

The Pre-Seminary program consists of a curriculum which is designed to meet entrance requirements for graduate or professional studies in Seventh-day Adventist or other seminaries or graduate schools. This is a pre-professional program, not a major, and as such does not lead to a bachelor's degree.

Taken in combination with a major of the student's choosing, the Pre-Seminary track provides a foundation upon which to build the skills and knowledge essential to the Christian ministry; the Religious Studies major which is offered by the Divinity School is particularly compatible. Pre-Seminary students are encouraged to work closely with their assigned pre-seminary advisor in the Divinity School as well as their regular major program advisor. In addition, we highly recommend that Pre-Seminary students, who wish to enhance their pastoral skills on the undergraduate level, include in their program some or all of the "practices package" of professional courses as listed below.

Students who are following the Pre-Seminary curriculum should apply no later than the fall quarter of their senior year for the Divinity School's endorsement in their quest for denominational employment. Any such recommendation will form part of the student's "portfolio" prepared for senior interviews with prospective employers during the winter quarter. In addition, students may be required to complete a prescribed battery of tests. These are planned, along with a counseling session, to help students evaluate themselves and their call to the ministry. Each application is considered by the faculty of the department, and a letter of response is inserted in the student's portfolio.

The Pre-Seminary curriculum consists of a sequence of required and recommended courses. For more information, see below and the reverse side of this sheet. Also, please contact the Divinity School (contact information is located on page 2 of this handout).

PRE-DIVINITY

Pre-Professional Program

The La Sierra University HMS Richards Divinity School, a theological school within the system of Seventh-day Adventist higher education, seeks to integrate believing, thinking, and acting through teaching, scholarship, dialogue, and service, preparing Christian leaders for effective ministries in the church, academy, and world in which we live. The Pre-Seminary program prepares students for ministry as well as for seminary or graduate education in ministry, and may be pursued along with any desired major.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES AND RELATED OCCUPATIONS: The completion of the pre-ministerial track, in conjunction with a baccalaureate degree in a major of one's choice, qualifies the graduate for acceptance into professional programs such as seminary or graduate school. With competition strong for the limited openings in the traditional pastoral ministry, the completion of such professional training on the graduate level is an increasing requisite for successful placement. With additional education, ministers can specialize in hospital chaplaincy, or focus on teaching (with educational credentials), youth ministry, administration, or other specialized ministries.

The Bachelor of Arts in Religious Studies provides a particularly compatible complement to the Pre-Ministry track.

EDUCATIONAL QUALIFICATIONS: The successful completion of a graduate or professional degree is an increasing pattern in the preparation for pastoral ministry in the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. Ordination typically follows a period of successful ministry thereafter.

JOB OUTLOOK: Openings in the traditional pastoral ministry are limited, although opportunities continue to arise especially for those who have completed graduate/professional training. Alternatives include youth counseling, family relations, secondary teaching, and various chaplaincy careers.

SALARY: According to the California Career Resource Network, Clergy earned an average annual wage of $56,520 in the state of California during 2012. Most earned salaries ranging between $22,170 and $95,220. According to the Southeastern California Conference, Bible workers may earn $600-$1,200 every two weeks, depending on the duties assigned by the individual church.
