons."

Evidently Lucille Palmer had a guilty conscience, because when she went home she immediately asked her mother what "cute" phrase she uttered when an infant. Her mother replied that she didn't say anything cute when small, but waited till she grew up. Evidently there is a treat in store.

"When Nettie Atteberry called her father to a meal it was always, 'Daddy come to breakfast.' It made no difference whether the meal was in the morning or at noon or night." If Nettie has a huge appetite these days, the cause is probably that she does not get enough breakfast.

"The art of being happy lies in the power of extracting happiness from common things."

Foreign Mission Band

Professor Truit, speaking to the Foreign Mission band, Dec. 15, emphasized the need of Christian youth doing home missionary work, for that is all foreign mission work is when the missionary goes to his field, and of answering the call to "go" wherever the Master may lead.

Elder O. U. Giddings Relates Experiences

(Continued from Page One)

"The Lord will make a quick work among the heathen people that have been in such gross darkness for many centuries," stated Elder Giddings during the church service on Sabbath.

We now have a mission station where David Livingstone pitched camp just before he died, he related. There is still living a man who is called Father Abraham, who remembers the message left to his people: "Some day the white man will come into this country and tell you of the great White Spirit."

Where a tribe was hostile once, an aeroplane served as a means of bringing them the message. How God truly aids in turning unfavorable situations to the advancement of his cause was shown by other experiences.

The faithfulness of believers both old and young was illustrated in their devotion and their stand for God.

CLUBS

Girls' Forum

In place of the regular weekly program of the Girls' Forum, Dec. 7, a nominating committee was chosen to nominate officers for the next term, namely: Nettie Atteberry, Esther Larson, Gladys Holmes, Bernice Hawkins, and Irene Strock. The girls then went to their respective prayer bands.

Elizabeth Sciarillo was elected president of the Girls' Forum, the evening of Dec. 11. Other officers are: vice-president, Lucille Henderson; secretary, Hazel Walde; sergeant-at-arms, Marion Buckley; program committee, Inez Paulson, Velma Kenny, and Verna Belding.

El Circulo Espanol

Following the call to order by President Allan Cossentine, Miss Ausherman, club secretary, requested that each member answer his name by giving his or her favorite recreation.

Miss Sorenson devoted considerable time in describing the sport of Bullfighting with its glamor and excitement. The remainder of the period was occupied in playing the Spanish version of "Prince of Paris lost his hat," introduced by Lawrence Thompson.

M. B. K.

Instrumental music and impromptu speeches composed a very entertaining M. B. K. meeting, Thursday evening, Dec. 14.

Several selections were given by James Hayes on his harmonica. Bill Williamson with his piano-accordion rendered numerous numbers, many by request. The story of a king who offered his daughter and half of his kingdom to the teller of a never-ending story, which offer a young knight won, was related by Henry Kuhn. James Lee told the experience of a hermit with a mountain fairy who taught him that a hermit's life does not produce a perfect character.

C. C. C.

The C. C. C. (College Commercial Club) met again December 12, for their monthly meeting at Miss Hopkins' home. Dinner was first served and then the topic of the evening was discussed.

B. S. STARKWEATHER
Everything in Sporting Equipment
Quantity and Quality
3587 Eighth Street

Shop at ZEE'S

ZEE YOUNG MEN'S SHOP
Invites you and your friend to visit at any time

TWEED PANTS $2.95 to $4.95
SUEDE JACKETS $6.45 to $7.95

3913 Main Street

THE COLLEGE PRESS

with its modern types is now equipped for those 1934

Announcements Letterheads Receipts
Programs Statements

FRANZEN'S
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

▲
HEADQUARTERS FOR Roofing
Paints
Builders Hardware
▼

Furniture Stores
Hardware
China
Silver
Glass Ware
Floor Coverings

We Specialize
in
STUDENTS CLOTHES

Anderberg & Son

MOHAIR SWEATERS
For Boys and Girls

in Olympic Blue
Powder Blue
Brown
Canary
Mulberry
Art Green
at $4.95

The Genuine
PIGSKIN SWEATERS

of Brushed Wool
at
$3.95

ROUSE'S
MEN'S SHOP

Franco-American Bakery
"Home of good things to eat"
3753 Ninth Street
Phone 525

Patronize our Advertisers

Men's and Women's SNAPPY SHOES

Featuring all the season's newest in all leathers and styles. One of the largest stocks on the coast. Over 75 stores in Calif. makes possible these low prices on quality footwear $2.25 to $3.95.

KARL'S
3905 MAIN STREET

Christmas Giving is Christmas Living

Kampus Kwips

by Henry Kuhn

At last we have a club. The "Griper's Club." Kenneth Baylies is secretary and will dispense information on request.

They organized one evening after the first blinks. First a noisy, tramping crowd burst into George Rutan's room (I judged by sound; I was in bed directly below). Then it sounded as though a resolution was being read, amid various discordant sounds, through which pierced an enthusiastic "viva" (More blatant noise). Finally they crashed into the hall and executed a "march."

It looks like a good chance for someone to gain fame organizing an opposition "Booster's" club.

Everybody takes a hand at raising J. C. Brewer, diminutive freckled faced ex-roommate of Ted Vanos. "Jay" raised Ted once. They had a "double-decker" bed. Ted was lying on the upper shelf on the edge. Jay curled on the lower one, conceiving a sudden inspiration placed his feet against the springs above and heaved up. Ted bounced off and stopped when his feet hit the floor six feet down.

It is not recorded just what Ted said or did.

On sundry afternoons, if you wish to escape blues, or ennui, drop in at the abode of Hickman, Matteson, Inc. Because of the atmosphere.

It is the "hang-out" of Vic Mann, Allan Turk, and Bill Williamson—and his accordion.

"Messiah" Ushers In Yuletide

(Continued from Page One)

S. C. J. C. The solo parts were sung by: Blythe Taylor Burns, soprano; Clemence Gifford, contralto; Hardesty Johnson, tenor; Frederick McPherson, baritone. "They are undoubtedly the finest soloists this side of Chicago," stated the director.

"Glory to God", sung by the All Saints Episcopal Choir, which was comprised mostly of boys, was the feature.

The building was jammed twenty minutes before time for the curtains to part. It is estimated that 500 were turned away. The Congregational Church was connected with a microphone to take care of this overflow.

Not Tomorrow

The time to do a kindness,
to speak a word of cheer,
To ease another's burden,
To drive away a tear,
To soften down a sorrow
That clouds another's brow,
Is not, oh friend, tomorrow,
but now, now, now!

Thanksgiving Vacation

A taffy pull and a few indoor games were provided for those who remained at the school Wednesday evening, November 29. About thirty students were present and seemed to enjoy the evening.

A ride to Jack Frost lake on a hay wagon and games at the lake provided something different for the enjoyment of the students who were at the school Thursday evening, November 30. Thanksgiving dinner had filled them to such an extent that it lasted during the entire evening.

Saturday evening, December 2, the students played games and marched in the Boys' Dormitory parlor. The cold weather outside caused the marchers to remain indoors most of the time.

THREE OUT OF FIVE

According to the United States Census figures, 60 percent of the people of the United States have no religious affiliation. This means that three out of every five in the nation have no connection with any church or with organized religion. And yet some would call ours "a Christian nation!"

PROXY

In Canton, China, because Shih Kwangtung could not come from Singapore for his marriage ceremony, the bride's parents selected a handsome rooster to take his place, and married their daughter off to it.

AS BAD AS OURS

Rural schools in Western states have been hard hit by low prices and economy. In many rural communities teacher's salaries have been reduced to less than $30 a month.

WONDER IF SHE USED—?

A check for $500 was recently presented to Mary Dulje of New Jersey by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as her award for winning the "national smiles" contest. More than 60,000 contestants competed.

THIS AND THAT

It takes one seventh of a second according to Marconi, of wireless fame, for a word to girdle the globe.

People in the United States use 910,000,000 matches every day.

During the 158 days which the Chicago Century of Progress was open to the public approximately 22,000,000 people passed through its gates. From these, revenue amounting to some $35,000,000 was collected.

"If you ever find happiness by hunting for it, you will find it as the old woman did her lost spectacles, safe on her own nose all the time."—Josh Billings.

Our Alumni

December 18, 1933

Dear S. C. J. C.-ites,

It truly does my heart good to write to you folk and honestly be able to tell you that S. C. J. C. and its Criterion compels appealing interests for the alumni.

I think back, on exactly one year from tonight—the Girls' Reception, and with it the famous apple pie, Christmas decorations, the Family Album of Killy Eberhardt, and ever so many niceties. Wouldn't you like to have been there, you new students of '33? And yet, I don't know. Each year, school life at S. C. J. C. grows better. Is it true that you even had imported dishes and silverware, and an imported orchestra at the Boys' Reception this year? Style fades not with prosperity, I see.

I just heard recently about the late action of the faculty regarding College girls' uniforms. Did they really keep it a secret for three whole months? I imagine it will make the Academics strive to "grow up" more than ever.

The other day I was talking to Rae Cason and how we did wish we had not graduated from S. C. J. C. so soon. We both agreed we were missing out on a lot.

Well, if I could yell loud enough, I'd give S. C. J. C. a hearty cheer. Just one? No! One for its students, one for its faculty, one for the paper, and three big cheers for the College itself.

Just an Alumni

Alumnus Pays Brief Visit

James Hawkins, graduate of the Theological Dept., class of '33, recently passed through here on his way North.

He has been assisting Elder Sage in his tent effort in San Diego.

Pre-Medical

Ray Barker

Among the many inevitable classes that the pre-medical students cannot evade is the interesting, yet tedious Quantitative Chemical Analysis Laboratory, commonly known as Quant. Lab. Judging from accomplishments, it is often a mystery just what the purpose of Quant. Lab. is. It may be a beauty parlor, for Allen Turk and Bill Williamson usually come out one shade whiter than they went in. Some recognized referee, such as Harry Hickman, marks off two lines some five paces distant; Al Turk stands at one line, Bill Williamson on the other, with wash bottles filled and aimed at opponent's face. At the "high sign" each puffs as hard as possible. The contestant with the poorest aim or least perseverance gets a much needed hydrotherapeutical facial treatment.

Ralph Giddings finds Quant. Lab. a very satisfactory place to experiment with his "spit cannon"; that is, a can containing a little calcium carbide on which he spits to generate thylene gas. "Hot spit". He puts the lid on the can and lights the contents. A terrific explosion follows. One such explosion frightened Lucille Palmer out of nearly one year's growth when it was ignited in the Criterion Office while she was typing one of Professor Reynold's thesis, or something. We understand that she had to retype one page.

Every well organized institution must have its "club house." The most advantageous place for this is the balance room, slightly inadequate in size but large enough to accommodate a dozen students so long as they all stand up. It is a handy place to discuss campus politics, who took who to the reception, who got all the "A's", etc.

In spite of the battles, debates, and parlor tricks that take place, there is some very good work done. Allen Turk takes the blue ribbon in as much as he got within two hundredths of one percent on a determination for chlorine in an unknown substance. They say that an "A" student may get within one tenth of one percent.

And so goes Quant. Lab.

Exchange

During the past week the single bands of Shenandoah Valley Academy have been averaging between fifteen and twenty dollars an evening. Since it is cold, there is hot chocolate waiting at the dormitory.

The Campus Chronicle reports that nearly two hundred voices presented Handel's "Messiah" last Saturday evening at the college auditorium.

Fourteen of the thirty-one teachers of Pacific Union College are alumni of that college and three of our own teachers are of the class of '19.

Pasadena Junior College gave their annual song-fest recently in which it is their custom to sing Christmas songs in the various modern languages and to end the program all the various singers join in singing the chorus of "Come All Ye Faithful" in the several languages at the same time.

A band concert has been given by the Sherman Indian Institute band in their auditorium. This year the band will play again December 19.

Twelve of the members of Adelpian Academy have been cutting wood in a wood lot a few miles from school for several weeks. We wish we had some.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Bi-Weekly Publication of Southern California Junior College

VOL. V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, JANUARY 4, 1934

Number 7

Motion Pictures on South America Shown

R. E Bowles Lectures
On Country

Mr. R. E. Bowles, of the Pacific Press, directed the thoughts of all present in the Auditorium New Years' Eve toward the great continent south of us. These films of South America were taken by Elder C. K. Myers during his travels in that country.

Scenes from the city of La Paz, from life in the high Andes, our work at Lake Titicaca, colporteur institutes, and the port of Rio de Janeiro, were among the sites of interest commented upon by Mr. Bowles.

Allow the light of this message to pierce the hearts of these darkened jungles and there will be found a hearty response to its brightening rays by those who dwell in heathen superstition.

Professor Flaiz Speaks at Vespers

Elder Flaiz, a returning missionary, addressed the students at Vespers, Friday evening.

"Hold Fast that which thou hast," he said earnestly, time after time. He stated there was a possibility of losing what we have actually had at one time in the past.

Paul, a thorough Christian, regarded this as a possibility and resolved to rule himself, "Lest I," he said, "might become a castaway."

"Let none take thy crown," Elder Flaiz went on a little later. This figure originated in the old Olympic Games. The runner, nearing the goal might ease his efforts and see one take the crown that was nearly his.

"Now," warned the speaker, "we are in danger of being swept away by what is attractive about us in the world."

He spoke of an experience that showed the advisability of having something firm to hold to.

His family was on a large liner en route from Vancouver to the Orient. When a few days out of port, the ship ran into a heavy storm that grew in intensity as the days passed.

(Continued on Page Three)

Annual Xmas Dinner Draws Large Group

A group of about fifty gathered in the festively decorated dining room, Dec. 25, for the annual Christmas dinner.

Mock turkey and cranberry sauce were the main features of the meal, following which speeches were made by the President, James Lee, and Henry Kuhn.

President Cossentine and his family, Professor and Mrs. Sorenson, and Mr. A. R. Smith were guests.

Group Entertained at Smith's

Dr. Smith's home in Riverside was the scene of a party held last Saturday evening.

Following several reels of motion pictures, refreshments, such as various salads, cookies and brick ice cream, were served.

Among those present were: Dorothy Bovee, recent editor of the Campus Chronicle, Donald Davenport, Robert Garrett, Virginia Garrett, Margaret Mackay, James Lee, Leona James, Oran Colton, Milton Prout, and Clifford Shipley.

Remaining Students Enjoy Vacation

NEARLY FORTY STAY

Rest, Work, and Entertainment Occupy
Vacationists

About forty students remained at the College during the mid-winter vacation.

The school routine was changed and relaxed to permit a restful pause for them.

During the daytime most worked. About every other evening there was some form of entertainment. Sometimes there were games like "battleship," "ping pong," "indoor baseball," and other more or less sedentary games. Twice there were more vigorous games like "tag marching."

Every second or third night would be open night when one was left to his own devices.

The small group was like a large family.

Students Attend Party At Bagley's Home

Thursday evening at 7:30 a group of students gathered at the home of Mrs. Bagley at a party.

Various games, animated conversation, and refreshments occupied most of the evening. Two of the girls present demonstrated a "mental telepathy" when one of them would go out while an object was chosen, then returning would pick the correct object on being questioned.

They, in turn, were for a time mystified when others in the room did the same without knowing the correct signals. Later they discovered that others in the room were cheerfully giving illegal signals.

Among those attending were Alice Van Tassel, Morgan Adams, Betty Adams, Gordon Palmer, Esther Aam, Dorothy Raley, George Bagley, Esther Carlsen, Sarita Nydell, and Harold Connor.

RECREATIONAL SPOTS AS THE STUDENT SEES THEM

Little is said of the advantageous nearness of S. C. J. C. to certain spots of scenic and historical interest of Southern California. Many of these are within one to three hours' driving time from the school. Here are a number of them listed with their features and driving distances from the College.

Glen Ivy

This charming glen is the nearest spot to the school that possesses "wild woods."

The sycamores and alders stand thickly for miles by the course of a rippling, little, trout stream. There is heavy underbrush, and in the lower canyon wild grapevines drop fifty feet from the trees to the earth.

There is a hotel and warm sulphur plunge at the entrance of the glen. Here begins the eight-mile trail to the summit of mile-high Santiago Peak.

Considering the nearness to the school of this spot, it is remarkable that more people do not visit it.

Three-quarters of an hour driving time. Excellent paved road.

Lake Arrowhead

has been the scene of a number of class picnics, and countless smaller affairs.

The tall pines standing against the blue sky and reflecting in the even deeper blue of the lake, give an intense charm to this mountain country.

The driving time from the College is about 3 hours. Paved, high-gear road.

Forest Home and Mt. San Gorgonio

Forest Home is in a typical mountain valley covered with the usual pines. There are a large number of cabins here and it is quite a resort. A creek breaking from the side of the canyon forms Twin Falls.

In this valley begins the eight-mile trail to the 11,000 foot summit of Greyback. A few of the students have reached it, among them Ralph Giddings and Carol Curtis.

Driving time to Forest Home is about three hours.

Mt. San Jacinto

reaching an altitude of 10,800 feet, overlooks the Colorado desert and Salton Sea. The northern side of this mountain has the longest single rise in the world. Like the other higher peaks, the Pacific Ocean can be easily seen from its summit on a clear day.

It is about this mountain that the final scenes of Helen Hunt Jackson's story "Ramona" were laid.

Three years ago this Xmas, President Cossentine led a large group of students to the summit, arriving in time to view the sunrise.

Almost every year some scholars from the College reach the top, and the register has many names of S. C. J. C. alumnus on it.

The driving time to Idyllwild, the resort, starting point of the trail, is about three hours. Paved road.

(Continued on Page Two)

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., January 4, 1934 No. 7

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....Milton Lee
 World News.....Marion Leitch
 Alumni.....Maxine Cortright
 Exchange.....Robert Cossentine
 Fountain of News.....James Lee

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....Richard Walters
 Advertising Manager.....Oran Colton
 Circulation Manager.....Arnold Mueller

ADVISORS

Business.....A. R. Smith
 Literary.....J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

HYPOCRITES?

Do you remember that testimony meeting in Vespers when you saw someone stand and speak. You looked down your nose disgustedly and said to yourself: "Ah. Just like him, the hypocrite. Why only last week I saw him doing this and this, and he'll go out of his way any time to listen to jazz."

Then so-and-so arose and spoke. You said to yourself again: "Very humble here but the way she acts outside you'd say her perpetual anthem was "Here I come, you lucky people."

No. They are not hypocrites. Few students really are. Human nature in the raw is a series of varying moods, a pendulum ever swinging from one mood to another. Those few, blessed people who preserve an even tenor of existence have conquered their moods so that they live a consistent life.

A PARABLE

Once there was a man who prided himself on his appearance his friends, his scholarship, and, withal, was very satisfied with himself.

Across the hall there lived another man, one who worked most of his way, averaged C plus, and withal was rather humble.

The first man despised the second a little because of his humbleness, and carefully refrained from associating overmuch with him. But in one night, in dreams, was his blindness removed.

He saw his neighbor as he was—and a voice seemed to say. "He whom you despised is living to the limit of his capabilities, while you, being born with talent, have not exerted yourself to a proportionate achievement. Awake and work!"

Are you living to your rightful limit?

WORKING?

Some years ago when Japan was still in its medieval stage the emperor was striving to modernize his nation. He gave an order for students to learn English, and to acquire the knowledge of the western nations.

The Japanese scholars in obedience to their "Mikado" studied with incredible diligence. One of them, because of his terrific exertions to obtain a western education died an hour after receiving his diploma! Others had their health seriously undermined. All because of a man's command.

Should not we, then, who have such splendid opportunities to learn the science of the successful Life try to uncover and apply its rules?

—H. K.

Recreational Spots

(Continued from Page One)

Mt. Baldy and San Antonio Canyon

The canyon, with its tributaries, contains some scenery notable for its ruggedness. The lower reaches of this immense gash are covered with sycamore, alders, willows and the usual Southern California chaparral.

A small mountain creek winds about. During storm times it rises to a crashing torrent and rolls large rocks down the stream bed.

At higher elevations the spired pines mantle the tops and sides of the ridges.

The peak is 10,000 feet in height and has snow on its summit nine months in the year. The trail to the crest is one of the shortest of the higher mountains of this part of the state. Last year Monte Avery reached the top in winter after a heavy fall of snow.

The upper canyon is about 3 hours driving distance. Paved road.

The Glenwood Mission Inn

This Riverside Inn amounts, in part, almost to a museum. It carries the Old Spanish Mission atmosphere. Many relics of the old Missions are gathered together within its walls. It has the largest collection of bells.

In the Oriental section there are images, paintings, small pagodas, and scores of smaller articles.

Quite a number of notable people have made this hotel a stopping-place. Carrie Jacobs Bond wrote "The End of a Perfect Day" there.

Visitors are welcomed Tuesday and Friday afternoons.

Driving time is about 25 minutes.

Nature

An Essay

One of the earliest recollections that I have of really loving nature for its beauty had for its setting a summer resort in the mountains of Saland. A number of the neighboring families went on a picnic to an obscure valley, which was quite beyond anything that I have seen. A mountain brook cascaded into a series of pools, one above another, and each succeeding pool was larger than the one before. From the sixth pool, the water poured over a ten-foot fall into a roughly circular basin about sixty feet across. The bottom was firm, white sand, and the whole was nearly surrounded by trees and a luxuriant undergrowth. Then I sensed unconsciously the beauty of the place, rather than putting it into thoughts. But, that last pool remains in my memory as some exquisite dream when one has awakened and wishes he could return to it again.

Reminiscence

Don Davenport

Humanity has a very bad trait; that is laughing at other peoples mistakes and infant sayings. This column while not exactly catering to the established habit of making fun of 'individuals' failings, does plan to provide wholesome mirth through quoting some of the wise statements uttered in childhood.

"I'm afraid Irene (Gass) didn't listen much to her lesson on her first Sabbath morning in the Cradle Roll. Her attention was turned to a little boy with white curly hair. When I went to get her after classes, she said, 'Oh, Mamma, I have a nice little Rosy Posy Boy.'"

"The following are some of her (Mary Blakely) sayings when she was twenty-one months old. 'Come in outside, Yale. Knitting socks for the soldier boys alrighty. Dear Daddy, come home soon again.'"

Marguerite (Hadley) at the age of two years, was in her high chair at lunch time and eating her first piece of cherry pie.

Mother: "How do you like cherry pie, Marguerite?"

Marguerite: "Too many seedth."

"Another time, she and her mother were visiting her uncle's farm in Iowa, when they were shown the cows while they were being milked, but Marguerite could not imagine that milk was produced that way, so they gave her a glass of warm milk to drink; someone asked her how she liked fresh milk; she replied that she liked the kind that comes in bottles the best."

We wonder if Marguerite is still as particular as she used to be.

I first fell into the habit of hiking when on another mountain at about twelve years of age. Sometimes the aim would be finding lilies in some damp spot in a valley, but at other times some impulse, I knew not what, would move me to walk for hours on the hill paths, the pure enjoyment of the thing being the unconscious reward.

A few months later we moved to Northern California. There the out-of-doors was different. The brooding stillness of the thick pine forests had a distinctive charm. I used to slip away and walk in the faint fairy paths slowly winding between the firm barked trunks rising by them. There was a clean, fine independent air about the pines, mounting tier upon tier on the mountain slopes.

In North Carolina, two years later I again had hills and forests for exploring. Once I came on a level forest of pines that were oddly regular in size. The ground beneath was blanketed with light brown needles. A peculiar light pervaded the place; it seemed oddly open.

(Continued on Page Three)

A Matter of Decision

A Rollicking Story of School Life—and a Conquest

"Terrible grades," murmured Barry to himself morosely; "so what?" For several moments he lay on his "upper berth" thumping his finger against the wall, thinking; then he reached a long arm down and gently tweaked the ear of his diminutive roommate, who was reading.

"Wump, get me a drink."

"Lemme alone; can't you see I'm reading?"

Barry again tweaked the ear, with more firmness than before.

"Wump, get me a drink."

"Ouch, leggo; I'm notcher servant. Get it yourself."

At this juncture a series of knocks rained on the door and a voice called on the inmates to "let us in."

"Wump," said Barry, "open the door for the visitors."

Wump left his book with considerable celerity and approached the door.

"Who's there?" he called.

"The dean, and we monitors. Open up!"

"Go on. I know your voices. Your Sam, McTurf, and Loop," said Wump triumphantly, "you're—ouch!" as Barry reached him and unlocked the door, falling into the arms of his cronies. Wump safely placed himself behind the table and was interjecting uncomplimentary remarks into the conversation of the whispering group. He fell to reading, soon, then suddenly he became aware that the conversation was mysteriously interesting.

Loop was saying, "But we can't go on said snow-trip, when mine is laid up, unless we find another." The group fell silent, except for the hollow thump, thump, of Barry's shoes kicking gently away at the door jamb.

(Continued on Page Four)

Kampus Kwips

by Henry Kuhn

"Little Oswald" is the publicity name of a two-foot gopher snake who lives in the wall of the kitchen supply room. He was sighted one day inspecting the canned goods, or was he looking for mice? The discoverer gave chase, but being well trained, Little Oswald lithely ducked for cover, and hasn't been seen since.

In his letter congratulating Arnould Mueller on an editorial in the Criterion, Louis Greenidge made the same mistake a number of girls have made.

The editorial appeared over the initials A. M., but, it was Austin Morgan's A. M. and not Arnould's.

Saturday night at twelve o'clock, Oran Colton and Don Davenport were in the Criterion office. Ads became the topic of conversation. Oran chanced to mention a certain florist shop that wanted to pay for its advertisements with flowers. Don advised Oran:

"Tell them 'what do they think we are out here, a cemetery?'"

We Specialize
in
STUDENTS CLOTHES

Anderberg & Son

Nature

(Continued from Page Two)

Sometimes at autumn there is a sad feeling that comes to one in the woods. I felt it once on a forested slope in Saland. The leaves were falling; a few more days and bleak winter would be there. I felt a sense of something undefinable, tantalizingly close, but just beyond reach, something that never could be grasped.

But nature's manifestations vary. She speaks in tune with the heart of the listener. To one she will reveal a phase of herself that is in accord with his own heart. To another with a different sense of appreciation, she will show a different one of her many flashing faucets.

Thirteenth Sabbath

Owing to the fact that Thirteenth Sabbath would come during vacation, it was held Dec. 16 for the benefit of the students. The special feature of the program was a dialogue depicting several students from Inter-America telling of their needs in the Caribbean Training School for equipment and supplies.

Franco-American Bakery

"Home of good things to eat"

3753 Ninth Street
Phone 525

Professor Flaiz

Speaks at Vespers

(Continued from Page One)

Finally, at a time when all passengers had been forbidden to walk the decks, he and his wife went to the upper, stern deck to get some fresh air.

Shortly, a huge, double wave crashed on the deck, and would have swept them both into the wild seas had he not grasped the railing and held on.

Visitor: "And what's your name, my good man?"

Prisoner: "9742."

Visitor: "Is that your real name?"

Prisoner: "Now, dat's just me pen name."

A junk shop near a railroad crossing in Denver carries a sign with this hint to motorists: "Go ahead; take a chance. We'll buy the car."

MC MAHON'S

SPECIALIST IN FINE FLOWERS

Telephone 4800

Visit Our Plant Conservatory

3/68 Main Street, Riverside California

SEEDS -- FEED -- POULTRY SUPPLIES

STEVENSON'S

Birds, Cages, Fish, Aquariums, Pet supplies
Fertilizer, Insecticides, Plants, Bulbs.

PHONE 1724

3610 9th Street at Orange
Riverside, California

BRING US THOSE SOILED NEW YEAR'S PARTY CLOTHES

CLEANERS ACME DYERS

Telephone 1763-W

G. D. Staley 4024 Orange Street, Riverside, California

FRANZEN'S
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

HEADQUARTERS FOR
Roofing
Paints
Builders Hardware

Furniture Stores
Hardware
China
Silver
Glass Ware
Floor Coverings

For Distinguished Printing

THE COLLEGE PRESS
ARLINGTON CALIFORNIA

B. S. STARKWEATHER

Everything in Sporting Equipment
Quantity and Quality

3587 Eighth Street

Our Alumni

P. U. C.
Dec. 28, 1933.

"Dear Arnold:

Thought I would drop you a few lines to improve some of my spare moments now and to show you that I remember you.

Wishing you happy days for the new year and great achievements. Understand from Milton Lee that you are an academic senior. That's fine, keep up the good work.

Enjoyed your editorial in "Criterion" some time ago.

Yesterday began a series of foggy days for us. Snow is not found around this side of the world—you have it over us.

Drop a line once in a while, you know the paper can't tell all.

A Happy and Prosperous New Year to You.

Yours sincerely,
L. E. GREENIDGE"

When George Bernard Shaw takes a snapshot or photograph of friend, foe or scene, he pastes a large piece of paper in a corner of the print. On this he writes the name of the person, or the scene, and then, "by G. Bernard Shaw."

In a picture we saw of Rowland Escourt, a retired British barrister and an old friend of the writer, now living in Piedmont, Shaw's prominent notice that he took the picture took up almost half of the print.

Back of this Shaw passion for signing everything is a grim determination that no work of his shall pass unnoticed. That's why we mentioned it.

—Writer's Review.

Earl Labertew, of Iowa State College, ran 1½ miles with a broken leg in a two mile open collegiate championship. He finished tenth in a large field.

The Black Death of 1348-49 killed 25,000,000 people. But it gave the world a classic, the "Decameron." To escape the plague, Boccaccio exiled himself outside the walls of Florence where the black death raged. To while away the waiting he wrote what proved to be a masterpiece.

C
I
A
D
M
Y
P
L
L
A
W
T
I
L
D

A Matter of Decision

(Continued from Page Three)
An artificially deep voice rooled from behind the table:

"The famous Wump knows all, sees all. He can help you, "What's the matter?"

"Will you fold up," said Barry. Then to Loop: "I don't know; We can't walk. Maybe Dunraven makes a remedy," and he chuckled. Dunraven was familiarly known as "The Oracle." His chief claims to fame were an enormous shock of dark-red hair and a gluttonous appetite for reading.

"Huh," thought Wump, to himself, "they want another car." Then he said:

"The Oracle is a fraud. The well-known Wump, only, can help you. Bring your trouble to Wump. He knows—" and his voice stopped in smothered laughter as Sam's well-aimed pillows began catching him.

"Did the venerable Wump forsee this"—thump! "and this"—thump! said Sam cheerfully.

Wump fled to the hall, mocking his enemies as he went.

And then, left in peace, they discussed transportation and countless other incidentals. They needed a car to take the place of Loop's. Barry, it was, who finally found a way.

I'd get my sis's, but she says I can't use it until I get all A's and B's; and Trig, and that vile Thinking II get me down. I could persuade her on probation, probably." And so it was, promises, admonitions.

Two days passed in busy planning and enchanting anticipation of the trip. The evening before the day, Barry went to Dunraven's room to borrow his hiking boots. As usual, that worthy was buried in a book, eighteenth century essays, it was, now.

On Barry's third query, "May I use your boots?" Dunraven roused slightly and answered, "Of course," and fell again into "Lord Queensbury's Essays."

With a "Thanks a lot, kid," Barry left. Later he was admiring the nearly new boots when he noticed a neatly printed line near the top of the right boot. He read it with growing curiosity.

(to be concluded)

Spanish Column

LA NAVIDAD

Por Moises A. Gonzalez

La Navidad es la fiesta tradicion al por excelencia; una de las mas bellas fiestas que se celebran en el obre. Es la mas bella proque es simbolica y trae aparejada la santa idea del perfecto hober; por ello es que siempre lo festejmos "en familia".

Es la esperada fiesta por grandes y chicos, y casi por todas las razas del Aniverso. Los chicos, con su hermosa ingenuidad, se tornan sumisos y obedientes para con sus padres, a fin de que la concebida carta al "nino Dios" enumerando los juguetes que quieran que "les traiga", tenga satisfactoria respuesta; los grandes preparandose para dar y recibir regalos, y para comer mas golosinas y cosas exquisitas que en ningun otro dia del ano.

En la navidad, nuestro peus ambiente se transporta a lejana epoca, para recordar con emocion el nacimiento del Dios-Hombre; sus nobles y grandes ensenanzas, y la puerza de sus doctrinas, ensenadas con el ejemplo y ahora tambien con el ejemplo tergiversadas y adulteradas por los que se atreven decirse "sus representante."

Concentremos nuestro pensamiento en ese Gran ser, que es Dios mismo; por curemos vivir sus ensenanzas, o por lo menos alguna de ellas, y repitamos, con San Mateo, e esta fecha sublime: "Gloria a Dios en las alturas y paz a los hombres de buena voluntad."

Trails of College Folks

President Cossentine and his family spent two days at Lake Arrowhead, returning late Sunday.

A trip to St. Helena and P. U. C. was most of Miltons Lee's vacation. He visited among other friends, Bender Archbold, an alumnus of S. C. J. C.

Hazel Lay had a brief look-in at her home in San Bernardino.

After a few days with her parents and brothers at San Diego, Emma Flynn returned Christmas Day.

Clem, Nicolas, Maxine Cortright, and Verna Belding came back about the middle of vacation.

Morgan Adams, and Don. Davenport went to L. A. and Pasadena Monday-Tuesday. And a good time was had by the both of them.

Harry Hickman and Ben Matteson went somewhere.

Willis Miller took his vacation at his sister's at Loma Linda.

Philosophy and Wit

"Teach us to drive through life without skidding into other people's business. Preserve our braking, that we may stop before we go too far. Help us to hear the knocks in our own motors and close our ears to the clashing of other people's gears. Keep alcohol in our radiators and out of our stomachs. Absolve us from the mania of trying to pass the other automobile on a narrow road. Open our eyes to the traffic signs, and keep our feet on the brakes."—Author Unknown.

"What was the name of that last station we stopped at, mother?"

"I don't know. Be quiet. I'm working out a crossword puzzle."

"It's a pity you don't know the name, mother, because little Oscar got off the train there."

Deceitful little infidel,
Pray tell me, why did you
Stay secreted away until
I'd bitten you in two. —E. T.

"What we sow in the present, we reap in the future; the future is therefore in our own hands; we may determine today what it is to be."

Exchange

The Clock Tower (Union College) is coming out in a larger size than heretofore.

According to the Student Movement, the Senior Class of '34 organized on December 18.

The Broadview Exponent recently published a list of their "he-men according to height." There were twelve who averaged six feet one and nine-tenths inches.

A 45-year old student of P. J. C., Dr. L. Siever, was found murdered by an unknown assailant not long ago.

Lowell Thomas, famous writer, lecturer, and radio reporter spoke at Atlantic Union College Dec. 9.

Quoting from the Sherman Bulletin, we read:

"Combining a lecture with narcotics and 3 reels of motion pictures and also some keen satire on the motion pictures and his subject Earle Albert Rowell appeared before the student body and faculty Wednesday evening in Conser Auditorium."

Pacific Union College recently elected their "Chronicle" staff for the coming semester. Charles Anderson is editor.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Bi-Weekly Publication of Southern California Junior College

VOL. V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, JANUARY 25, 1934

Number 8

Harpists Entertain Group

CLASSIC AND MODERN SELECTIONS PRESENTED

Gertrude Peterson and Lucy Lewis, students of Alfred Kastner and Carlos Salzedo, presented a harp concert in the college chapel Saturday evening, Jan. 13.

They played classical selections and modern pieces, by renowned authors. The encore, "The Volga Boat Song" was praised by some as "the best number played during the evening."

Miss Lewis explained to the audience something about the instrument and its history. "The harp is very modern in its present form" she informed her hearers. About 100 years ago the double action harp was invented by which seven pedals control the whole mechanism and puts it in any key desired. She stated that a concert harp contained 2200 parts and that the 47 strings brought 1600 pounds pressure on the supports. She later related that the harps cost $2000, and weigh 75 pounds each.

In a month they will start a transcontinental tour.

Girls' Forum

An international program given by young women of Gladwyn Hall in the college chapel Jan. 11, was the second evening of its kind this year providing entertainment for the young men of Mu Beta Kapa.

Seven girls by their costumes depicted in turn different countries or peoples. The scenes were as follows: Maxine Cortright, China; Gladys Holmes, Spain; Jacoba Mandemaker, Holland; Aldine Adams, Philippine Islands; Mary McKersey, a gypsy; Leolan Crout, an Indian; Verna Belding, America, by the Statue of Liberty. Appropriate piano numbers, songs, a violin solo, readings, a short history, and a pianologue, were given by Lois Parker, Clementina Nicolas, Marion Leitch, Alice Clement, Hazel Walde, Aldine Adams, Pauline Cushman, Esther Larson, Leolan Prout, Agnes Sorenson and Mary McKersey.

Study only the best, for life is too short to study everything.

Elder T. G. Bunch Speaks at Vespers

"The new birth breaks down all national and racial barriers as far as the family of God is concerned. We all speak one language; that is the heavenly language," assured Elder Taylor G. Bunch, the Bible instructor at Loma Linda, in his talk January 19, on "What Christ is to Me."

"Everything that the Christian sees reflects the image of Jesus. He can see nothing else. He cannot talk anything else. Christ is his regular and best friend. He loves Jesus supremely."

The speaker offered three rules whereby a person could guide himself aright: (1) Before doing something ask, "Is this what Christ would do?" (2) Before going places ask, "Is this where Christ would go?" "This would settle the problem of amusement." (3) And when making a decision ask, "How would Jesus decide this question?"

"If Jesus does not take this place," he stated, "I don't see how we can go through these final events without this experience."

Death Valley Pictures Shown

Motion pictures of the annual trip to Death Valley taken by the science students of Glendale Junior College were shown in the chapel Saturday evening, Jan. 6: Mr. B. E. Yarrick, who has been the guide for the last three trips, prefaced the pictures with a description of the excursion.

The first of these trips was taken in 1925 with only three cars, growing to 38 cars carrying 168 persons in 1929. Since then the group has been limited to 60 individuals.

Among the places of interest touched are, San Bernardino, Victorville, Baker, Death Valley, Scottie's Mansion, and Trona, where a $20,000,000 plant extracts potash from Searl Lake. In 1932 Hoover Dam was included among the places of interest and last year the "Ghost City" of Rhyolite. The old Harmony Borax works were inspected, from which in the olden days the products were hauled in 20 mule team wagons.

Transportation is arranged with four to a car. For all but one night of the trip the custom is to sleep out under the open. —thus adding a romantic tinge to the trip. Ex-

(Continued from Page Three)

Journalism Class Attends News Writing Institute

The Journalism class of S. C. J. C., with Professor Fentzling attended the third News Writing Institute held at Riverside, Friday, Jan. 12.

"Principles of Newswriting," "The Rural Newspaper," "What is News?" and "The Country Correspondent" were presented by the speakers who discussed the principle of successful newswriting and the problems confronted by reporters and editors.

The students attending were James and Milton Lee, Byron Sanford, Ira Schultz, Violet Giddings, Lola and Cecil Olmstead, Frank Davidson, Bob Sibley, Richard Delafield, and Austin Morgan.

El Circulo Espanol

Featuring the meeting of the Spanish club anuary 9, Wallace Lorenz spent the period in relating personal experiences and his observation of the natives of South America. Mr. Lorenz had a collection of photographs, picturing our work and the scenery which one finds during his labors in these lands. These pictures were reflected upon a screen before the group.

Missionary Visits School

"Mission enterprise is the promulgation of the kingdom," emphasized Elder Vernon Hendershot who is now on furlow from Malaya, at vesper service, Jan. 13.

He cited as an example Jesus "whose life radiated the kingdom of heaven." "Talking the kingdom is more important than anything else." When other missionaries confronted him with the question "What are you doing here?" the only answer is, "I am representing the Kingdom of God." He asked each one present if they had taken out naturalization papers for this kingdom.

"How are we going to satisfy God?" questioned Elder Hendershot on Sabbath. The Indians walk through fire to appease their gods. Micah's solution is "to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

God wants a new deal "where he can come in and use us as his instruments" to carry out this three-

(Continued from Page Three)

Skating Party Held By A. S. B.

BIG PINES IS SCENE OF EVENT

L. A. County playground skating rink appeared to be holding a colorful ice carnival when some seventy-five skaters from S.C.J.C. "tried their luck" on the ice, the evening of January 22.

Following dinner the caravan of a score of cars left the College campus for Big Pines, outstanding winter resort of Southern California.

On arriving at the Playgrounds early in the afternoon, several groups worked off their excess energy in climbing a snow-covered hill at the edge of Jackson lake. Others sat about the log fire, kindled near the rink.

The six o'clock hour called all to a bag-lunch supper, with hot cocoa provided.

Forward plunges, back flips and tail spins on the ice, accompanied by amplified music, were features of the evening.

Students Conduct Sabbath Services at Indio

Four young men from the College took charge of Sabbath services at Indio the morning of January 20.

About fifteen members were present at Sabbath school and church, which meets weekly in the old Presbyterian church of Coachella, about four miles from Indio.

Special music was given by the quartet, Henry Bruner, Ralph Giddings, Milton Lee and Allan Cosentine. Ralph Giddings conducted the Review, followed by the lesson study by Pastor Whittock.

Henry Bruner, a ministerial student spoke on the subject, "Acquaint thyself with God," during the church hour.

College Commercial Club

Miss Kathryn Jensen and the first year Shorthand class were the guests of the College Commercial Club at the home of Miss Hopkins, Tuesday evening, Jan. 2.

Following a delicious dinner, Miss Jensen told those present what is expected of an office nurse, and what preparation is necessary.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., January 25, 1934 No. 8

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....Milton Lee
 World News.....Marion Leitch
 Alumni.....Maxine Cortright
 Exchange.....Robert Cossentine
 Fountain of News.....James Lee

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....Richard Walters
 Advertising Manager.....Oran Colton
 Circulation Manager.....Arnold Mueller

ADVISORS

Business.....A. R. Smith
 Literary.....J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

OPPORTUNITY AT YOUR DOOR

A new semester has just dawned! And with it comes the opportunity for each student to make it a glorious one. Now is the time for resolutions, if ever. And, doubtless, many more will be made than those that ushered in the New Year. Don't allow the accustomed relaxation following examinations to remain with you until the closing week of school, but push on with a renewed effort.

BROMIDES

"Working hard?" questioned a passer-by of his friend who had just paused for a moment of refreshment at the end of the clover bed he had been mowing.

Thoughts flashed through the mind of the amateur mower. Had his efforts not been apparent? Did the friend really question the degree of his exertion or was it just "something to say?" Such thoughts provoked an impatient "no" from the young mower and once again he focused his attention upon the remainder of the clover bed.

What would your reaction have been had you been in this young man's place? Working hard may, at one time, have created an interesting conversation, but now it provokes one's ire. Why? Because so many use the question when they have nothing else to say. Other expressions of similar weight might easily be avoided if we weren't so lazy.

Essay on Dresses

Esther Carlson

Dress serves for delight, for ornament, and for warmth. Their chief use for delight is to attract wandering eyes; for ornament, to serve as a decoration of the person; and for warmth, to protect the body from smothering heat or chilly cold. To spend too much time in dress is sloth; to use them too much for ornament is vanity; to use them for warmth in hot weather is insanity. Crafty men ignore them, simple men admire them, and wise men use them correctly. Dress not to attract attention, nor to cause talk, but dress simply and with good taste. Some dresses are to be worn, others to be admired, and some few to be laid away for memories' sake.

Dresses set forth one's character. There is no defect of the body but that may be remedied by proper dress. Padding is good for drooping shoulders and flat chests; long lines for obesity; and ruffles, flounces, and flares for a boney, slat-like figure.

Various shades and colors of dress enhance the natural beauty or detract from it. So if a person be pale let that one wear colorful dress; if florid of complexion, then somber colors give the best effect. So every defect of the body and every blemish of complexion may have its special recipe in the form of dress.

A Matter of Decision

(concluded)

The line was Latin. Barry slowly translated it, "I go where I will." Dunraven was a funny duck, thought Barry; just like him to write some moral philosophy on his boots.

Monday morning; came the frosty dawn. Slowly the group gathered until both cars were loaded.

Fifty miles of blue-gray pavement flashed past under whirling wheels, then a gentle rising up a wide canyon covered with chaparral and sycamores. Five more miles, and a few scrubby little pines gave hint of the whispering hosts on the upper heights.

Finally the end of the road in a little, snow-mantled, mountain valley—and the beginning of rocky trails to glistening peaks.

They tobogganned, washed faces, snow-balled, and at noon ate potato salad, hot beans, sizzling cocoa, applebutter sandwiches, and pumpkin pie.

Barry contentedly looked about at the winter scenery. Then his eyes stopped appraisingly on a high peak solidly rising to one side of the valley.

"Go you making it to the top, Sam," he said cheerfully. Even so, one could detect in his voice a certain seriousness. In his imagination he felt what the trail would be like—a gradually rising trail, then switch-backs across the face of the

Kampus Kwips

by Henry Kuhn

Harry Hickman and George Rutan started somewhere. When they got there they stopped by somebody's orange orchard—stepped under the boughs for shade from the scorching mid-winter sun. The irate owner appeared, and it was every man for himself. Harry made an excellent escape, reaching the dorm in a short time.

George was not so favorably situated for a rapid exit, so he sat down and started adjusting a shoe. The man soon discovered him, but George was diplomatic and was soon conversing amiably with him. George left and later met another boy from the school. Together they climbed a respectably large mountain nearby.

Meanwhile Harry at the dorm wondered why George didn't come home. He began to worry, and worried until he had conjured up visions of poor George languishing in the "hoosegow."

He kept right on worrying until George came back—after dark.

Venerable place—the Criterion office. Here is a safe place for books and other belongings of such as possess keys to the door. It is a gathering spot for wits who enjoy appreciative listeners. They gather in little groups, at noon during the busy school session, in the afternoon, or late at night when the faithful are working on the next issue of the Criterion.

Four papered walls and two doors inclose desks, chairs, orderly files, and piles of ancient Critterions, over which hover the spirits of bygone editors, some of whom are now nearly legendary.

Three walls are decorated in a strictly orthodox manner. The fourth is beginning to assume the appearance of a literary museum. The Chief's orders, now, you know. The best item collected so is a cartoon depicting three different kinds of editorial sanctums. It wasn't expected to stay up long—but its still there.

mountain, finally a precipitous knife-edge and the wind-blown granite rock of the lonely summit.

"You couldn't make it up and back, now," Esther said, with a slightly challenging note, Barry thought.

Sam thought that was quite right, too, and expressed himself in similar terms.

"Piker," said Barry with friendly sarcasm. "I'll be seeing you. And he strided toward the trail.

Two hours later he was far up on the switch-backs. Very good time, he thought, looking into the deep space below.

(Continued on Page Three)

Exchange

The battle of the Eagles and Lions is the unique name by which the "Sligonian" indicated their subscription campaign which they are now waging.

An examination in the University of Mississippi asked for the principle parts of any Latin verb. Upon one paper was written: "Slippee, slipere, falli, bumpus." The returned paper had these words: "Fallo, falere, flunco, suspendum."

All students living in fraternity houses at Marquette University, Milwaukee, have their names characteristics, and peculiarities listed with the police.

The new telescope, to have a lense of two hundred inches, is now in construction. According to the Literary Digest it will bring the moon into an apparent distance of 24 miles. A large building would be visible at that range. It will also penetrate twice as far into space as has ever been done before.

The Literary Digest reports that Adolph Hitler does not smoke. His most intoxicating drink is mineral water and his diet is entirely vegetable.

Princeton University according to its president, Harold Willis Dodds, is not a 'rich man's college.' Forty per cent of its students are working their way through.

Death Valley Pictured

(Continued from Page One)
pens for transportation and board for the four days amounted to $11. "Altogether," declared Mr. Yarrick, "this makes a grand and marvelous trip."

Plan for more than you can do, then do it;
Bite off more than you can chew, then chew it;
Hitch your wagon to a star, keep your seat and there you are.

A Matter of Decision

(Continued from Page One)
Later, he didn't know when, the treading of his feet grew monotonous.

He came out around a last bend and there, just as he had seen it, was the knife-edge. He gasped a little at the immensity of space, momentarily forgetting the weariness of his legs. Far below, on the right of the divide, lay the desert; on the left the ocean. Close by were dazzling white peaks.

Regretfully he turned and started up the trail again. His legs began to tire again, but he climbed on. The trampling of his shoes on the rocky path began to sound in his brain. Plodding; forever, plodding.

He saw the writing on the boot-top. The 'I Will,' began to run in his mind, synchronizing with the drumming of his feet.

He stopped, and looked above. Six hundred yards more. Short cut to the left would save time, he decided, even if it looked steeper. He dropped down a little and began to climb. No pine trees here. Nothing but slanting, crusty, wind-blown snow. It was steeper than it had looked.

Barry feared slipping; a quarter-mile glaissade would come after that. Progress was slow; a toe driven through the crust here, an irregularity in the surface there—he wished he'd stayed on the trail. There was not time to think of that now.

The top after this, thought Barry, as he came to twenty feet of perpendicular rock. No way around the rock buttresses. It would be better to go up than chance a slip on the snow-crust.

The rocks were dry anyway, and there were crevices to climb by. He stopped to rest a minute half-way up, not daring to look down. His finger nails were hurting from his desperate holds on the cracks. Perspiration was rolling off him; his mind was in intense excitement from effort and fatigue.

In the midst of this turmoil of mind a strange thought came—low grades. Why that? He started again. Another hand-hold, and he would be up.

With terrific exertion he pulled himself up—at the same moment there flashed in his mind a picture of himself forcing himself up over the rocks—and then in a strange parallel he saw himself conquering mental obstacles in his other life.

Then he was there lying prone, deeply breathing the cold wind.

Missionary Visits School

(Continued from Page One)
fold requirement. Christ and the other writers of the Bible also advocate these same three. If they were fulfilled in a world-wide measure the kingdom would soon be ushered in.

"The gospel of Jesus Christ is an extremely practical thing," he stated. It is demonstrated in "beginning in a village and preaching faith, simple faith." "When we put the emphasis on the right thing" he illustrated by experiences "what the gospel of Jesus Christ can do."

SUNSHINE

When the world seems the saddest
it's not all sad
There are days of sunshine weather;
And the people within it are not all bad,
But saints and sinners together.
Then away with the songs that are full of tears,
And away with the thoughts that sadden;
Let us change into gold the fleeting years
By singing the songs that gladden!

Philosophy and W...

Character is contagious.
Be always at leisure to do good.
Hope always helps.
The less men think, the more they talk.
No sword bites so fiercely as an evil tongue.
True worshiping always leads to witnessing.
He who will not be counseled cannot be helped.
The highest mission on earth is submission.
We are always anxious to sweep our neighbor's doorstep.
Diligence is the mother of good luck.
We pay for every act in life, not always in cash but in consequence.
Things don't turn up in the world until somebody turns them up.
Every human being is a bundle of habit tied with the string of time.
Christ is the silent listener to every conversation.

MC MAHON'S
SPECIALIST IN FINE FLOWERS
FLOWER SHOP EXCLUSIVE
Telephone 4800
Visit Our Plant Conservatory
6768 Main Street, Riverside California

Franco-American Bakery
"Home of good things to eat"
3753 Ninth Street
Phone 525

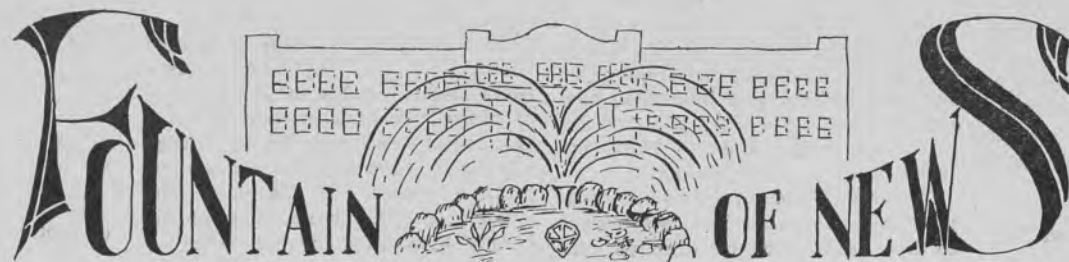

SEEDS -- FEED -- POULTRY SUPPLIES
STEVENSON'S
Birds, Cages, Fish, Aquariums, Pet supplies
Fertilizer, Insecticides, Plants, Bulbs.
PHONE 1724 3610 9th Street at Orange
Riverside, California

FRANZEN'S
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA
HEADQUARTERS FOR
Roofing
Paints
Builders Hardware
Furniture Stores
Hardware
China
Silver
Glass Ware
Floor Coverings

BRING US THOSE SOILED NEW YEAR'S PARTY CLOTHES
CLEANERS ACME DYERS
Telephone 1763-W
G. D. Staley 4024 Orange Street, Riverside, California

"Advertising is our constant companion and our helpful friend."
THE COLLEGE PRESS
Office Forms
Statements
Billheads
Receipts
Announcements
Letterheads
Envelopes
Programs
Card

FOUNTAIN OF NEWS

Vol. II

January, 23, 1934

No. 2

WHEEEEEEE—what's the matter this morning. Alarm clocks seemed about as ineffective in awakening the editors as—, anyway the Fountain of News isn't out yet—it's now 7:15.

WHAT HAPPENED YESTERDAY? That was the job the reporters had to find out last evening after returning—while you folks were getting some much desired slumber.

PROFS. ABEL and MORRISON are acclaimed SCJC's champion skaters.

A LARGE GROUP went skating on Jackson Lake the latter part of the afternoon. Wilbur Rieke fell thru the ice but managed to scramble out.

THE A. S. B. furnished 20 gallons of chocolate for the hungry crowd last evening. Don't you think it was the best you ever tasted in your life?

CLEM NICOLAS has a birthday today.

MISS WALLACE'S car ran out of gasoline between Colton and Riverside. Pres. Cossentine pushed her into town.

PROFESSOR RIEKE'S car burned out a bearing just as he reached the top of the ridge coming up from the rink. Henry Bruner dragged the feet on his car to keep Rieke's car from running down the hill too fast.

EVERYONE with skates rented yesterday return to the ASB office.

APPROXIMATELY 110 people from SCJC were at the L. A. County Playgrounds. Eighty-five were students and the rest drivers and chaperones.

"FIRST TIMERS" afforded abundant amusement on the ice last evening. However we marvel at the progress many of them made—we say that in all seriousness.

CLARENCE HARLOW rented 26 pairs of skates yesterday. Some of them belonged to Mr. Ashlock of Loma Linda.

JEAN McKIM and JESSE MAE COUSENS please call on Donald Davenport for your pictures used at the Reception.

SAY MILTON, how do you like to toboggan without such an implement?

LOLA OLMSTEAD fell from a very suddenly stopped car yesterday. No serious injuries.

ESTHER LARSON worked 20 hours in the last two days.

THOSE who remained behind yesterday went for walks and roller skating.

PROFESSOR MORRISON had the largest birthday party of his life yesterday. Too bad we didn't know about it then.

CAROL CURTIS, DON DAVENPORT, and HENRY KUHN went for a hunting party yesterday on horse-back over to Jack Frost Lake. Mud hens were all they shot at.

A sample of THE COLLEGE CRITERION'S daily supplement.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Bi-Weekly Publication of Southern California Junior College

VOL. V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, FEBRUARY 8, 1934

Number 9

Recent Visitor to Germany Lectures

Hans von Hofgaarden Pictures Hitler

"Hitler is a self-made man; a man of iron energy who has absolute faith in the German people," declared Mr. Hans von Hofgaarden, Saturday evening, January 27, in his speech on "Hitlerism in Germany" in the chapel.

He pictured Hitler as a man who does not eat meat, drink intoxicants, or smoke "because he says he needs every ounce of energy to do the great work before him." The synopsis of Hitler's life proved that he worked up by his "master mind." Then after the war "he took up fight against socialism and communism." "His first meeting had seven listeners; from that time he gained supporters, until in 1923 he tried to overthrow the German government."

On November 12, 1932 he received 42,000,000 votes as the head of the "National Socialistic Workingmen's Party. He was described as the friend of the workingman, who wants peace and work, and has

(Continued on Page Three)

Homiletics Class Visits Tabernacle

Six members of Homiletics class, with Elder Sorenson, their instructor, attended the opening service of Elder H. M. S. Richards' Tabernacle meetings now being held at Belvedere Gardens.

Last Sunday night the class went to get a clear conception of how such meetings are conducted. The class plans to visit this effort several times to watch the progress and the methods that are used in bringing this final message to the world.

Those attending were: Bob Sibley, Ira Shultz, Henry Bruner, Frank Davidson, Roy Sanders, and Austin Morgan.

Senior Class to Organize

The Senior Graduating Class of 1934 will organize at 2 o'clock, the afternoon of February 12.

Colporteur Institute

A colporteurs' Institute for all students interested in such lines of endeavor will be held February 24-27 under the supervision of Elder Kent.

All our young people are urged to receive some experience along this field of work, regardless of what they expect to make their life work. The experience of meeting people and explaining our principles is needed in any phase of life work.

Two periods a day will be devoted to the Institute, during which instructive advice will be given those who are interested in this active line.

Teachers Give Program

The faculty members of S. C. J. C. were responsible for the entire Thursday program of the Elementary Teachers' Institute of the Southern California Conference which was conducted in the Chapel of the Glendale Academy.

Those taking part in that meeting of January 31 were: President Cossentine, Mrs. K. M. Adams, Professor K. J. Reynolds, Florence Voht, Miss Wallace, and Miss Jensen.

Elder Blunden Speaks

Speaking of the remarkable fulfillment of the two genealogies of Christ, Elder H. M. Blunden of the Glendale Sanitarium Church occupied the eleven o'clock hour, Sabbath, Jan. 27.

Pointing out that in accordance with Matt. 1:1 Christ was to be of the lineage of both Abraham and David, Elder Blunden then proceeded to show some of the "close calls" that these two lines had had of being broken. Many of the prophecies of the coming Saviour were quoted and used to show that Christ would first suffer and then reign. This is what we must also expect, was his warning.

Elder Blunden also spoke at Vespers and to the Foreign Mission Band, Friday evening. "What it means to be a Christian" and "Qualifications of a missionary and of his wife" were the topics of his talks.

"Guard well the avenues to the soul" was the final warning of the Vesper service. "If we will do our part by placing our will on God's side then He will do His part by giving us the new birth," was the substance of his conclusion.

WORLD NEWS

Marion Leitch

Size, Please

A new form-fitting bed pillow is on the market. It has a rounded indentation in one side to fit the sleeper's shoulder.

Up In The Air

The Russian balloon "Syrius" under the command of Paul Fedosienko rose January 30 to the highest altitude ever reached by man, more than 12 3/4 miles, and hovered at that altitude taking scientific observations.

"Curse of the Pharaohs"

The recent death of Albert M. Lythgoe, noted Egyptologist, brings again the old speculations on the legendary revenge of the Egyptian monarchs. Mr. Lythgoe was the eighth to die of those who either attended the unsealing of the tomb of Tutankhamen or visited it shortly after its opening in 1923.

The Dove of Peace

Reports bring us the news that Italy and Great Britain favor Germany's plan for rearmament, and that Japan sees a clash with the United States, if an agreement is not reached in advance, in 1936; for by that time her naval forces will outrank those of the U. S.

And Not Tired

A man may sit still all day, but his blood has traveled 168 miles while he has been quiet. In a normal person the blood circulates at the rate of 621 feet every minute, with a heartbeat of sixty-five a minute. In a year the blood has thus traveled over 61,000 miles.

Hide If You Can

Army engineers have built a new 800,000,000 candle power searchlight which is capable of throwing a beam of light 100 miles and can spot an airplane at 15,000 feet up.

Noted Architect Gives Chalk-Talk

MEMBER OF A. I. A.

Charles Morgan Illustrates Development of Modern Architecture

"Think of a drawing as something extremely simple rather than something extremely complicated," instructed Mr. Charles Morgan, a member of the American Institute of Architecture, in his discussing and picturing of the topic last Saturday evening, February 3.

He "encouraged all to draw," and partially favored the attitude of the Indians: "They consider a boy that cannot draw a 'halfwit!'" He suggested that one choose the type he likes the best in this field. The one desirable quality in an artist is humility. He defined art "as a beautiful way of doing something;" therefore he stressed the "power of the individual line, and the necessity of leaving out" everything but the absolutely essential. Because art is so simple "the unit of measure is a crystal cube of sunlight", which is very flexible.

"Architecture must be truth without compromise, it must be honest

(Continued on Page Two)

Elder Fowler Speaks in Vespers

Gazing upon the beautiful and realistic painting of Christ upon the cross has not only inspired Elder Frank Fowler, who spoke in the chapel Friday evening, Feb. 2, but has converted more than one non-Christian to the living Christ. Reading the following text found in Prov. 14:12, "There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death," he stressed the need of working toward an objective rather than careers. The objective of the student may be the ministry, nurses' course, or the medical course; but the teacher's objective is to guide the student into that narrow path which leads to heaven.

The Sabbath service was conducted by Elder M. M. Hare, who reviewed the life of that great, yet wayward Bible character Samson. He told us that had Samson been true to God, he may have been a mighty worker for Him in converting the heathen.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., February 8, 1934 No. 9

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....Milton Lee
 World News.....Marion Leitch
 Feature Editor.....Austin Morgan
 Exchange.....Robert Cossentine
 Fountain of News.....James Lee

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....Richard Walters
 Advertising Manager.....Oran Colton
 Circulation Manager.....Arnold Mueller

ADVISORS

Business.....A. R. Smith
 Literary.....J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

"SLOW—SCHGOL!"

Did you ever notice as you approached the school, the sign on the pavement, "SLOW SCHOOL?" Even the world realizes that the school is not what it ought to be, for there is the sign! If you have noticed this sign, take it as a challenge; put some "pep" behind your step; this will invigorate others as well as yourself. Let's all speed up the school classes, instead of the drowsy half-attentive mood in class; show some interest; add your bit to its sure success. This will give the teachers a greater inspiration to help you and to impart all the knowledge possible for your advancement. Get some movement, some motion some action into the school and people will have to call that marker a—well you know.

A. M.

VOCABULARY KILLERS

Charles Morgan, in his lecture last Saturday night, mentioned some hackneyed expressions in a humorous story. They were singularly appropriate to some in his audience. Whenever two or three scholars are together, no matter what the occasion, someone is sure to "pop" the question, "Are you telling me?" Or else he will extend the kind information "I'm telling you." Oh well, in a few weeks these sayings will be obsolete in all but the rural districts.

Similar phrases follow each other through the public vocabulary year after year. Before those two were current, "Oh Yeah?" was in vogue. Never was there a phrase quite like it for adaptability to all situations. When one shrilled it in a high falsetto, it meant he would "do or die." Repeated in a gently ironic tone it was a humorous comment. As a sneer it was superb. To express his contempt of somebody, one started the "Oh" on a low note, began the "Yeah" about middle C, and ended in a long, withering eeeeh! Then the ambulance carried away the object of his sarcasm.

A few others are "Did I burn?" "Am I red?" "Don't be a droop" "Pansy," "What's the score?" and "What th' John." (This last is apparently the product of local genius)

Even our forerunners used peculiar expressions like these. In 1927 the campus quack was "Your type would."

Why all these trite sayings? Well we're like the rest of the Great American Mob—we're so lazy we use a couple of slang words to express thought that should be clothed with exact terms. And we like to be smart.

H. K.

Chalk-Talk Given

(Continued from Page One)

in the use of materials, and it must make use of all the knowledge existing which may improve it." He declared that "city architecture, which has a tower wagging the building, is a great mistake, for they are monuments to human vanity." He drew samples of the Egyptian, Grecian, Roman, and Gothic architecture, all of which contributed to this age. The model which he lauded was the unbuilt industrial school designed by Theodore Wjdrfelt, for Amsterdam, Holland, which has a central structure rising higher than rest of the building, the lower part of which spreads out in the four directions, and acts as a support for the main tower. "Steel is to be used in architecture," "buildings are to be supported from the center; and balance is to be learned and practiced" —insurance "against earthquakes." His own conception of a model building is "the skyscraper bridge, which may be entered from both the top and the bottom."

He also had projected on the screen photographs taken of the art exhibits at the Century of Progress Exposition. He showed several reproductions of the various types displayed, but his choice was Mademoiselle Gonin which was painted by Ingres.

Chapel Notes

"The ultimate test is the ability to finish," explained Maybel Jensen, Normal instructor, in chapel, January 26, when she discussed "The Power that it Takes to Carry these Good Beginnings to a Successful Ending."

"Starting power and staying power are two different things," she stated, for "we have a lack of certain character traits to carry beginnings to a successful ending." She recommended that her hearers develop "patience, which of all virtues is the most difficult to achieve."

"We must live such lives as have never been lived ever since there was a nation", challenged Prof. H. G. Lucas, Educational Secretary of the Pacific Union Conference, in his Chapel talk, January 29, on the "Call of the Remnant."

"We have come to the last end of the church", he assured; therefore "the remnant of people of God must be a converted people." "It means giving up everything to belong to" this God fearing group. "The road of the world stops short of the land we are expecting to reach. There is only one road; that is the Jesus road." He besought his hearers "to stay on the Jesus road."

Better a sweet failure than a sour shoes.

Opportunity wears rubber-soled success.

Reminiscence

Don Davenport

Delving into the past for the last time we discover the following facts:

"I am sending you a picture (Clementina Nicolas) of which we have special remembrance." The picture was one of Clementina holding a doll. "The doll's name was Rosita and Clementina liked it very much. One day she decided to give her a bath and almost ruined the face. We took it away from her and a few days later gave it back. As soon as she saw it she pressed it to herself and said: 'Oh, this is Rosita. She showed so much affection for it that we never forgot the occasion.' We wonder if Clem likes to play with dolls now as much as she used to.

"I'm sending you a small snap of Inez (Paulson) taken with her 'bike-cycle,' as she called it while we were visiting at her grandfather's home in Nebraska. I will tell you of an incident which occurred while we were there. Inez was three years old at the time and while we were visiting at grandfather's, he was taken ill with the 'flu' and was not able to be out of his room for several days. Inez asked repeatedly to be allowed to go into his room to see him, but Aunt Augusta always said, 'No, if you go into his room you will catch the 'flu'. But one day her daddy went in; so she slipped in without permission and stood quietly by him as he talked to grandfather. After they came out again and had closed the door, she held out her hands to her daddy and said, 'See, I didn't catch it.'"

By the time Inez gets through the nurse's course we trust that she will have a different conception of "flue."

Marion Leitch evidently took everything literally when she was little. "Two ladies called (at Marion's home) and were telling what a time one was having with her maid. She said she would surely have to fire her.

"Next day Marion was doing little chores with the ducks and said, 'Oh dear! What a shame I have to do this when that girl should do it. She is no good I will have to fire her. I think it will take the whole fire department to fire her.'" I wonder if she was a heavy girl.

With this article the series of Reminiscences are concluded. We hope that by quoting these small incidents of everyday life we have brought to you some pleasant thoughts of your early life.

The more we help others to bear their burdens, the lighter ours will be.

A great life loses no time waiting, because it does the next little thing.

There is no short cut to perfection.

Kampus Kwips

Henry Kuhn

These print-shop menials have a streak of sadism in them, they love to torture any luckless individual that falls into their clutches.

The night the last issue of the Criterion was being printed, Bob Cossentine came worriedly into the room with a proof sheet in his hand. He had started to proof-read his column and found that it began in the middle of a sentence. He showed it to "Chuck" and Allan, but they had refused to stop the press and correct the error.

It was a very prominent mistake and could not be passed by. I was considerably perturbed and took it to the "Chief," who went to the shop immediately and requested that the mistake be corrected. The boys gave him the "fish eye" and Allan shouted above the roar of the press, "More Speed." This callous disregard of him aggravated Milton a bit. "You've got to stop the press. We won't accept any of them," said Milton severely.

They answered they couldn't stop the press. "Smith's orders," they explained.

"Where does Smith live?" Milton asked them. They didn't know. In desperation he started up through the lemon grove. Then those inquisitors opened the window and informed him that the error had been corrected long before—it had—before Bob found it.

An ad has appeared in the Michigan daily for the past three weeks for a pair of trousers lost by a freshman in the sophomore-freshman rush over a month ago—R. J. C.

Hitler Regime Favored

(Continued from Page One)

for his motto 'Bread and Freedom.'" "When he came into power on January 1, 1933 Hitler became the dictator of Germany." Mr. von Hofgaarden stated that "his men would go through fire for their leader," for they "are ready to go when he says go." "He has already put 2,500,000 to work again, and has for a slogan 'bread and clothing for everybody this winter.'"

The reason for his withdrawal from the League of Nations was summed up in this sentence: "We have waited 14 years for those countries to disarm; we want the same rights as they have."

"Because 90 per cent of all activity in Germany was controlled by Jews they were asked to step in the background," for "Germany is for the Germans." As the result of this move has come all the terrible reports of how badly the Jews have been treated in Germany, "when no one has been hurt."

"In Germany there are 40,000 strong Seventh-day Adventists, and over 800 Sabbath Schools." "The people do not have much over there, but they are more sincere, more earnest and more zealous than many believers over here," he emphasized. "A few weeks ago you heard a report that our work was closed. In two weeks, just as mysteriously, the ban was lifted, for 'this gospel of the kingdom must be preached.'"

Central Barber Shop

Quality Service

HAIRCUTS 35 cents

3635 Ninth Street, Riverside

Exchange

From Wisconsin comes the story of a senior who, upon meeting with difficulties during an examination, pinned a $5 bill on the blue book and wrote, "Let your conscience be your guide." He passed.—The Collegian.

Carnegie "Tech's" band is outfitted in uniforms costing $100 each, and is probably the most expensively dressed college band in the country. Each member of the organization wears plaid, imported directly from Scotland.—S. M. C.

Earle A. Rowell presented a lecture "Adventures in The Dope Traffic" last Saturday Evening at The Pacific Union College Auditorium—C. C.

The P. U. C. senior class recently organized with forty one members at their first meeting. Clifford Harrison was elected President.—C. C.

The department of Bacteriology of Akron university paid students $1600 for blood transfusions last year. How much are you worth.—C. C.

Pre-medical News

This column has a three-fold duty to perform. Primarily it is of the pre-medic phase of College life exclusively, and inclusively, meaning that it will contain everything about the prospective doctors and nothing else. Secondly, it will be written by pre-medical students, and thirdly, it will be written for everybody.

The Sigma Gamma, which is the Science Club, is the social outlet for this department.

The various laboratories of the College are the gathering places of these folk. The weighing room at the present seems to be the most frequented. In these rooms are discussed the possibilities of being admitted to the Medical College, or the low grades received by various members of the class, who theoretically thought that they should have received better.

Students belonging to the Ventura Junior College honor society, Gamma Kappa Delta, are exempt from taking finals. Students may join this fraternity if they have 2.51 as a grade-point average, and attendance need not be perfect.

Gardner's Drugs Stores

First with the Latest

3885 Main Street, Riverside

MC MAHON'S

SPECIALIST IN FINE FLOWERS

Telephone 4800

Visit Our Plant Conservatory

6768 Main Street, Riverside, California

FRANZEN'S

RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

HEADQUARTERS FOR
Roofing
Paints
Builders Hardware

Furniture Stores
Hardware
China
Silver
Glass Ware
Floor Coverings

ERBERT'S SHOE DEPARTMENT

Ladies Sport Shoes
Regulation Heels
Dress Shoes

$1.99

3877 MAIN STREET, RIVERSIDE

«Advertising is our constant companion and our helpful friend.»

THE COLLEGE PRESS

Office Forms
Statements
Billheads
Receipts

Letterheads
Envelopes
Programs
Cards

Announcements

BRING US THOSE SOILED NEW YEAR'S PARTY CLOTHES

CLEANERS

ACME

DYERS

Telephone 1763-W

G. D. Staley

4024 Orange Street, Riverside, California

Our Alumni

It seems very significant that from the beginning of Normal Training at this school Miss Mabel Jensen has been connected with the teaching staff, and is now in charge of the Normal department. All she has to do is to recall old memories and she can account for almost every one of her Alumni. It seems that they are now scattered over the face of the globe, working for the Master. Many are still teaching, and others are following various lines of service, and still others have been joined to another by the sacred tie of marriage.

Because the trail of the Normalite is so interesting we will begin with the first graduate from this department.

1926

Ivan Angell is preceptor in one of our schools in Cuba.

1927

Alice Neilsen is teaching in San Diego.

Edward Neumann has charge of the canvassing work in Nevada.

Willetta Raley is teaching in Loma Linda.

1928

Cleo Pauline Fenderson married a Bernard.

Oma Gentry and Ethel Nash are teaching in Paradise Valley.

Mabel Catherine Pierce is teaching in Cottonwood, Arizona.

Elsie Marie Reynolds is finishing College at P. U. C.

Marilee Myrtle Williams is married.

1929

Mary Brewer is in charge of a girl's school at Panjab, India.

Vivian Crosslan is teaching in Redlands.

Elizabeth Fortune is attending State Teachers College in Arizona.

Evelyn Youngs is married and living in El Centro.

1930

Mildred Banks is living in San Diego.

Lillian Brenton is married.

Juanita Cox is Pre-nursing here at S. C. J. C.

Annis Irene Knox is living in San Francisco.

Willamae Hawkins and Inez Sims are teaching in Phoenix.

Bernice Hodge married a Ferguson.

Reynalda Luria is lost, strayed or stolen.

Agnes Nash is married.

Evelyn Rouse is teaching in Loma Linda.

Elbert Smith is attending U. C. L. A.

Bernice Squier is teaching in San Bernardino.

Beth Wipf is taking the Nurses Course in Glendale.

(To be Concluded)

CLUBS

M. B. K.

Dr. Reynolds of Arlington met with the young men of M. B. K. during their club hour, Thursday evening, February 1.

He answered numerous questions which had accumulated in the question-box, concerning a young man and his problems.

Girls' Forum

The members of the Girl's Forum enjoyed a pleasant treat last Saturday evening, February 3rd. After worship the girls were told to return to their rooms, get their sack lunches, and follow the leader. Elizabeth Sciarillo and Lucille Henderson led the procession up on the hill above the reservoir where a bonfire was merrily roaring. Marshmallows were toasted and lunches eaten before the short hike back to the dormitory, just in time to get ready for the evening program.

Der Deutsche Verein

German students have become so few during the second semester, that there is now no such thing as a German Club. "Schprechen der Deutsche?" Then why not form a German Club?

Sigma Gamma

The Science Club has meetings every two weeks, or when special sessions are called at the request of the president.

In these meetings things of scientific nature are discussed and planned. At present there are plans being made for a desert trip. This trip will be on the order of the trip taken annually by the Glendale Junior College.

At the last meeting an election was held for the new officers. All the old officers were reelected except the treasurer, whose office was filled by Ethel Ausherman.

El Circulo Espanol

Mr. Jack King, newly-elected president of the Spanish club, conducted his first meeting on Tuesday morning, January 30.

Following the roll call and secretary's report by Nadine Hunter, a brief sketch of the life of Simon Bolivar was presented by Kenneth Baylies, and a reading was given by James Aitchison.

The class engaged for the remainder of the period in playing "Nouns and Verbs," and a game in which the one blindfolded points at one of the group and attempts to guess who the individual is by asking questions.

Trails Of College Folk

Frances Rutan

Jim Aitchison has trained the young riding horse to jump over a wagon tongue, two and a half feet high.

Anthony Muff and Richard Holbrook skated to Arlington and back Saturday evening, January 27, just for exercise.

Mr. and Mrs. Raley took a group ice skating a week ago last Saturday night. Dorothy Raley, Alice Van Tassel, Gordon Palmer, Ernest and Percy Miles made up the carful.

About a hundred pounds of rock salt is used each week in the making of our ice cream. That would be twenty-five pounds of salt to the freezer.

Horseback riding is "quite the thing" these days. Nearly every afternoon, a couple of Gladwyn Hall-ites set out in the direction of the farm attired in riding togs.

Henry Kuhn and James Lee spent their January 27 week-end in Los Angeles. James spent Sabbath visiting with friends from Korea.

Barbara Stearns spent last week-end at the home of Thelma Hoag in Ontario.

Approximately fifteen acacia trees are being planted around the girls' dormitory and Normal building.

Mary Blakely broke two ribs while skating on the sidewalk at her home the last Saturday evening in January.

Mr. W. J. Hole brought a young shark from the South Seas which he has given to the Science Department. The first few days after its arrival, it occupied a shelf in the kitchen refrigerator room.

Ernest Fresk says he has grown two and a half inches in height and gained twenty-three pounds in weight during the four months he has spent at S. C. J. C.

Bernardine Martin spent last week-end at her home in Pomona.

A full mind buys more than a full purse.

Spanish Column

Moises A. Gonzalez

EL CANAL DE PANAMA Y SU CONSTRUCCION

El Canal de Panama ha sido construido en una de las partes mas estrechas que tiene el Istmo de Panama, que separaba el Oceano Pacifico del Atlantico, es decir una distancia aproximada de cincuenta millas. La depresion en las montanas por la cual el Canal atravieza tenia aproximadamente 305 pies sobre el nivel del mar.

Historia del Canal: Como se sabia que Cristobal Colon visito la costa de Panama durante su cuatro viaje, en el ano 1502. Fue en 1513 cuando Balboa atraveso el Istmo y descubrio el Oceano Pacifico, y uno de sus companeros fue quien dio la idea de abrir un canal por ese lugar. Despues de formular proyectos y hacer concesiones y exploraciones que siguieron a traves de los siglos. En el proyecto de la construccion de un canal interoceano se interesaban grandes companias y hombres de ciencia. Pero al fin, los ingenieros: Napoleon Bonaparte Wyse, Armando Reculus y Pedro J. Sosa, franceses los dos primeros y panameno el ultimo, fueron quienes formularon un proyecto para dicha construccion, despues se forma la Compania del Canal Interoceanico. El Presidente de la Compania que nombrado el conde de Lesseps, quien habia construido el canal de Suez y tenia fama de gran ingeniero.

El plazo que los franceses dieron para construir dicho canal era de ocho anos. Los trabajos se comenzaron el 2 de enero de 1882, pero por mala administracion de los fondos la Compania del Canal Interoceanico, fracaso y como se comprobo por una investigacion judicial la malversacion de los intereses, fueron condenaos a prision el Conde de Lesseps y otros personajes prominentes de la compania. El Conde de Lesseps murio por que habia quedado demente a causa del su frimiento y enfermedades, pero despues se comprobo su inocencia respecto del derroche del capital frances.

Despues del primer fracaso los franceses formaron una segunda Compania, despues de casi de diez anos de suspension de los trabajos, la Nueva Compania del Canal comenzo con entusiasmo nuevamente los trabajos. Pero la Nueva compania despues de nueve anos de trabajo se vio obligado a traspasar la concesion del Canal al Gobierno de los Estados Unidos. Los Norteamericanos principiaron a trabajar el 4 de Mayo de 1904. Los Norteamericanos despues de sanear la Zona del Canal principiaron con todo ahinco los trabajos de la construccion.

El Canal de Panama fue abierto al comercio el 15 de agosto de 1914, pero oficialmente el 12 de Julio de 1920.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Bi-Weekly Publication of Southern California Junior College

VOL. V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, FEBRUARY 22, 1934

Number 10

Church Officers' Convention Held

Elder Daniells Speaks

Seventy-five automobiles brought the delegates from the San Bernardino, Riverside, and Orange County churches to the two-day session of the Annual Church Officer's Meeting of the Southeastern California-Arizona Conference, February 17, 18.

"The apostolic church had the peace of God in their hearts, increased in numbers, lived in the fear of the Lord, and received encouragement of the Spirit in the heart," enumerated Elder T. G. Bunch, the first speaker on Sabbath afternoon, in his discussion of the topic, "Our Greatest Need for this Hour New Spiritual Life."

"One need that is supreme and paramount above all others, and more than all others combined is the need of the Spirit of God, the spirit of the Bible, and Godliness. This revival of true Godliness will supply all other needs.

"Pray more and talk less. Repentance and earnest prayer are our part. Don't wait for anybody

(Continued on Page Three)

Elder Semmens Gives Vesper Message

"The greatest need that you and I have as we learn our lessons and do our work is to build character that will stand the test for now and eternity," summarized Elder Lindsay Semmens, from Loma Linda, during Vespers, February 16.

"We need an education that solidifies and brings solid into our character. The educational objective that all of us have is soul winning. In order to do that we must have a personal contact with heaven. Canvassing will put iron in the blood and zeal in the backbone."

"What we are after is to get right, do right and be right, at the same time helping others. As we do this it will bring health-giving, life-giving, and joy-giving power into our lives.

"Be thankful that the mystery of God will be finished in me. The Spirit works quietly in the soul and does a constructive work there. When that time comes then there will be the greatest pouring out of God's Spirit."

Sacred Music Feature of Vesper Hour

"To lift our thoughts heavenward by the means of poetry, prose, and song, in order to get a glimpse of the homeland which is the hope of every Christian," Winea Simpson and her group from Loma Linda presented a program entitled "The Homeland," in the chapel, Friday evening, February 9.

In this program of sacred music the male quartet from the Medical school and a ladies' trio sang; a bass and a soprano solo made the homeland more real; while in addition instrumental numbers were played on a cornet and also on a marimba.

Girls' Forum

Ellsworth Whitney, instructor of piano at Loma Linda Academy, with seven of his students entertained the young men and women in Gladwyn Hall, February 15, under the auspices of the Girls' Forum.

A piano solo, readings, and a vocal trio constituted the program of the evening. As a novelty feature, Lyra Hardt, Eloise Mann, and Robert Johnson sang "Waitin' in the Shadows," with a horn obligato, for Robert Johnson produced the sound of a horn with his lips.

The other participants were: Esther Westermeyer, piano soloist; Margaret Small and David Howard, readers.

Forum members relaxed a bit because of heavy studies, February 8, by playing several games, among which was Charades, Mississippi, sweet side-her, sunset on China, and driving through the woods, proved to be the answers of this game.

A "sugar trust" was also formed, after which ten minutes was spent in marching.

Mu Beta Kappa

The last M. B. K. gathering featured an informal hour of wrestling, February 8.

The first match was between the Miles brothers, and the other between Arnold Mueller and Gordon Bowser.

Senior Class of '34 Organizes

HARRY HICKMAN IS PRESIDENT

Bible Teacher Has Church Service

"Mental powers are not our own to develop, but God's endowment to us, to be used for Him," declared Elder C. M. Sorenson, Bible instructor, in his discourse on "Talents" delivered at the church hour, February 10.

He named among talents that need to be developed kindly words and impulses and affections, tithes, and offerings.

Exactly fifty Seniors gathered in the History room on "the big day of the school year," February 12, to organize into a Senior Class.

In his admonition Professor Cosentine described the Seniors as those who are now on the threshold of manhood and womanhood, and that now the school is placing its seal upon them.

Harry Hickman was the one chosen from the six names submitted for president, for in the final vote he received 32 ballots.

Elizabeth Sciarrillo received an unquestioned majority for the office of vice-president.

In the close vote between Clementina Nicola and Vern Belding for secretary Vern received the deciding vote.

In the first ballot for treasurer Ray Barker, Ralph Giddings, and Art Stewart all received 13 votes each, but in the final poll Ray became treasurer.

(Continued on Page Four)

Conference President Visits Home Church

"The revival of the publishing work is the work of the other angel that lights the whole world in his work of assisting the three angels," assured Elder C. S. Prout, the local conference president, in his sermon, Sabbath morning, February 17, on the "Importance of the Colporteur Work as it Affects the Spread of the Third Angel's Message."

"There is only one future as far as God's word is concerned. We have a definite message for this world. Jesus can never come until this work is carried on by the colporteur. The faithful colporteur as a hunter and a fisher distributes the printed page and gathers souls from the mountains and the holes of the rocks."

"I am here to tell you my young friends that there is no more important work than the Colporteur work to prepare for, in order to send this message from door to door."

CLUBS

C. C. C.

F. H. Raley, Secretary-treasurer of the Southeastern California-Arizona Conference, was guest and speaker at the College Commercial Club Tuesday night, February 6.

After the usual refreshments Mr. Raley outlined the danger points in a commercial career by telling of his experiences in that field. Those present were admonished not to become discouraged if they had difficulty in securing a responsible position as soon as they graduated.

El Circulo Espanol

The accustomed roll call opened another meeting of El Circulo Espanol during the 10:50 period, February 13.

Following the secretary's report a dialogue was presented by Dela Hiatt, Harry Sciarrillo, and Ivan Martin. The boys dressed as charros (Mexican cowboys) entered Dela's home. The theme of their conversation with her was that of getting something to eat.

Sides were chosen for two competitive games, namely, forming Spanish sentences on the blackboard, and giving examples of parts of speech when asked.

Science Club

At the regular meeting of the Sigma Gamma, several new members were voted in and a short discussion was held of the proposed trip of the club.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., February 22, 1934 No. 10

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF
Editor-in-Chief.....	Milton Lee
World News.....	Marion Leitch
Feature Editor.....	Austin Morgan
Exchange.....	Robert Cossentine
Fountain of News.....	James Lee
BUSINESS STAFF
Business Manager.....	Richard Walters
Advertising Manager.....	Oran Colton
Circulation Manager.....	Ruth Cossentine
ADVISORS
Business.....	A. R. Smith
Literary.....	J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

BE YOURSELF

Literature informs us that Coleridge was known by his friends as a conversationalist—one who set those about him thinking by his critical philosophy. In fact much of his verbal advice has been of greater permanence than his literary work. Coleridge could become so engrossed in his own teachings that he would lose all consciousness of what was happening around him. An incident substantiates this.

He is said to have caught Lamb by a coat button, drawn him into a doorway where he commenced a dissertation with his eyes closed. To Lamb the thoughts were boresome, so he gently cut the button from his coat with a pen-knife. On return two hours later Coleridge still had the button in his right hand talking as incessantly as when Lamb had left.

It may be true that many famous individuals have peculiarities, but never get the idea that you must imitate them or develop an oddness of your own in order to secure fame. Life doesn't develop thus. Don't ever allow yourself to leave a bed unmade, strew your wardrobe about the room and go about with tousled hair, comforting yourself with, "It's a sign of genius." One hears it often said that genius is next door to insanity. Nine chances out of ten you will be called the latter.—W. M. L.

LIFE'S FOGS

Almost every night, fogs have permeated the air of this community, as well as invading most of the coast regions. At night, because of it, things look ghostly, their outline is hazed, the road is obliterated. It is only possible to see a short way ahead; sometimes it becomes so dense that it is impossible to see, even light will not pierce its density, in such a predicament it is absolutely essential to proceed with caution. The spell is broken only by the day, and by the marvelous effects of the sun.

Such it is in the physical life, but friends, never allow the fogs of uncertainty, doubt, fear, strife, and darkness to come into your spiritual and intellectual life to hinder you, and even perhaps to change your course, and worst of all to wreck your life. Keep your mind clear, determine to follow your purpose in the face of all obstacles, but above all let the Sun of Righteousness come into your lives and brighten your life for now and the future.—A. M.

Kampus Kwips

Henry Kuhn

This person . . . is sometimes made an object of execration by the "gentlemen" of Mu Beta Kappa, because he speaks his mind freely—like a Congressman.

One night during a club session characterized by lively debating he intimated that the members were "barnyard fowls." This inflammatory speech caused a near-riot, and some slight, personal violence to . . . 's person.

At another stormy meeting he intimated that by pursuing a certain course of action, the boys would lay themselves open to being justly called "farmers." Again the boys wanted to lay rude hands on him, but as usual he "bore a charmed life," and escaped all but some uncomplimentary remarks.

These class elections are enervating affairs. Following an old S.C. J.C. custom they are held in Prof. Reynolds History classroom.

By the time the day has come to organize, some "clique" has promoted a likely candidate, and on the floor another group lines up behind their nominee. A balloting bout begins at once.

Two stories below, on the lawn, there are the few very curious who thirstily wait for the election news, for class organization is a strictly private and secret business. Still, someone surreptitiously drops a bit of paper out the window with the highly valuable information of "who's elected" on it, and the story begins to spread.

Expression of Sympathy Desired to Injured

An unfortunate experience befell Professor Harlyn Abel when his car collided with a Model T Ford on Magnolia Avenue, the evening of February 17.

Professor Abel was on his way to Loma Linda to direct the College's A Cappella choir, when the accident delayed his progress for some time.

The student body extends its heartfelt sympathy to those who were injured, namely, Bernice Hawkins, Lola Olmstead, Hazel Walde and Marion Leitch.

Washington

by Frank Davidson

With a puff, little Mary Ann came running into the kitchen and overflowed to her mother: "Mother, the teacher told us about a man today, and he had a little hatchet, and his name was George!" Later in the year, she burst in again, full of a further discovery: "Mother, teacher told us about another man today, and he had an axe, and he was called Abe."

The useful, instructive myth of Washington's little hatchet is scorned by many writers who spare the more misleading tale that he was born with a gold spoon in his mouth. This is hard to believe, for Washington, like many other of our presidents, was poor until a young man.

A foreign visitor once doubted the story that Washington threw a dollar across the Rappahannock. An American wit ventured to explain that a dollar went farther then, and a still wittier American argued that it was no feat for a man who threw a sovereign over the Atlantic.

Washington received a good share of his education in the realm of nature. He learned the art of self-preservation so well that when he fought with England, no matter if he gained or lost the battle, he was sure to care for his men. This, in the end, enabled him to conquer that great power.

Among our tributes to Washington, we have one from Lincoln: "Washington's is the mightiest name of earth—long since the mightiest in the cause of civil liberty; still mightiest in moral reformation. On that name no eulogy is expected. It cannot be. To add brightness to the sun, or glory to

(Continued on Page Three)

12 PHOTOS 20 CENTS

Scotts Kodak Shop

4029 Market

Kodaks :- Films :- Enlarging

Kodak Finishing
Our Specialty

Mali Orders Given Prompt Attention

WE CALL AND DELIVER

Swiss Cleaners and Dyers
A COMPLETE SERVICE

Phone 431

4015 Main Street, Riverside, California

Handwritten signature

Officers' Meeting Held

(Continued from Page One)
for this work is an individual work." Finally he urged that "we ought to be sending petitions to heaven for that gift that brings all other gifts in its train."

Elder Glenn Calkins believes that this mighty revival is to bring the loud cry. He also stated that the church officers must be willing to go all the way, and must lead the way in holy life and heart consecration. He believes that the most powerful argument for the cause of God is a Godly life, and that every contact should draw others to Christ.

"The accepted principles of leadership are: that a leader should lead, in the right direction, with the right purpose, to the right destination," stated Elder A. G. Daniels in his discussion.

He considered the conduct of the church services and the business meetings as one of the main aspects. He stated that the officers are to be lively and energetic; they should give study to the subject matter for the next service, attention was to be paid special matters, announcements were to be brief, and meetings must begin and end on time. The other aspect was the life and activity of the members. "The people are to be thoroughly grounded in the doctrines. The sick and afflicted should be visited. The young people should be given special attention.

"Make people feel at home; develop a spirit of quietness and reverence; show an interest in all the departments," recommended Elder Calkins, who was the last speaker of the day.

On Sunday many other problems of the church officer were presented and discussed.

Exchange

The Pomona High School band played at the reception of governor Rolph last Thursday morning. He has asked for their services on other occasions.—Ye Chronicle.

Paul Whipperman, a former student of S.C.J.C., now runs a column in the Campus Chronicle called "Comments" in which he comments in brief on a few of the more important news items of the country.—Campus Chronicle.

A German lens-maker has just constructed a microscope with an enlarging power of 400,000 times. A pleasant, harmless, although thrilling diversion for a winter night, we should think, might be looking at your income through one of these interesting gadgets.—Boston Herald.

The German School of Theology has once again been moved, and this time it is to be located at Union College, Nebraska. It is returning to its original home after twenty four years of visiting at Clinton, Missouri, and Broadview.—The Clock Tower.

The manufacture of class and fraternity pins is a $5,000,000 annual business. There are about 150 manufacturers of these novelties.—Youth's Instructor.

The Emmanuel Missionary College students recently gave a program in the Adelpian Academy chapel.—The Shiawassian.

Central Barber Shop
Quality Service
HAIRCUTS 35 cents
3635 Ninth Street, Riverside

Pre-medical News

At last the grades have been received, but not by the students. Professor Morrison has received the grades that the pre-medics made on the American Medical Association aptitude tests.

Try as they would, the students could not pry loose the much desired information. One student got 92% and another one got 12%, but that doesn't help the other twelve very much.

Professor Morrison said he was quite surprised to learn that all the good students did well. That is encouragement for those of us who head up the low end of the grades.

Washington

(Continued from Page Two)
the name of Washington, is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In Solemn awe pronounce the name, and in its naked deathless splendor leave it shining on." We would say: "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." Washington now belongs to the ages.

Colporteur Institute

The annual Colporteur Institute opened in Room 37, Sunday afternoon, February 18.

In the first meeting Joseph Mika told of what many Catholic notables think of S. D. A. colporteurs. He stated that they are highly respected by these people, for they present the truth in a real enthusiastic manner.

In the evening meeting a discussion took place based upon the statement that the intelligent, God-fearing, truth-loving canvasser should be respected, for he holds a position equal to that of the gospel Minister.

The meetings will last for the entire week and all are urged to attend.

It frequently takes great courage to own a small mistake.

A pound of pluck is worth a ton of luck.

To produce a work of art you must first master the art of work.

To carve out true success we must use the tools of heaven.

There is no bedfellow like a conscience void of offense.

Words without thought are as powerless as clouds without rain.

Gardner's Drugs Stores
First with the Latest
Magazines of all Types
3885 Main Street, Riverside

MC MAHON'S
SPECIALIST IN FINE FLOWERS
Telephone 4800
Visit Our Plant Conservatory
6768 Main Street, Riverside, California

ANNOUNCING
HERBERT'S SHOE DEPARTMENT
Ladies Sport Shoes Regulation Heels $1.99
Dress Shoes
3877 MAIN STREET, RIVERSIDE

"Advertising is our constant companion and our helpful friend."
THE COLLEGE PRESS
Office Forms, Statements, Billheads, Receipts, Announcements, Letterheads, Envelopes, Programs, Cards

FRANZEN'S
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA
HEADQUARTERS FOR Roofing, Paints, Builders Hardware, Furniture Stores, Hardware, China, Silver, Glass Ware, Floor Coverings

BRING US THOSE SOILED NEW YEAR'S PARTY CLOTHES
CLEANERS ACME DYERS
Telephone 1763-W
G. D. Staley 4024 Orange Street, Riverside, California

Handwritten numbers: 27, 3.50, 50

Our Alumni

(concluded)

1931

Esther Duce is teaching in San Diego.

Alma Nephew is teaching in Santa Ana.

Viola Blair is teaching in Yuma.

Esther Dockham is teaching in Baldwin Park.

Mrs. Anna Hart is lost as far as our knowledge of her whereabouts is concerned.

Joe Smith and Mrs. Florence Smith are engaged in Spanish work in Mexico.

Leora Strong married a Ferguson.

Mabelle Duerksen is teaching in San Pasquale.

Thelma Grover is married and living in Los Angeles.

Roberta Knoss is teaching in Arlington.

Lois Skinner is attending Walla Walla.

Florence Cox is teaching in a private school.

Mabel Rogers is married and living in Corona.

Eldon Moore is finishing College at P. U. C.

1932

Esther Matteson is teaching in Elsinore.

Mrs. Mary Anderson is teaching in Northern California.

Mrs. James Barnard is keeping house in Los Angeles for her husband.

Margaret Johnson is teaching in Mexico.

Marie Christiansen is teaching in Brawley.

1933

Leona James and Barbara Walters are teaching in Riverside.

Esther Bellinger is teaching a home school in this conference.

Evelyn Duerksen is teaching the intermediate grades at Shafter.

Merna Holbrook is taking the nurses course at Glendale.

Mrs. Catherine Francis is teaching in Alhambra.

Margaret Rogers is teaching in Fullerton.

Thyra Thompson is teaching in Cedar Springs.

Evangeline Voth is teaching in Yucaipa.

Wilfred Rathbun is finishing College at P. U. C.

This ends the list of the Normal graduates from this school since the Normal department was established. They are following in all walks of life, although most of them are still following the purpose of the course. It makes the department seem young when it is able to account for all except two of its graduates.

To these graduates I say, if you have had any interesting or unusual experiences since you have been separated from your Alma Mater by time or miles, the Alumni editor would appreciate a letter from you in order to have something novel and exciting in this column. It's yours if you'll take it!

CHAPEL NOTES

Following his return from the northern part of California, President Cossentine spoke to the students in Chapel, February 9.

He visited the University of California at Berkeley, Stanford University, and Pacific Union College, studying the educational conditions in these schools.

The professors interviewed by President Cossentine at U. C. and Stanford spoke very favorably about the educational methods employed at S.C.J.C. When asked if credit could be given for Bible these instructors in turn wished to know why credit could not be given.

President Cossentine was very much encouraged over the results of his trips, and he firmly believes that our schools were established for these times.

Lincoln's birth was honored on his hundred twenty-fifth anniversary, February 12, 1934, in the college chapel.

President Cossentine read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address to the student body. In harmony with this address the students sang "America."

Prof. Reynolds described two monuments in Washington, D. C. The one fascinates at first sight; the other, a Grecian temple, this nation's tribute to Lincoln, grows greater as one beholds it. This monument signifies that Lincoln rose to great national heights from a humble birth.

The Public Speaking class students paid tribute to Lincoln. Dinah Skinner read Dunbar's poem, "Lincoln." A character sketch of the powerful and magnetic log-cabin president by his law partner, Herndon, was read by Maurice Siler. Edwin Markham, California's poet, pictures Lincoln in the poem "The Railsplitter with the Axe," read by Henry Kuhn.

"Greetings fellow students," and editor Ernest Lloyd of Our Little Friend assured the student body in chapel, February 14, that he also was a student.

This is a time of wonderful opportunity for S. D. A. young people, both in education and in service for Christ, he further stated. "God is counting on us." "May God help us to be ready," was his final plea.

"Distribute our literature this summer," was the call Elder Sorenson made in chapel, February 16, for many of our students to enter the colporteur work.

"This work is a means of education. He told of a mission report which was pessimistic about missions, except for an article about S. D. A. mission work in China. It stated that the Adventists employed very good sales methods in the distribution of their literature.

tan have set the time record for fasting. They went without food of any kind for 66 1/2 hours, that is from six o'clock Sunday night till 12:35 on Wednesday.

Professor Pentzling, Elder and Miss Sorenson took a hike up Santiago Peak, on Sunday, February 11th.

Frances Simmons, Eleanor Adams, and June Gehersky were visitors here part of the week end.

Richard Barrons' uncle and aunt from Santa Barbara drove up to see him Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sciarrillo visited Dolly and Harry over the week end. They drove from Hollywood, bringing Nicholas Muff, Anthony's brother, with them.

Recarda Williams and Harriet Smith took a walk to the farm last week and undertook the job of naming some of the cows.

Carol Curtis reports that during one week he embalmed six cats for the use of the laboratory classes.

Mr. and Mrs. Giddings, Roy and Ralph Giddings, Ray Barker and Bob Sibley took a trip to Big Pines, Saturday night, to enjoy ice skating.

We notice with interest that a number of former S.C.J.C. students are on the staff of the Chronicle (P.U.C.) Among them are Eldon Moore, Erma Campbell, and Paul Felker.

Beads of perspiration are the jewelry of toil.

Spanish Column

FUNCIONAMIENTO DEL CANAL DE PANAMA

Moises A. Gonzalez

Esclusas.—El Canal tiene tres esclusas.—La del Atlantico esta en Gatun (tres pares). Las del Pacifico estan como sigue: en Pedro Miguel, un par, y en Miraflores, dos pares.

En cada una de las esclusas hay un edificio destinado a oficinas del personal respectivo, servicio telefonico, etc. La instalacion principal de dicho edificio se encuentra en el ultimo, en un espacioso salon rectangular llamado en ingles "Show Room" probablemente, porque desde alli se muestra al visitante la manera como se hace funcionar las esclusas.

Al centro del "Show Room" y abarcando tres cuartas partes de la longitud del mismo, que es la de todo el edificio (unos treinta metros) se encuentra una especie de mostrador de marmol negro, de algo mas de un metro de altura de donde se ven ininidad de pequenas manezuelas niqueladas. En el centro de dicho mostrador, y a todo su largo, se extiende dos franjas formadas por marmol de color gris y que representan las esclusas. estan representadas por varillas que parecen ser de hueso negro y que por su color resalta sobre el fondo gris que estan representando las esclusas; frente a cada juego de varillas se extiende una candénita que cruza de uno a otro lado la plancha gris, y que representan a las enormes cadenas que frente a cada juego de compuertas defienen a estas de una posible embesitada del barco que se encuentra dentro de la esclusa. En el mismo mostrador hay torrecillas de algo asi como vidrio opacado con una graducion de pies y pulgadas y con un liquido dentro que probablemente es agua, y que sube y baja en sincronizacion con el movimiento del agua de la esclusa respectiva. Se acerca un barco; el operador hace girar a la derecha la pequena manizuela niquelada que corresponde a la compuerta respectiva que empieza abrirse alla en la esclusa . . .

Continuara

Seniors Organize

(Continued from Page One)

The efforts of Arnold Mueller as the Sergeant-at-Arms were required as soon as he was voted into office to quiet the rising spirits of the Seniors.

James Lee became the parliamentarian, and Byron Sanford was chosen to be chaplain by an overwhelming majority.

Professor Reynolds was chosen faculty advisor. Later in the afternoon the faculty chose Miss Jensen to be the other advisor for the Seniors of this year.

Long live the Senior Class of '34.

Trails Of College Folk

Frances Rutan

Rae Cason and Ione Riggie, former S.C.J.C. students who are now in training at Loma Linda, visited friends here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lloyd were recent overnight guests at Gladwyn Hall.

Donald Davenport and Milton Lee spent the week end in Los Angeles.

Moises Gonzales, Art Kirk, and Maurice Siler are the college valentines. Their birthdays were on Feb. 14th.

George Clement was visited by his brother, Melvin, Sabbath.

Louis Georgeson was kicked by a cow and had to spend a few days in bed as a result.

Roger Neidigh and George Ru-

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

PUBLICATION OF THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

VOL. V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, MARCH 8, 1934

Number 11

South America Pictured

Advancement Shown

"Onward ever onward," was the slogan of Elder R. R. Breitigan, Home Missionary and Sabbath school Secretary of the South American Division, in his portrayal of the advance of the message in that field, by the means of moving pictures combined with a lecture, Sabbath evening, March 3.

He showed the need of the plea "Come over and help us," and "wished that all present might get a burden for the unentered sections of territory in the world."

He advised "all to write to their friends and relatives in the mission field, for they really appreciate communications from the home-folk because the home ties cannot be broken."

Many acclaimed this presentation as the best they had ever seen or heard from that field.

Associated Student Body

A mushroom completes its growth overnight, but many years of slow growth are required for an oak to reach its limit.

This latter is true of the Associated Student Body. The Association made marked growth its first year, and this, its second year has been another period of growth in membership and activities.

The Association has sponsored the sale of approximately fifty school sweaters.

(Continued on Page Four)

Male Chorus Entertains

"Shortnin Bread," a solo by Dr. C. O. Patterson, director of the Valencia Male Chorus, which entertained those present in the College Chapel, Sabbath evening, February 24, was lauded as the most comical number of the program.

"Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen in Me," was the theme song of the presentation of the fifty male voices. A saw duet, two solos, and selections by the Neapolitan String Trio were the other features of the entertainment.

Elder Prout Visits

"Courage in the Lord," was the title of Elder C. S. Prout's Vespers address February 23.

"There is one lesson we must all learn and that is that we triumph in all things through Jesus Christ," stated Elder Prout.

He spoke of the courage shown by many men of the world, who did not profess to be Christians and then reminded us of how much more courage the Christian should have. He impressed his audience that "as workers and as students we ought to talk more courage."

Snake Strikes Student

While racing another student up the side of a nearby mountain, Bob Cossentine was suddenly struck by a five-foot rattlesnake. He was rushed to the County Hospital where anti-venom was injected. Little after effects were suffered because of the treatment and his being confined to bed.

When the accident occurred, Professors Fentzling and Abel happened to be but two hundred yards away. They hurried to his assistance immediately, Prof. Fentzling

(Continued on Page Four)

Seniors Pay Visit On Academy Day

Five Academies Represented

Ninety-eight students, from five academies in this and the Southern California Conference were invited to attend this school for Academy Day, March 7.

A visit to our school homes was the first act of the program for the day, after their arrival at ten o'clock and their division into groups led by capable student escorts.

The remainder of the scheduled half-hour period was spent in visiting the Chemistry, and Physics classes and inspecting and admiring the laboratories and equipment of the Science building.

Later the companies were invited to visit representative classes of all the departments in which college work is given so that these students might have a foretaste of their regular school life here next year.

(Continued on Page Four)

S. C. J. C. Organizations

The accomplishments and spirit of college life exists in the organizations of a school. S.C.J.C. is well equipped with "spirit". It is the opportunity of every student of the college homes to be initiated into full membership with his or her respective dormitory organization. Gladwyn Hall occupants, through their private club "The Girls' Forum", unite with enthusiasm in preparing and presenting worthwhile programs either to their

(Continued on Page Four)

Criterion Head Designed By Former Student

Ben J. Hester, a graduate of this J. C. designed and drew the new head, which appears for the first time in this issue.

Mr. Hester will be remembered by former students for his scholarship rating, and an artistic sense.

He long felt dissatisfied with the former top-piece of the paper, and when the staff was hunting for a suitable design, he generously gave his services.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA JUNIOR COLLEGE WELCOMES YOU TODAY

It is our happy privilege to welcome you as our guests on this academy day.

Its purpose is that you might catch a view of the possibilities that await you; that you might gain a vision of what this, "Your College," holds for you in opportunities for development and for life preparation.

Southern California Junior College trains for the future in a solid practical way. Its facilities stand unquestioned; its faculty is fully trained and qualified. There is every opportunity for advancement for the industrious, thinking student, and many possibilities for self-help.

As you think of your future work, think in terms of what this accredited junior college can give you. We have confidence it can give the best; and when you bring your best to its doors, we face the future certain that together we shall succeed.

So Southern California Junior College welcomes you today as a guest looking forward to the pleasure of having you a member of its student family this coming school year.

E. E. COSENTINE.

Our College Ideal

Many who have traveled extensively in this world proclaim this an ideal location for a school. Our college is in the country, but it is close enough to the large cities to draw on their resources and opportunities, including art, music, and general education. Its natural setting is excellent. It is set against the hills which extend for miles. It overlooks the orange district of the beautiful Riverside valley; beyond this rise the stately peaks of San Jacinto, San Bernardino, and San Geronio. The fact that in 1½ hours you can be at the beach or the snow or the desert makes this school unique, and satisfies the preferences of any individual.

(Continued on Page Three)

Welcome, Academic Seniors!

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., March 8, 1934 No. 11

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....Milton Lee
Associate Editor.....Henry Kuhn
Feature Editor.....Austin Morgan
Fountain of News.....James Lee
Exchange.....Robert Cossentine
World News.....Marion Leitch

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....Richard Walters
Advertising Manager.....Oran Colton
Circulation Manager.....Ruth Cossentine

ADVISORS

Business.....A. R. Smith
Literary.....J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

Dear Visitor:

This issue of our publication is especially for you. We are featuring S.C.J.C. background, activities, and what it has to offer. We feel that you will be favorably impressed with its students, faculty, general organization and atmosphere so as to attend this coming year. Why not choose for your next two years of education—S.C.J.C.—where young men and women are trained to reverence God and prepare for usefulness to humanity?

Sincerely,

The Editor.

PLAYING THE GAME SQUARE

Take for instance a ball game. The umpire cannot see everything at once. Suppose he does call the runner out on third, when the baseman never touched him. Then the players start crabbing, they criticize the "ump" and call him all sorts of names. That is not right, the umpire will make a mistake in their favor just as likely as not, next time. Play the game square.

But in the game of life, God is the umpire, and he never makes a mistake; He is also the coach for the ones on His side. Never question His decision, but follow His plan and you will not have time to argue back. In the end you will be glad you played the game square with God.—A. M.

COOPERATION

One essential thing is needed in this great world of ours to carry on the tremendous and wonderful standards of society, politics, and business. In the world if there is no cooperation everything is out of harmony. Every person, or perhaps country wants its own way, it is unwilling to work for the good of the entire civilization involved, it will not cooperate. It usually makes the other person suffer for a while, but in the long run it comes out on the bottom, destroyed by its own selfish spirit, or the spirit of revenge from opponents.

If the world will not get along without cooperation, how much more must a school need cooperation to make success a certainty. If a certain individual is assigned to a certain event to be reported, and he fails to cooperate, somebody suffers, either it does not get done or some editor or his assistant is kept up all night to fulfill the task. Cooperate with your teachers, cooperate with your associates, and above all cooperate with God. By following such a program you will be surprised to see how smoothly and pleasantly things are carried out.—A. M.

Kampus Kwips

Henry Kuhn

The recent rattlesnake incident is reminiscent of an occurrence some four years ago, which unlike this happening, was somewhat ludicrous.

Some boys had killed a rattler on the hill back of the school and one of them had put the fangs into his trousers' pocket. While coming down, he slid, and the fangs scratched him. He was put into a Jack Cooper-driven Buick, which was given a police escort. Jack drove furiously, beating the escorting cops to Riverside, where serum was administered to the unfortunate. He experienced no ill effects.

A couple of roommates at Mu Beta Kappa Hall have had trouble trying to study—their room is full of curios—a sort of local "Mission Inn"—and that with their personalities brought them plenty of interruptions during study period. But they have remedied that with the following notice on the outside of their door: "Effective from 6:45 P. M. to 10:00 P. M."

"Notice"

"The inmates of this room are studying;

"Directions for gaining admittance:

1. Slide nickel (5c) under door.
2. Knock on door.
3. It will be opened unto you.
4. If we consider your business important we will refund the 5c.
5. If not, then you are S. O. L.

"P. S.—We don't mean to be insulting or anything, but we are forced to do this for our own protection."

Signed

Geo. Rutan.
Rodger Neidigh.

Hanafin Makes Jump

A brief telegram from Huntington Park, March 2, gave information that Howard Hanafin, a literary student here last year, made a parachute jump at 2000 feet altitude. The chute opened at 800 feet, and Mr. Hanafin made a safe landing.

Administration

President

There are two kinds of College Presidents: the one is wrapped in a scholastic conservatism that is content in his institution as it is; the other is always pursuing an objective that will improve his school. The last is characteristic of our President. In the four years that he has been here, the institution has advanced in scholastic rating, equipment, and general appearance, more than in its whole previous life period.

With his immense driving force is a secondary, but very valuable trait—tact: the last balances the first.

Rather typical is his attention to detail. He has an eye on every activity of the school, and every student's problem is his own. He is never so busy but that there is time to help one.

Liberty Day Observed

"It is impossible to conceive of a Christian not being a good citizen," emphasized Professor Reynolds in his reading for Religious Liberty Day, by H. H. Votaw, during the Sabbath service, March 3.

He also showed that the real test of religious liberty "is that we should be as much opposed to a Saturday law as we are to a Sunday law."

From his readings by C. S. Longacre, Professor Fentzling stated "that a dangerous legal precedent has now been established by Congress in the adopting of a liquor bill for the District of Columbia containing a Sunday clause. This now has opened the way for other legislation of this character."

12 PHOTOS 20 CENTS

Scotts Kodak Shop

4029 Market

Kodaks :- Films :- Enlarging

Kodak Finishing
Our Specialty

Mail Orders Given Prompt Attention

HERBERT'S SHOE DEPARTMENT

Ladies Sport Shoes
Regulation Heels
Dress Shoes

$1.99

3877 MAIN STREET, RIVERSIDE

Our College Ideal

(Continued from Page One)

Equipment

Our library, the "heart of the College", is constantly being enlarged. It now has nearly six thousand volumes. Much of its growth has been during the last three years, making most of the books new and up-to-date.

All classrooms are adequately equipped for the work presented. Every classroom has its own maps and charts to fill its own individual needs. Sixteen new mahogany teachers' desks are at present being built in the woodwork department to be installed in every classroom in the administration building.

The pride and excellence of the school shines forth in the science department. In the locker of every student in the science building is equipment ranging in value from twenty-five to thirty-eight dollars. This school is equipped to fill excellently all the present demands placed upon it in this field.

Sports

For the sport-minded there are the hills that beckon, and the mountains that call. Moreover, the ground has already been levelled for two new double tennis courts which are to be installed this spring if present plans materialize. Facilities for other games are also available on the campus playground.

Teachers' Degrees

Eight of our teaching staff hold the degree of Master of Arts, and some are doing work toward the doctor's degree. This is more than sufficient for accrediting standards.

The average teaching age of our teachers is 11 years, which is unusually high, especially for a junior

Elder Nielson Speaks

"There is no material thing that you can compare with life," declared Elder Nielson, Sabbath school Secretary of this conference, in his Vesper talk, March 2, on the topic "Life is a Holy Trust."

"We need to have a conception of the worth of life," he urged.

"We are trusted with time; it is so common, but it is worth something," he emphasized.

"Life," he assured, "is one thing that cannot be taken from us, for when it is ended we will have life eternal."

college. The total experience of the Faculty in teaching years is 232.

Scholastic Rating

S.C.J.C. is a member of the Northwestern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, giving our graduates world recognition in scholastic standing, an honor not yet bestowed on any other Junior College in this denomination. It is also a member of the Southern California Junior College Association, and has been invited to join the American Council on Education. It is the only private institution outside U.S.C. which is on the committee of "Research and Policy in Education," which, it is claimed, is one of the most important educational research committees in California, for it is to make plans and outline the future education of the California schools.

The scholastic standing and quality of work is more fully shown by the rating secured on the recent pre-medical aptitude test in which no Junior or Senior denominational college, with more than 3 students entered, received a higher average score.

Truly "Your College" is substantial and worthy of your loyalty.

Excellent Spiritual Opportunities

Today there is a lack of religious things in the general trend of life, in the home and in the school there is a tendency to forget God. In our school efforts are being made to make our religion important. The meetings and special religious features are to be spiritual harbors for the struggling soul.

In this school "Where God is revered and men are trained" abundant opportunity is offered for the spiritually-minded and a religious atmosphere provided in the form of prayer bands, a gospel seminar, worship, and the Friday evening Vesper service which is a special feature of the boarding school. "As far as the student goes," one student stated, "the day opens and closes with worship."

In this favored center we are blessed with the best of speakers, missionaries and leaders, who bring us messages from God based on their many years of experience.

A special phase has just been added recently; that is the training in denominational history to fill the requirements of the Service League; also an expert Bible reader is teaching the giving of Bible readings, for that part of the league requirements.

Endeavor has been made to give the students a large part in the religious activities. A number of our students belong to nearby churches where they are carrying responsible positions such as Sabbath-school leader. We have now some ministerial students who are carrying on an effort at Norco without outside assistance, others are going to Highgrove to work up an interest so that they might hold a tent effort there in the near future. Some are assisting in an effort being conducted in Corona. Even the Missionary Volunteer Society has several active Sabbath afternoon bands under its direction for the uplift of humanity.

In these various ways constant experience in holding efforts, giving Bible readings, and personal work is gained which is a very necessary line of work if one expects to be efficient. This activity is encouraged by the school and puts emphasis on the practical side of the Christian life. The field of experience is so broad that students may engage in any branch which appeals to them most.

MC MAHON'S
SPECIALIST IN FINE FLOWERS

Telephone 4800
Visit Our Plant Conservatory
6768 Main Street, Riverside, California

KARL'S
THE FAMILY SHOE STORE
NEW SPRING SHOES
MOST REASONABLE PRICES
Women's Shoes $1.99 up
Men's Shoes 1.99 up
Children's .99 up
KARL'S SHOES
Main Street at Ninth Street

Gardner's Drugs Stores
First with the Latest

Magazines of all Types
3885 Main Street, Riverside

FRANZEN'S
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA
HEADQUARTERS FOR
Roofing
Paints
Builders Hardware
Furniture Stores
Hardware
China
Silver
Glass Ware
Floor Coverings

"Advertising is our constant companion and our helpful friend."
THE COLLEGE PRESS
Office Forms
Statements
Billheads
Receipts
Announcements
Letterheads
Envelopes
Programs
Cards

WE CALL AND DELIVER
Swiss Cleaners and Dyers
A COMPLETE SERVICE
Phone 431
4015 Main Street, Riverside, California

Senior News

The second meeting of the Senior Class was taken up largely by matters of routine business. Six committees were appointed, namely: motto and aim, Bernice Prout as chairman; colors and flower, Harry Sciarrillo as chairman; emblem and chevron, Ray Barker, chairman; class night program, chairman, William Williamson; pictures, James Lee, chairman; speaker and gift, Byron Sanford, chairman. The class dues were decided on, and caps and gowns for the four graduating exercises were chosen unanimously. Marion Leitch was then chosen class reporter.

The meeting of February 26 consisted of reports by the various committees and the choosing of motto, aim, colors, flower, emblem, pin, and pictures.

Aim: The Eternal Harbor Our Destiny.

Motto: Sail On.

Colors: Blue and Silver.

Flower: Marshall-Neil Rose.

Emblem: Ship.

Trails Of College Folk

Frances Rutan

Everyone seems to feel relieved now that the period examinations are past, and a happy, carefree expression is replacing that grave, worried look that is so characteristic of examination week.

Bernice Hawkins was brought back from the White, Sunday and is spending the remainder of her convalescence here in the dormitory. We hope she will soon be up and around.

Dorothea Dillbeck returned Sunday from a very pleasant week-end at her home in Los Angeles.

Ed Hansen and Ed Trafton hitchhiked to Santa Barbara for a week end trip. They got plenty of good exercise, we hear.

Two large rattle-snakes were killed on the hill near Two-Bit rock last Sabbath afternoon.

Lois Parker has moved back into the dormitory.

Ben Brewer, former S.C.J.C. student, visited around school the first of the week.

Nadine Hunter spent last week end at her home in Brea.

Marian Buckley, Marguerite Hadley, and Lovell Roderick have moved out of the dormitory during the past week. The girls of Gladwyn Hall are very sorry to see them leave.

Inez Paulson and Velma Kenney spent a jolly week-end in L. A. playgrounds enjoying the snow and the ice.

The kitchen girls are very glad to report the installment of a new can opener. It has been a long felt need and is greatly appreciated.

CLUBS IN ACTION

Forensic Club

Following several sessions of discussion characterized by some heckling of one of the temporary chairmen, a constitution was adopted by the College Public Speaking Class, forming the Forensic Club. Immediately after organization, officers were elected. They are as follows: Henry Kuhn, President; Dinah Skinner, Vice-President; Viola Mitchell, Secretary; Lawrence Thompson, Sergeant-at-Arms; and Kenneth Phillips, Parliamentarian.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club, or "El Circulo Castellano" which meets regularly on Tuesdays in Miss Sorenson's room was entertained by a comical Spanish play given by Tom Pellow and Kenneth Baylies. Then followed a game—"Mandamientos."

Another comical play was given in which Milton Lee played the part of a hen-pecked father. Others in the play were Claudia Simkin, Dorothea Dillbeck, and Allan Turk.

Girls' Forum

An impromptu program was the feature of the weekly program of the Girls' Forum, March 1. Each girl upon entering the parlor was given a slip with "something she was to do," written on it.

Sixteen girls showed their talent by giving readings, telling stories, singing, and playing the piano.

This was the last meeting with the present officers officiating.

S. C. J. C. Organizations

(Continued from Page One)

members or to their visitors, the members of Mu Beta Kappa from the men's home. In turn, enthusiasm is expressed through the initiative of the latter home.

The musically-minded may strive to attain membership in any of five organizations: the A Cappella choir which consists of the finest of S.C. J.C.'s vocalists, and which, after perfecting a program of classical selections, makes a concert tour of Southern California; the college orchestra directed by Professor Abel affords opportunities in instrumental lines to interested students; the two Glee Clubs consisting of some thirty members each, whose choice of music, uniform, and members arouse interest in the organization; and the Chorus of some sixty members, which plans to present the "Elijah" this spring.

The more specialized organizations include Sigma Gamma, the science club for pre-medical, pre-nursing, and science major students, and the C.C.C. (College Commercial Club) which has gained recognition as the unique club.

Science Club

The Science Club had the interesting privilege of listening to Doctor McPherson give one of his talks on "The Relation of Physics to Physiology."

In his lecture he emphasized the fact that there is no real line of demarcation between the sciences. It is impossible to tell where one leaves off and the other begins. He said, "One can see science as a whole when one gets a perspective of all science."

In Doctor McPherson's talk he spoke of the early doctors in the colonies. They did not go to any medical school over here, but apprenticed themselves to the doctors who had received their education in Europe. As a result they were not very scientific.

It seems as though the medical education is becoming more complex despite the continual action of various boards of education which are trying to simplify the course.

The question is often asked, "What good is physics in medicine?" The doctor replied, "All patients have abnormal physiological conditions, and in order to tell to what extent one must know the normal conditions. One cannot understand physiology without knowing physics."

He believes that more stress should be placed on bio-physics, and not so much on engineering physics.

Seniors Pay Visit

(Continued from Page One)

Before dinner the Seniors and the student body assembled in Chapel under their respective banners. A program followed in which students and teachers showed their appreciation of the visit and pictured the advantages of attending S.C.J.C.

An hour spent in visiting the dining-room quenched all thirst and satisfied all hunger of these guests.

In order to have the memory of a more lasting nature a senior picture was taken after dinner.

The afternoon was spent in visiting the various departments, and other points of interest. The greatest interest of the afternoon centered in the direction of the farm, where students were given a glimpse of the excellent dairy and its equipment.

At 3:30 refreshments were served in the dining-room, and one by one the groups left for their homes. Their new and old friends bade them goodbye till the opening of school next year, when many will come back to stay.

Associated Student Body

(Continued from Page One)

A contest for a school song has just closed with a number of excellent compositions. A committee of judges is now engaged in the difficult task of selection.

The most enjoyed social of the year, so many say, was the A.S.B. ice-skating party.

The A.S.B. plans to have new tennis courts of cement before the school year closes. The school administration has leveled the ground, and lack of funds is the only thing stopping immediate construction.

It is the purpose of the A.S.B. to help develop character by featuring the social and recreational interests of the students.

In your plans to attend this school year include the plan to join the A. S. B.—"Bob" Sibley, President of Associated Student Body.

Snake Strikes Student

(Continued from Page One)

cutting across the fang-punctures with a knife and sucking the poison out as much as possible.

A tourniquet was applied and Bob ran and slid down the mountain side until he reached Prof. Fentzling's house. The Associate Science instructor, Prof. Cushman drove him to the County Hospital at Arlington where 10 cc's of anti-venom were injected.

Very characteristic was Bob's reluctance to leave the scene of the accident, and the snake, until he could "instruct them how to catch him," as he later expressed it. He wanted the reptile, which had eight rattles, for the Biology Dept.

However such considerations did not deter some of the nearby walkers from summarily killing the snake.

Bible Class Held

To prepare those present to meet the requirements of the Service League, and to give any interested ones insight on how Bible readings are really carried on, a company meets every Wednesday evening for the Bible Worker's Meeting conducted by Mrs. Williamson, Bible Worker in the Loma Linda Sanitarium, and a woman of many years' experience in this field.

Premedic Views

As the time nears for the pre-meds to enter Loma Linda many strange and uncanny things happen. The other day one of the aspirants received a letter from the registrar saying that he was all lined up as far as his studies were concerned but that he had not reached a 1.5 average in grades which is essential for entrance.

All this means is that the pre-meds had better burn a little more midnight oil and make some better grades.

We'll See You Next Year

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

PUBLICATION OF THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

VOL. V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, MARCH 29, 1934

Number 12

Death Valley Visited

FIFTEEN TAKE TRIP

Many Interesting Points Seen

An event of the year which is taking not a little attention is the trip sponsored by the Science club to the points of interest around the Death Valley. A big feature was a visit to Hoover Dam.

A description of the plans was outlined by Mr. Jesse Tolle, president of Sigma Gamma, in a chapel talk. Spring vacation was the time set aside for the scheduled five-day trip. In order, the itinerary included a visit to the Portland Cement Plant at Victorville; Las Vegas, Nevada, and Hoover Dam; then up to the northern end of Death Valley, where they visited the palace of Death Valley Scotty. From then down through the valley they visited Furnace Creek Inn. Scientific observations, studies, and collections were made by the party.

The inspiration was taken after the example of Glendale Junior College, which every year sponsors a great traveling party of the same import. Few people usually know that Death Valley is anything more than a forest of sand dunes. The actual fact is that there are many beautiful and marvelous rock constructions. The trip was an enjoyable success.

A. S. B. Sponsors Social Evening

The second Saturday evening social sponsored by the Associated Student Body occurred March 16, in the Dining room.

On entering, one could be ushered to whichever table he chose. When each table was filled the group commenced to figure out some writing given them, in which hidden states could be found.

Entertainment aside from table games as Jenkins, was provided by readings from Betty Meyers, Mrs. Fentzling and two musical selections from a girls' quartet.

The groups were mixed for refreshments and another written game followed—names of kitchen utensils or animals with the letters "scrambled."

Former Educational Secretary Speaks

"The only way to get the best is through Jesus," stated Elder Guy Mann in his Sabbath sermon, March 24.

He portrayed the fact that the Lord has given us an opportunity to work in his vineyard. If we don't do it we lose something; while on the other hand we do everything we can, then we turn it over to the Lord.

He brought out the fact that in order to get we must first give. "God will and does hear and answer prayer if we will trust him."

Annual Commercial Program Presented

The "Survival of the Fittest" was one of the main events of the annual commercial department program, held March 17, in which the survivors of the ordeal of learning to work in unity and cooperation and learning to practice loyalty were Violet Giddings, Esther Aam, and Irene Gass.

Another feature which largely contributed to the success of the program was a song "We'll Have to Mortgage the Farm." In this the singers, Dick Walters, Betty Myers, and Virginia Garrett, Bernice Prout, and Harry Sciarrillo portrayed their respective roles of laboring father and mother and wilful and spend-thrift daughters and son with great accuracy.

In the typing contest Verna Belding attained the greatest number of words per minute with many others over the hundred mark.

The program was all of an enjoyable nature and it was felt by all that they were amply repaid.

Vespers Conducted by Professor Reynolds

"Where there is faith miracles happen and divine manifestations are present," summarized Professor K. J. Reynolds, in his Vesper talk to the young people during vacation.

During Jesus' ministry many didn't expect mighty things to happen and they didn't; on other occasions the people and individuals had faith and expected something to happen and it did."

Elder Daniells Discusses Present Needs

"Every one in this room is under the care, protection, supervision of a great supreme and divine being, to guard, guide, and protect you personally as his own property, which meets the enemy and thwarts his purposes," brought out Elder A. G. Daniells in his message to the young people at vespers, March 9, on "The Great Providences of Every Person's Life Individually."

"We have a journey to make when we come to years of responsibility, but although we devise our way the Lord directs our steps."

He emphasized "that God does not let providences happen, He makes them happen.

He exalted Elijah as an example of familiarity and friendship with God, and wished all could have a similar close experience.

"Prepare to meet thy God, O Israel," challenged Elder Daniells in the Sabbath service.

"God doesn't like to be shut away from the presence of man," he stressed, "and therefore He wants us to get ready for the reunion." In order to be ready he advocated that all "follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord."

"Trees to Tribune"

A three-reel picture, which reviewed the making of the Chicago Tribune, was shown in the chapel, Sunday night, March 11.

We were first taken to the immense forest reserves of the Tribune, saw hundreds of woodsmen felling these trees and piling them during the winter. When spring thaws the streams the logs are sent downstream to the pulp mills. Paper is made and we were then shown into the pressroom where tons of this newsprint is used for the publication of one edition.

Former S.C.J.C. Student Returns to Community

Lyman Ham, business manager on the '30-'31 Criterion Staff, and pal of Dunbar Smith, has moved to the College community, after residing some months in Riverside.

He is at present coaching track at the Lowell school in Riverside, and is also working on the C.W.S. recreational project for the city.

Playground Drive Launched

NORTON IS MANAGER

Plans to Raise $300

Another drive is under way! It made a successful "take off" during chapel, March 12. The goal is $300. The object is Playground Equipment, and with 100% student cooperation under the managership of "Jim" Norton, such a conservative sum should be doubled! The drive closes March 29, at 6 p. m.

The student body has been divided into seven bands under the leadership of Viola Mitchell, Ben Mattison, Frank Davidson, Stanley Folkenberg, Oran Colton, Frances Rutan and Irene Gass, who have named their bands after some ball game.

Within the last two weeks most of the chapel periods have been devoted to pep speeches by the band leaders, the rendering of band

(Continued on Page Four)

Elder Holden Brings Timely Message

"Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin," was the definition chosen by Elder F. H. Holden, President of the Lake Union Conference in his vesper talk, March 16, on the "Wages of Sin and the Gift of God."

He pointed out "that there was a great difference between the children of God and the children of the world, and that the difference is becoming more and more marked." He stated that it was a great privilege to be in the school of the Lord.

"Take advantage of every opportunity," he advised.

"If you think that you have made a mistake that would ruin you for life don't think so, for redemption was planned for sinners," he assured his hearers.

"Behold I come quickly means far more to the people of God now than it did at the time it was first written," he brought out in his sermon Sabbath morning.

"The world is getting ready faster than the remnant people is getting ready." "A moment of respite has been granted to the people of God. He is waiting for the remnant church to perfect characters for the kingdom. He is preparing for a quick work."

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., March 29, 1934 No. 12

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....Milton Lee
 Associate Editor.....Henry Kuhn
 Feature Editor.....Austin Morgan
 Fountain of News.....James Lee
 Exchange.....Robert Cossentine
 World News.....Marion Leitch

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....Richard Walters
 Advertising Manager.....Oran Colton
 Circulation Manager.....Ruth Cossentine

ADVISORS

Business.....A. R. Smith
 Literary.....J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

MOVE !!

A couple of weeks ago a campaign started for the betterment of our school. It is a project which takes cooperation and loyalty and industry. Which of these do you have?

It has been said that the goal is low as compared to last year's, and for that reason it should be reached easily. But remember that nothing could be done if someone did not move. So why not we all?

PERSEVERANCE

One of the greatest blessings that may come to a man upon this earth is that of being endowed with the mental quality known as perseverance. In accord with a natural law, the person firm and persevering in any course or resolve is the one that wins. All down through the ages this has been demonstrated. Jacob ever remained firm in his purpose to secure Rachel for a wife; and after a service of fourteen long years it came about that he not only realized his hope, but "increased exceedingly, and had much cattle, and maidservants, and men servants, and camels, and asses." Throughout years of public ridicule Columbus tramped over a portion of Europe in an endeavor to put into execution his plan for determining that the world is a globe; and at last his tenacity of purpose resulted in the discovery of America. Carlyle's first volume of the "French Revolution"—a manuscript of several hundred pages, the writing of which had taken many long days of research and labor—was lent for a neighbor's perusal. The neighbor left the manuscript lying on the parlor floor; the maid of all work used it to light the kitchen fire. It came as a terrible blow to the author; but with his determination of purpose, and without a draft or even a single note, he rewrote the whole thing. Audubon, the great ornithologist, placed two hundred of his most valued drawings in a wooden box and gave them into the hands of a relative, with the admonition that they have exceptional care while the owner was away for several months on a matter of business. Upon returning and opening up the treasure, however, Audubon found that rats had gnawed the sheets of paper into small bits. Did he sit down and mope?—not by a great deal. He took up his gun, notebooks, and pencils, and went to the woods again in the knowledge that he might then make even better drawings than before. The result was that at the end of three years his portfolio was refilled.

"Persist if thou wouldst truly reach thine ends, for failures oft are but advising friends."—Ambition.

Kampus Kwips

Henry Kuhn

Don Davenport lives in a little cottage that he set up—an Olympic Village cottage from L. A. which he fondly trusts once harbored some famed athlete. As he expressed it, "Maybe some great person lived in it like Pavao Nurmi, Babe Didrikson, or something."

The other morning he was awakened by the bawling of his cow. He irritably leaped out of bed, running out the door in search of a missile to carry out his old threat to "throw a brick down her throat." He found one and evidently threw it; the hollow thump sounded like it hit the side of the barn, but maybe it was the cow. He returned to bed as did the cow to her mooing, but henceforth, every time he started up, the beast rather wisely became silent.

I had a tooth pulled the other day—one of those husky horse-teeth in the back. I would have commemorated it in verse, but I construct the most abominable poetry.

I had a fairly good idea of what it would be like—a few shots of novocaine, a sudden jerk of the pliers, and a sensation of the world splitting. But it wasn't that way at all.

The molar seemed well pleased with its environment, and was very reluctant to leave. It didn't hurt much, but from the sensation, I judged the lower mandible was going to come away with the tooth, but I also felt I had further need of the jaw for certain purposes.

Meanwhile I was engaged in the important business of keeping from calling "quits," and I congratulate myself on concealing considerable of my true state of feeling. But it came out nicely.

P. S.—This testimonial for sale.

Every thought in printer's ink
 Makes us good or evil think,
 Then let the man who takes the pen
 Write to help his fellow men.
 And by my pen without a charm,
 It will never do you any harm;
 But instead, a help I pray
 To inspire you day by day.

Bicyclists Make Mountain Trip

Following their usual form in outdoor vacations, Bob Cossentine and Henry Kuhn made a ninety-five mile, two-and-a-half day trip into the Angelus National Forest to climb Mt. San Antonio, "Old Baldy."

The actual ascent of the 10,000 ft. peak was made Friday the 23rd, under poor weather conditions, thick fog covering the snow-crueted summit. A slight snow was falling on the hike down.

They continued down the other side of the mountains, via Lytle Canyon, San Bernardino, and so home.

The wheels were pushed most of the way up the nineteen-mile grade to the divide; coming down, the brakes became so hot as to smoke, compelling frequent stops.

The Saturday night event, lack of food, and orders from headquarters, were given as reasons for their early return.

El Circulo Espanol

The Spanish Club, which meets weekly, is truly a period during which all first and second year Spanish students may put into practice what has been taught them during the week. Dialogues, talks, songs and games are all useful material with which a student may advance toward more fluent conversation in the tongue studied.

The general program runs somewhat thus: Record is taken and many times is followed by a comment on some news item of the week. Several talks may follow on the subject chosen for the period, and the club will conclude with one or two games, many times a word drill.

12 PHOTOS 20 CENTS

Scotts Kodak Shop
 4029 Market

Kodaks -:- Films -:- Enlarging

Kodak Finishing
 Our Specialty

Mail Orders Given Prompt Attention

ANNOUNCING

HERBERT'S SHOE DEPARTMENT

Ladies Sport Shoes
 Regulation Heels
 Dress Shoes

$1.99

3877 MAIN STREET, RIVERSIDE

Why I Teach

Some people have the wrong conception of a teacher's motives for teaching. This poem gives a real motive—perhaps that is why we have so many students taking normal training.

Because I would be young in soul and mind
 Though years must pass and age my life constrain,
 And I have found no way to lag behind
 The fleeting years, save by the magic chain
 That binds me, youthful, to the youth I love,
 I teach.
 Because I would be wise and wisdom find
 From millions gone before whose torch I pass,
 Still burning bright to light the paths that wind
 So steep and rugged, for each lad and lass
 Slow-climbing to the unrevealed above,
 I teach.
 Because in passing on the living flame
 That ever brighter burns the ages through,
 I have done service that is worth the name
 Can I but say, "The flame of knowledge grew
 A little brighter in the hands I taught,"
 I teach.
 Because I know that when life's end I reach
 And thence pass through the gate so wide and deep
 To what I do not know, save what men TEACH,
 That the remembrance of me men will keep
 Is what I've done; and what I have is naught,
 I teach.

Trails Of College Folk

Quite a few of our folk were down at the ice skating rink in L. A., the Saturday night during vacation. Assorted types of fun were had by all.

Bernice Hawkins is looking towards April 1, when the doctors say she can get up. Thank fortune, because then she can get her own candy if she wants. One time the "scribbling we" worked hard to oblige, but it was a pleasure anyway.

We are certainly proud of the responsibilities that our young people took upon their shoulders during the last vacation. Bob Sibley had charge of the boys' dormitory, and Nettie Atteberry carried the mace in the girls' dormitory.

James Lee and Marguerite Singlinger went up with Don Davenport to P.U.C. during this vacation. They reported seeing some of our old students there.

Those that were left during the vacation were taken for a hay-rack ride to Jack Frost Lake on Thursday evening, March 22.

The Saturday night of vacation was characterized by the playing of various games in the girls' parlor.

To add to the perils of aviation we read that now meteors may foredoom interplanetary flight. This fact will probably delay the summer vacation to Saturn in 1980.

A Practical Man's Recipe For Success

A man who stands high in his class as a practical wood-worker was asked to what he attributed his success.

"Why", he answered, "I fell in love with my work when I was a youngster, and the better I got to know the work, the more I loved it. The more I loved it, the better I did the work. As my work improved, so did I. My advice to any young man is: Fall in love with your work."

The men who have made good, as well as those now in the progress of "getting there," are those whose work fascinates them, holds them with the grip of interest, shows the hidden meaning of things, and leads them unerringly to a full understanding of the "why" of what they are trying to accomplish.

No insight is so true or so deep as that of the man who loves his work, not for what he gets out of it himself. No material returns are so great or afford so much real pleasure as the satisfaction a full-blooded man finds in a piece of work well done.

Happy is the man who has found his work, and whose work has found him.—Selected.

Mu Beta Kappa

M. B. K. convened by the sound of the gavel, Thursday night, March 15—George Rutan presiding. Members of the Girls' Forum were invited to meet with them. The speaker was Mr. Westhaver, assistant superintendent of the Sherman Institute. He told many interesting facts regarding the daily routine of an Indian student in receiving his education and learning a trade. The enrollment is divided into two sections—the first group goes to school in the afternoon and the next morning, while the second group works and begins school the following afternoon. The enrollment is about 750, and the industries number nearly 16.

An informal period of discussion followed, during which Mr. Westhaver was asked many questions regarding this government school.

Only 24 miles of new railway were laid in the United States in 1933, while 1,876 miles were scrapped.

True worshiping always leads to witnessing.

He who will not be counseled cannot be helped.

Gardner's Drugs Stores
First with the Latest

Magazines of all Types

3885 Main Street., Riverside

FRANZEN'S
 RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

HEADQUARTERS FOR
 Roofing
 Paints
 Builders Hardware

Furniture Stores
 Hardware
 China
 Silver
 Glass Ware
 Floor Coverings

MC MAHON'S

SPECIALIST IN FINE FLOWERS

Telephone 4800
 Visit Our Plant Conservatory
 6768 Main Street, Riverside, California

KARL'S
 THE FAMILY
 SHOE STORE

NEW SPRING SHOES

MOST REASONABLE PRICES

Women's Shoes $1.99 up
 Men's Shoes 1.99 up
 Children's .99 up

KARL'S SHOES
 Main Street at Ninth Street

«Advertising is our constant companion and our helpful friend.»

THE COLLEGE PRESS

Office Forms
 Statements
 Billheads
 Receipts

Letterheads
 Envelopes
 Programs
 Cards

Announcements

WE CALL AND DELIVER

Swiss Cleaners and Dyers
 A COMPLETE SERVICE

Phone 431 4015 Main Street, Riverside, California

A Few Thoughts on Spring

Allan Cossentine

What is it that causes people to stick their heads out the windows and say something, and then pick up their affairs of life with a new zest and hopefulness. Everything seems as though it were being seen through rose colored glasses, and everything seems to go off perfectly. Old woes are forgotten and a friendliness of spirit pervades the atmosphere.

That's easy to explain. The same thing that starts the plants in the ground to come up, the same thing that causes the sap in the trees to run and nourish the leaf buds, the same thing brings the birds back from the south in order to do over their task of nest building and raising a family—in other words, SPRING.

If you care to define the action of spring in a less romantic way you will find that at certain places in the orbit of the earth, the surface of our hemisphere is exposed more directly to the rays of the sun and that it is there the stronger rays cause the difference. It is surprising how the sun affects the whole life of nations. For instance, suppose that the bank closures and the financial crisis of last year had come in the dead of winter. There is no telling what might have happened. This fact coupled with that of a new active administration, accentuated for the enthusiastic optimism that pervaded the country after the inauguration.

It is to be confessed that the argument presented in the last paragraph may sound foolish, and it is true that the idea cannot be carried too far. But at the same time it is true that the same influence that awakening nature has upon plants and animals is also very apparent upon us, and that it changes a whole lot our attitude of mind.

So think about this and see if when you are out of doors and see everything becoming green if you can not receive an inspiration from the provisions of the good God above in His wise order.

Playground Drive Launched

(Continued from Page One)

songs, band meetings, and reveling songs, band meetings, and revealing of worthy prizes.

Thus far twenty five dollar donations have been turned in and numerous smaller sums, and with the passage of spring vacation hope is expressed on the part of campaign officials that the goal chart will show a marked increase.

A special feature and incentive to every student is to reach his personal goal of six dollars. As a reward all of such will enjoy a week-end trip to Idyllwild.

Remember: "Your effort means our success."

Chapel Notes

March 7

Professor Cossentine gave the seniors an official welcome in chapel, Academy day, March 7. He gave the history of the college, leading up to the present possibilities offered to the student.

The club meetings and activities in the dormitories were represented by students.

Judging from the response, the A Cappella Choir and the Orchestra were appreciated by all.

March 9

Bob Sibley, the A.S.B. president, announced the campaign for the tennis courts, Friday, March 9. The nominating committee submitted names for campaign manager, and "Jim" Norton was elected.

Professor Abel led the students in several songs from which they are to choose the school song.

March 12

Plans for the playground equipment campaign were announced Monday, March 12. The student body is divided into seven bands with a goal of $45 each, that is a personal goal of $1.50. All reaching a special goal of $6 will be rewarded. The prizes are for the ones receiving the most money first.

March 13

The bands met for the first time Tuesday, March 13. All were urged to begin work immediately.

March 15

The band led by Irene Gass showed enthusiasm by singing their band song in chapel, Friday, March 15.

The first and second prizes are tennis rackets, given by Starkweather sporting goods, and Sears Roebuck & Company. Other prizes are: A box of silk stockings, a box of stationery, and a $2 cake, given by J. C. Penny Co., Campbells Book Store, and The Butter Krust Bakery respectively.

"EXAMINATIONS"

Professors are a stranger lot
To tell them all I'm sure I'd need
The ink of seven oceans!
I'll only mention one mistake
They've spread through all the nation,

It is to finish off a term
With an examination.

I don't know why they labor so
To give abundant measure,
So easily could we all arrange
To have a little leisure;
I'm satisfied with what I get
In each day's gen'rous ration
Without a double serving at
The last examination

But there's no use to dodge the thing

Life's full of tests and trouble,
And he who fails to be prepared
Must burst as any bubble.
Then let me pass along a word,
My word to "all creation"
Just study daily so you won't
Fear Prof.'s examination.—H.J.B.

Exchange

Walter Williams, of the University of Missouri is said to be the only university president in the United States who was not college-educated himself.—A. M.

Though his left leg is amputated below the knee, Leo Braun of West Haven, Conn., is a star defense player in the local high school hockey team.—A. M.

"There will be no more white members of the Navajo Indian tribe," was the decision of the tribal council held at the Sherman Indian Institute recently. The members express their indignation that "every movie star and ex-mayor of New York" should be a Navajo. From now on membership will be by birth only.

The "Philippine Collegian" has 42 editors, and four pages of American jokes.—J. C.

It must have seemed like the good old days to a 15 foot pre-historic herring, whose age is estimated at more than 90,000,000 years, (really not more than about five or six thousand), as it took its place among other weird and gigantic creatures in Yale's Peabody museum of natural history recently. Its scientific name is "portheus molossus."—The Cadet.

Professor Lawrence of the University of California found on his desk recently a heart inscribed with this touching little verse:

Roses are red,
Violets are blue,
Some profs give A's—
Do You?

—Golden Gater.

It would take 99 years for a person to complete his education at the University of Wisconsin if he wished to take every course.—The Arroyo.

Academy Day Reflections

Academy Day proved a very pleasant one—perfect day, appreciative visitors and delicious food!

Home students felt little like studying. They looked out upon the campus and saw groups of Academic Seniors, dressed in their attractive sweaters. Some were headed for the science building and others were anxious to visit the dormitories to see if each occupant had given the "personal touch" to his or her room.

Chapel period, which came the last thing in the morning proved an inspiration to all present. The visitors luckily found seats, but there would have been small chances of seating another academy group.

Departments were visited that afternoon, refreshments were served the seniors, and the boys provided an interesting baseball game on the campus.

Spanish Column

Moises A. Gonzalez

FUNCIONAMIENTO DEL CANAL DE PANAMA

(Continuacion)

Mostrando sincronizadamente, el movimiento alli en el mostrador por medio de las varillas de pasta o hueso negro que estan representando a cada una de las dos gigantescas hojas de compuerta; entra el barco en la esclusa, el operador mueve otra manezuela niquelada y las dos varillas negras empiezan a moverse reproduciendo el movimiento de las hojas de la compuerta que se estan cerrando; mueve otra de las manezuelas, se abre la valvula del fondo de la esclusa y el agua comienza a ser vaciada de la esclusa, hasta poner la embarcacion flotando al nivel del agua, de la proxima esclusa; se ilumina la torrecilla del cristal opaco y el liquido de su contenido se va bajando mostrandonos mediante, la escala en pies y pulgadas, el nivel del agua de la esclusa, mueven otra de las pequenas manezuelas; la cadenita se extiende de uno a otro lado de la plancha gris, empieza a bajar paulatinamente en movimiento sincronizado, con el de las enormes cadenas de la esclusa; el movimiento de otra manezuela hace girar el otro juego de compuertas que ha quedado frente a la proa del barco, abriendolas, si endo en realidad las puertas las que se abren; pasa a la siguiente, las compuertas detras de el se cierran la torrecilla de cristal nos muestra el nivel del agua que lentamente vuelve a subir; todo esto mediante el movimiento de las manezuelas niqueladas que no son otra cosa que contactos electricos mediante los cuales controla el movimiento de las gigantescas maquinarias de la esclusa, con la particularidad de que esos movimientos son facilmente reproducidos en el mostrador que representan los juegos de esclusas. Los gigantescos motores y enormes maquinarias que sirven para mover las compuertas, recojer y volver a colocar las enormes cadenas de proteccion, abrir y cerrar las vavulas que dan paso al agua que entra o sale de la esclusa, se encuentra en el subterraneo y para examinarlas hay una galeria que por sus dimensiones, limpieza y magnificio alumbrado, semeja al pasillo de uno de los grandes vapores transatlanticos.

One's real perils come from from within.

The less men think, the more they talk.

Hope always helps.

Character is contagious.

Be always at leisure to do good.

No sword bites so fiercely as an evil tongue.

Every human being is a bundle of habit tied with the string of time.

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

PUBLICATION OF THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

VOL. V

ARLINGTON, CALIFORNIA, MAY 10, 1934

Number 13

Young Men Honored With Reception

"Famous Women of History" Presented

After much expectation, speculation, and choosing, the Girls' Reception to the men took place at 6:30 P. M., April 22, in the College chapel and dining room.

First came the banquet on long rows of dining-room tables decorated in red, white, and blue. Above, colored streamers hung from the pillars, lending a festive air to the scene.

The men and their partners were seated according to tiny direction cards received as they entered the door. The several-course dinner, ending in strawberry shortcake, momentarily ceased and applause arose as Lola Olmstead entered in a wheel chair, making her first public appearance since she was injured in an auto accident three months ago.

(Continued on Page Three)

Woodworking Industry To Be Developed At S. C. J. C.

"A new era has come to the industrial phase of S.C.J.C. in the person of Mr. J. W. Craig with his plans for developing a woodworking plant," quoting the words of one student.

His first adventure at his new post is what he calls "S-N-I-F-F"—"Something New Intended For Families." It is the folding chair for porches and lawns which we plan to produce at this school. It is new for it carries a patent issued in March of this year. It is light yet comfortable; it is easy folding; it does not depend on the tension to regulate its height, and every member of the family will like to sit in it. The good workmanship of our students who will make it under careful supervision will help to make it an attractive and desirable item.

It will be marketed here on the Pacific coast, for already several merchandise buyers have expressed their desire to offer it to the public. We may also develop a type for direct house-to-house sales work. The first consignment of parts is already ordered and we are sure

(Continued on Page Three)

Group Gives Program at L. A. A.

A group of S.C.J.C. students who formerly attended Los Angeles Academy returned to the school and gave a program, Monday morning, April 24.

The main portion of the program was a dialog extolling the benefits of college life. The plot showed a number of college graduates in a get-together ten years after class night, and discussing how S.C.J.C. helped them to successful careers.

Dinner was served the visitors in the excellent Academy cafeteria. The group returned to the College in the evening.

New A. S. B. Officers Chosen

BEN MATTISON ELECTED PRESIDENT

Alumni Picnic to be Held

Eats, election of officers for the coming year, and games will be the chief sources of activity at the coming Alumni Picnic at Fairmount Park, May 29.

All graduates of the College or Academic departments are cordially invited to be present. Bring your tennis racket, your bathing suit, and a quarter for refreshments.

THINK!

Two things have been brought home to us as the result of the depression: namely, that the young man or woman who wishes to succeed must have an unquestionable character and a thorough preparation. S. C. J. C. brings the possibility of both. The very object of the College is character development. Its young people are in the best of environment, where the highest form of character may be developed. From an educational view point S. C. J. C. stands unchallenged. Its teachers, facilities, and equipment are of the very best. No effort has been thought too great by its board of directors to make S. C. J. C. "The Junior College."

Think, young man, young woman, of these advantages together with your possibilities and capabilities. Both used to the fullest advantage will spell success for you. Think of your future in terms of S. C. J. C.

E. E. COSSENTINE.

Fountain of News

"Casting a backward glance over the history of the Fountain of News for the year '33-'34, several features stand out," reported James Lee, who has been its editor.

"During the whole year not a single school day has passed without an issue of the Fountain of News." In all there have been one hundred and seventy-six issues. In each there has been an average of twelve news items, making a grand total of 2112—a rather complete diary of the school year.

"We, the editors, feel that the Fountain of News has made a place for itself at S.C.J.C.—it fills a need. As we pass on, we hope this daily news sheet will continue through the years," concluded its editor.

Biology Class Activities

Members of the College and Academic biology classes, accompanied by the instructor, Professor and Mrs. L. H. Cushman, went for a week-end stay at Dollar lake, in the San Bernardino Mountains.

The group collected flower specimens and hiked and returned late Sunday as planned.

A group of Biology students under the leadership of Professor Cushman went to Laguna Beach, April 22, to study conditions at low tide.

"No we didn't see any penguins, as some reported," chided the professor. However, sea gulls, cliff swallows, cormorants, and other species were seen and studied.

The pulse of our Student Body seems to promise another year of continued ascendancy toward building a more unified and loyal group of students. Expressions are frequently heard about the campus that the new officers, chosen from names submitted by the nominating committee, Friday, April 27, seem to be of the type which are fully capable to guide S.C.J.C.'s '34 student group to great heights.

The officers chosen are as follows: Ben Mattison, president; Harry Sciarillo, Irene Gass, vice-presidents; Hazel Walde, secretary; Francis Rutan, assistant; Arnold Mueller, treasurer; Jack Cales, parliamentarian; Henry Kuhn, editor-in-chief; Henry Whaley, Criterion business manager; Prof. C. C. Morrison, advisor.

Ben Mattison, newly-elected President of the Associated Student Body has been a student of the College for two years and was president of the class of '32 from L. A.

(Continued on Page Three)

New Conference President Paying Extended Visit

"God is finishing the work throughout the world and marvelous advancement is being made," emphasized Elder E. F. Hackman, new President of this conference in his Sabbath sermon, April 28.

"The mystery of God, which is the gospel, shall be finished in the early years of the seventh trumpet which began to sound in 1844, and the rapid progress of the third angel's message indicates that this will be accomplished in the near future."

He pointed out this advancement by stating that the membership for 50 years of our denominational history was equalled in one year, that of 1932. He further showed that with less money and less men more souls were baptized in 1932 than during the banner year of prosperity, that of 1929.

Elder Hackman who was formerly Associate Secretary of the Home Missionary Department of the General Conference is now residing in the guest room of the girls' dormitory and plans to reside there till the end of June.

(Continued on Page Two)

THE COLLEGE CRITERION

Vol. V Arlington, Calif., May 10, 1934 No. 13

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 7, 1929, at the Post Office at Arlington, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879.
Published every other Thursday of the school year by the Student Body of Southern California Junior College.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief.....	Milton Lee
Associate Editor.....	Henry Kuhn
Feature Editor.....	Austin Morgan
Fountain of News.....	James Lee
Exchange.....	Robert Cossentine
World News.....	Marion Leitch

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager.....	Richard Walters
Advertising Manager.....	Oran Colton
Circulation Manager.....	Ruth Cossentine

ADVISORS

Business.....	A. R. Smith
Literary.....	J. P. Fentzling

EDITORIAL

GOING AND COMING

The outgoing Criterion staff of '33, '34 wish to extend to Mr. Henry Kuhn, the newly elected editor success in his choice of co-workers for the coming year and we know that the spirit of S.C.J.C. voiced through this organ will continue throughout his term.

Through my association and joint labor with Mr. Kuhn on this year's editions, I can say that he is a capable individual and deserving of the office to which he was elected.

We solicit your continued support that the official organ of the Student Body may meet the approval of all who read it.

Sincerely,
W. MILTON LEE.

To the Out-going Staff:

To you is due the credit for this year's issues in spite of difficulties, and for founding the "daily Criterion," the Fountain of News. So to you as the authors, come the knocks for mistakes, and fancied mistakes, as well as merited thanks for your accomplishments.

The new Staff pledges itself to continue the progress made this year, to advance the interests of S.C.J.C., and to boost the Student Body.

Sincerely,
HENRY L. KUHN.

Fellow Student—Watch every opportunity to boost for your school during the summer months. Make your aim to return with at least one other aside from yourself.

We Appreciate:

Professor Reynolds for putting a helpful motto on his board each morning, and for his "nickel quizzes."

Miss Voith for the splendid direction of the rhythm orchestra.

Professor Fentzling for his interest in writing contests.

Miss Ragon for her systematic study plan.

Professor Rieke for building the tennis court, and promoting playground improvement.

Mrs. Sorenson for nourishing us at regular intervals and for allowing choice morsels to reach this office.

Miss Sorenson for her benefit to the school as a master of languages.

Professor Abel for obtaining the permission which enabled the A Cappella choir to sing over KFI.

Elder Sorenson for making the campus green.

Miss Hopkins for having every student to dinner at least once.

Miss Scott for not losing her temper when she is bothered 50 times daily for the mail.

H. I. Smith for insisting that we have the copy in on time.

A. R. Smith for supervising the business end of the Criterion.

President Cossentine for his individual interest in each student, and for his success in advancing the school.

Mrs. Cushman for her splendid violin recital.

Professor Cushman for the biology trips.

Professor Morrison for being an all around good sport.

Miss Paulson for supervising the general health of the students.

Miss Jensen for another successful year of turning out prospective church school teachers.

J. W. Craig for his industrial plan.

Junior Class Organizes

On Tuesday, April 24, all eligible juniors of '34 met in Prof. K. J. Reynolds' history room in order to organize the class. After a word of prayer, Pres. E. E. Cossentine took charge of the election of a president. "Ben" Mattison was the choice in this case and immediately set to work in getting the other officers elected. The results of the whole election were as follows:

Ben Mattison, President
Alice Clement, Vice-President
Doris Ferne Harris, Secretary-Treasurer

Jack Cales, Sergeant-at-arms
From the very start, the junior class has been a lively and active organization. Committees were elected at once to plan various details. Plans for the picnic of the juniors and seniors have been laid and the motto and colors have been chosen, viz:

Motto: "Victory with honor"
Colors: Cardinal and White

Graduation--Then What?

As the Senior reception given by President and Mrs. Cossentine drew to a close every Senior present was asked to write what he was planning to do this summer and also what he proposed to do next school year. Forty-six responded.

Jim Reichard intends to work in a cafeteria in Long Beach for both periods.

Ivan Martin, Harry Sciarrillo, Bob Cossentine, Lovell Roderick, Gordon Palmer, and Arnold Muller intend to work here during the summer and start to school here in September.

Erwin Rosa is going to work at a box factory and then come back after the summer is over, while Inez Mann and Alyce Van Tassell plan to be back after a summer of leisure, and Dorothea Dilbeck will stay at home till school reconvenes.

Kenneth Baylies and Allen Turk intend to work.

James Lee is going back to Korea.

Harry Hickman, Ralph Giddings, Morgan Adams, Arthur Stewart, Victor Mann, Bill Williamson, Art Kirk, and Don Davenport all plan to take medicine at Loma Linda if accepted.

Verna Belding intends to work and start training at Paradise Valley Sanitarium; Doyne Hillhouse, Victoria Specht, Pearl Barber, Inez Paulson, and Vernice Jones seem to prefer Loma Linda to start their training; Isabelle Rue and Lucille Henderson prefer Glendale Sanitarium. How they will spend vacation varies from studying to taking a vacation trip east.

Mildred Slingerland, Virginia Hughes and Elizabeth Sciarrillo all plan to teach next year.

Velma Wilcox, Kenneth Wood, Lois Parker, Frank Davidson, Clementina Nicolas, and Austin Morgan are contemplating attending Pacific Union College.

Bernice Prout plans to have a good time this summer although she does not know what the future holds for next year.

Della Hiatt plans to stay at home both summer and winter and Nadine Hunter seems to have a similar plan.

Claudia Simkin and Ira Schultz are undecided.

Will the Senior ship hold such varied courses? It does!

New Conference President

(Continued from Page One)

After that time he plans to go back east after his wife and two daughters.

Elder Hackman expressed the opinion that the ministerial department of this school ought to be the strongest part of the institution and believes that the course should be in every way thoroughly practical.

In his appeal he stated that "we have come to the time when Seventh-day Adventists should dedicate their lives to the one great task of carrying this message."

Alumni Notes

E. M. C.
April 29

Hello S.C.J.C.:

Imagine my surprise the other day to see Forrest Lawson of the class of '33 greet me with a cheery "Hello Gordon." I had just returned from dinner and had sat down to read the newspaper when Forrest, who made a hurried trip from California to attend his grandmother's funeral, happily surprised me.

E. M. C., which has been intermittently wrapped in a blanket of ice and snow for several months, has at last gladly announced spring-time by blooming forth. Winter sports of skiing, skating, and sleigh-riding have been exchanged for the school favorite of baseball. Yes, indications are that the coming school picnic of May 1 will be one of the liveliest held in years.

E. M. C. like its sister college of S.C.J.C. has a student association. Recently a great deal of interest has been noted in student government regulation until the association now gives promise of becoming a national assembly.

It has been said that "someone's loss is another's gain." Such is the case of Mr. Joseph Craig who leaves E. M. C. for S.C.J.C. in the interest of establishing a wood products industry there.

April 19 promises to be a big day for the college. On that date the North Central Association of Colleges in America renders its report on accrediting of the school. Expectation runs high for rumors are that a very favorable report is pending.

E. M. C., "The School of Opportunity" clasps hands with its sister college S.C.J.C. where "God is Reverenced and Men are Trained" in the great fraternization of upward progress.

Yours,
Gordon H. Anderson.

A live rattlesnake with six rattles and a button was captured in the hills five miles south of the College, and brought back to the Biology Dept. by Henry Kuhn and "Bob" Cossentine. Bob says this is revenge for the one that bit him a few weeks ago.

Woodworking Industry

(Continued from Page One)
this original lot of 600 will not last long. Professor Cossentine already definitely contracted for the first one that comes off the assembly line and plans to make lots of use of it during camp-meeting first, and then afterward for several years to come.

His reason for starting with this chair is based on his tried principle that in order for anything to succeed there must be a need which it can fill. Not only is it practical but it will also provide work to defray the expenses of a number of students.

Mr. Craig came to us from Berrien Springs where for two years he had charge of the mill room in the E. M. C. work shop. He will start with little added machinery, but will wait until the need for new equipment occurs.

He is displaying an ironing board which he contemplates starting to manufacture also. He claims that "it is the only ironing board in the country with which you don't have to mop the floor with one end of the board while setting it up."

In the middle west he stated that last year an excellent business was done in both items, over 40,000 of the chairs being sold. The chair is to cost between $2.75 and $3. Mr. Craig asks that all the women folk who attend camp meeting this year come and inspect this chair.

A. S. B. Officers

(Continued from Page One)
Academy. Ben's home is in Pedley. He hopes to graduate from the Junior Ministerial Course this coming year.

With this group of officers the Association will enter upon its third year of life. Since its birth the organization has been making marked advancement along organized, beneficial social lines and each year has been leaving some material asset to the College. We know that such advancement will continue through the coming year, as plans are already under way for an active program to commence with the opening of school.

As the Criterion aims to express the College's opinion, we take the liberty to express our appreciation for the efforts exerted by the outgoing administration. They deserve our heartfelt thanks.

Girls' Reception

(Continued from Page One)
At the close of the banquet all repaired to the chapel, where a program, "Famous Women of History", was given. It presented scenes from the lives of famous women, each being preceded by a brief biography. Among those taking part, Ethel Ausherman took the part of Florence Nightingale. Mildred Murdock cleverly portrayed Jane Addams. Ruth Hawkins was Ann Judson in the opening division.

In a short, humorous speech, Ralph Giddings thanked the girls for their splendid evening.

At the close of the speech an unusual feature took place, in the form of a march through the Administration building, and past the lily ponds in front of the building, after which the march gradually broke up.

Choir on Spring Tour

The A Cappella Choir is now making its annual Spring Tour. It has sung at Long Beach, Fullerton, San Bernardino, Glendale, Los Angeles, Hollywood, and over radio station KFI.

In the next three weeks it will make appearances at San Diego, Riverside, and Loma Linda. This season's presentations have met with considerable response from the hearers.

The part of the campus behind the main buildings is gradually changing from a dry sandy place to one of the prettiest spots at the school. There are now found there courts for tennis, basket-ball, and volley-ball; an indoor baseball diamond; a green house; and a large lawn.

Our New School Song

These words, submitted by Mildred Slingerland, were put to music by Ethel Ausherman.

School of our dear college days,
We sing to you simple lays.
Through the years we'll love you,
True as skies above you,
We'll always be to S.C.J.C. true.

Chorus:
S.C.J.C., college we love so dearly,
We love your hills, your rocks and your rills,
Your broad expanses too.
S.C.J.C., to you we sing our praises,
School of our youth, the fountain of truth,
We pledge our loyalty.

School where we learn truths of life,
Where there is love, less of strife,
Where we're trained for service
That the world may use us
We'll represent our S.C.J.C. there.

School where we aim to be true,
Living as Christians should do,
Through the endless ages,
When we turn life's pages
We'll talk of dear old S.C.J.C. then.

Successful Week-of-Prayer

A most wonderful Week-of-Prayer was enjoyed by teachers and students of Southern California Junior College April 7 to 14.

Elder E. Torrel Seat, one of the denomination's leading evangelists, who is now connected with the White Memorial hospital in Los Angeles, led out in the services which were held twice each day.

Indeed the Week was a spiritual feast. Many victories over evil were gained, hearts were turned and uplifted to God and several real conversions were experienced.

A CAR WITH NO MOVING PARTS
WOULD LAST MANY TIMES LONGER

A REFRIGERATOR WITH NO MOVING PARTS
WILL LAST MANY TIMES LONGER, AND BE SILENT

AN ELECTROLUX HAS NO MOVING PARTS
TWO TO THREE CENTS PER DAY OPERATES IT

CLARENCE HARLOW, REPRESENTATIVE

"Advertising is our constant companion and our helpful friend."

THE COLLEGE PRESS

Office Forms
Statements
Billheads
Receipts

Announcements

Letterheads
Envelopes
Programs
Cards

FRANZEN'S
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

HEADQUARTERS FOR
Roofing
Paints
Builders Hardware

Furniture Stores
Hardware
China
Silver
Glass Ware
Floor Coverings

Associated Student Body

Ben Mattison

Speaking for the newly elected Associated Student Body officers for 1934-35, we wish heartily to thank the student body for their confidence in us as shown by their choosing us as their officers for next year. It is the sincerest wish of all of us, that we shall as faithfully fulfill our duties and as actively promote the interests of the A. S. B. as the preceding set of officers did.

Next year we are planning for a very wide-awake A. S. B. in our college, one that it will be a benefit and a pleasure to be connected with. School is not entirely fulfilling its purpose and accomplishing all that it might in helping the students prepare for life's intricate problems, if it confines itself merely to lessons alone. During the last few years of our school life, we must learn to use initiative; we must learn to be leaders; we must learn how to cooperate with others; and we must learn how to be of the most possible good to the world. A student that is a member of our Associated Student Body has a chance to do things. He has a chance to learn how to live successfully, and how to adapt himself to the complex surroundings that he will find in later life.

During the school year, the A. S. B. promotes many campaigns, and we also plan to enter into a campaign each year by which we can add something of lasting benefit to our school. The A. S. B. sponsors socials, trips, and other helpful recreation at various times during the school year, all of which tend to make a very happy and beneficial school year.

So let me say to the few who do not definitely know where to go to school next year, plan to come to S.C.J.C., and encourage your friends to come also. Plan on a very splendid school year next year at S.C. J.C., as a member of our Associated Student Body.

Lee to Visit Orient

According to the latest plans, James Lee, editor of the Fountain of News, and a member of the Senior class will sail from San Pedro harbor for Korea on May 30.

He expects to remain in that country a year, studying the language, traveling, and visiting his parents, who are missionaries there. At the end of that time he will return to the United States to take his senior year at Pacific Union College.

Mr. Lee has served the student body in a number of offices, among them the associate-editorship of the Criterion, '30-'31.

Terminal Island is the point of embarkation, where he will board the O. S. K. liner, Montevideo Maru for Japan. From there he will cross the straits on a local steamer.

Seniors in Action

With their colors of "blue and silver", motto of "Sail On", and aim of "The Eternal Harbor our Destiny", the Seniors are indeed sailing on with their class activities.

Elder E. F. Hackman, president of the Southeastern California-Arizona conference, will give the talk for the Senior consecration service, Friday evening, May 25.

Sabbath morning at 11:00 o'clock in the Riverside Central Junior High school auditorium Elder Glenn Calkins, president of the Pacific Union, will give the Baccalaureate address.

"Bill" Williamson, chairman of the Class Night committee, reports that excellent ideas are abundant for the Class Night program. Incidentally, it will be held on Saturday evening, May 26, in the Sherman Institute auditorium.

Dr. P. T. Magan will deliver the Commencement address, Sunday morning, May 27, in the Riverside Central Junior High school auditorium.

Class pins have been in evidence for several weeks around the school. Admiration of their beauty has been expressed by many, especially for the guard which is in the shape of a ship with the figures "34" on the sails.

Contrary to the weather usually enjoyed on senior picnic days, Sunday, April 29, was blest with a clear, blue sky and only a gentle spring breeze. Forty seniors, together with their sponsors, Prof. K. J. Reynolds and Miss Maybel Jensen, and with the guests of honor, Prof and Mrs. E. E. Cossentine, gathered in front of the Administration building at 6 o'clock.

Three private cars and the Conference truck took the group first to Orange County park, where games, tennis and baseball were enjoyed. The cars were reloaded and the next stop was at the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, where the seniors boarded the 65-foot yacht "Kiaora" owned by Dr. Amyes, of Huntington Park. The trim cruiser went as far south as Laguna Beach, and then put out to sea. Several of the seniors participated in the sport of aquaplaning behind the yacht and also the accompanying motor boat. The seniors returned to the dock at 6:00 o'clock, all but four of them proving themselves to be good sailors as well as good seniors.

Students Visit Court

Law and Civics classes observed court procedure in Riverside, Wednesday, April 25. Some were disappointed because all the session was used in choosing a jury. When time to close came little had been accomplished, but those understanding court procedure knew that things would move slowly.

Week End at Idyllwild

"I had a perfect time, the kind that you read about but seldom experience," a student voiced her approval of the week-end outing of April 6, 7, and 8 at Idyllwild.

A group of thirty-five students and four teachers reached their goal of six dollars in the successful drive for playground equipment and were rewarded with an outing at the J. M. V. Pathfinders' camp, Idyllwild.

The group left the school in cars and a truck Friday, 1:45 P. M., and returned Sunday, 8:00 P. M.

At vespers the students sat on logs around a large campfire. Miss Margaret Van Atta spoke on "Realities." Sabbath school and church services were held under the pines. Frank Davidson preached on God in nature and God's call to the youth for service.

Of course the outing would not have been complete without a bit of hiking. Accordingly, the group took a short walk to an abandoned saw mill Sabbath afternoon. Sunday morning twenty-two students and one teacher hiked six miles to the top of Tahquitz Peak. The snow encountered near the top made climbing very difficult.

This outing was a success because everyone demonstrated true school spirit, its strength being cooperation.

Girls' Forum

The revealing of friendship friends was the main feature of the Girls' Forum Thursday evening, April 16, in Gladwyn Hall. Each girl imitated some characteristic of her friend which would enable the group to guess her name. Many comical and interesting characters were portrayed.

In order to ascertain the new friends each girl picked a boat off a lake of water and found her friend's name written on the sail. From now on each girl is to do as many interesting things for her friend as possible.

P.U.C. A Cappella Choir Guest of College

Members of the P. U. C. A Cappella choir, under the direction of G. W. Greer, were guests of M.B.K. and Gladwyn Halls, the week end of April 6-8.

The choir sang during the young People's meeting in the College chapel. Two numbers, "Jesus, Priceless Treasure" and "Beautiful Saviour" were presented by the combined A Cappella Choirs under the direction of Professor Harlyn Abel.

Saturday night the choir gave its third annual spring concert in the Central Junior High School auditorium at Riverside. The theme of their program this year was Redemption.

Idilio Eterno

En prosa de la bella poesia Idilio Eterno de Julio Flores.

Es en momentos en que parece que el mar crece y se agiganta, cuando la parlida luna, la dulcinea del monstruo, le da un beso y se remonta al cielo. Entonces el monstruo indomable que respira tempestades, y que sube, baja y crece, suspira al sentir aquel delicado osculo, y se estremece en su carcel de rocas.

Es el idilio de los siglos, en noches estivales, en que ella, la luna, le da sus palidos reflejos, y el en cambio le ofrece sus corales y sus perlas. Ella en sus delicados fulgores, le dice: 'te amo', y el, con sus fuertes rugidos parece que le respondiera: 'te adoro'.

En la dulce quietud de las noches de estio, ella lo duerme con su tenuel luz y el la arrulla con su eterno grito, cantandole su amargura y su afan con su voz que en el infinito atruena enormemente.

Ella, palida, romantica y triste, oye a su amado, y se recoge por el mismo espacio en que desploma su blanca luz, ocultandose temerosa tras la nube. Desencantada, comprende que aquel amor es imposible, y asustada se contempla con el monstruo azul en que el trueno retumba.

Mas cuando ella se oculta tras la nevada sierra, el la llama desesperadamente, diciendole: 'Luz mia, no te alejes; deten el paso, estrella de mi amor! ¡Mitiga mi amargura un instante, banandome en tu lumbrer sideral. ¡No te vayas! No vez como el azul de las montanas imita tu palida luz?'

Y ella, loca de terror, exclama: No vez que la muerte me circunda por doquier, dueno mio? 'Compadecete, monstruo mio, de esta pobre moribunda' Juntando mi castro brillo a tu oscuro semblante, te envio mi ultimo beso de pasion'.

Campaign Results at a Glance

- Winning Band—"Homerunners," Frank Davidson—$76.70
- Runner-up—"Rouqueters," Irene Gass—$68.23
- First Prize—James Lee—Tennis racket donated by Starkweather Sporting Store.
- Second Prize—George Clement Tennis racket donated by Sears Roebuck and Co.
- Third Prize—Professor Rieke.
- First Twenty dollars—James Lee—Sweater donated by Sweet's.
- First Ten dollars—George Clement—Box of stationery.
- Thirty-five individuals raised their personal goal and were rewarded the week-end trip to Idyllwild.